Prohibition Illegal! Said John D. to Henry F. Eugene Meyer, Jr., Is Able. Einstein's Threat.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE

THE COUNTRY discusses the decision of Federal Judge William T. Clark, who says that prohibition isn't legal, because the people didn't pass on it.

Judge Clark is interesting to millions of men and women, although they may not know it, for he is one of the famous "O. K. T. Clark thread" family.

Judge Clark's decision that prohibition isn't legal will be reversed by the Supreme Court, probably.

That highest court will be slow to render a decision and making illegal all that has been done during the past 10 years in the crusade that has created bootlegging, the hijacking, the shootings, the racketeering and the other features of the bootleg industry.

THE SUPREME COURT will hardly condemn everything that the national government has done in the name of prohibition at this late date.

Judge Clark, declaring that the people never had a chance to pass on the prohibition amendment, said:

"THE PEOPLE CAN'T RESPECT LAWS THEY DON'T PASS."

HENRY FORD believes in motoring, even when the weather is cold. Yesterday, on his way from Washington to Detroit, his car collided with another. It might have been serious, but it wasn't. Mr. Ford laughed, took his damaged car to the nearest Ford agency, got another car, and continued on to Detroit.

PERHAPS YOU would like to read in connection with that escape an anecdote concerning Mr. Ford's business life. Many, at present, will see a point in the story.

At a time when Mr. Ford and Rockefeller had never met, an important man from the Ford factory used to play golf occasionally with Mr. Rockefeller. The latter, deeply interested in great industrial organizations and accomplishments, sent to Henry Ford, each time he saw the Ford man, this message:

"Tell Mr. Ford to keep strong in cash, STRONG IN CASH."

MR. FORD did keep strong in cash, and once, when high finance that keeps track of things, thought it was about time to "take Ford over," it discovered that he had a nest egg of three or four hundred million dollars, and wasn't ready to be taken.

Not long ago, when Henry Ford saw John D. Rockefeller, Jr., he said:

"I owe a great deal to your father," and told this story, adding: "I took your father's advice."

HAVING GIVEN $1,000,000 to the unemployment fund, John D. Rockefeller and his son now give $500,000 more from the Rockefeller Foundation. John D. Rockefeller, Sr., in his ninety-first year, and John D. Rockefeller, Jr., in his fifty-sixth year, both in excellent health, recalls the ancient Jewish saying:

"What you give in health is gold, what you give in sickness is silver; what you give after death is lead."

MR. M'FADDEN, in Congress, objects to the confirmation of Eugene Meyer, Jr., as governor of the Federal Reserve Board, saying that Mr. Meyer would "turn the Federal Reserve System over to international financiers." That is upside down. If Mr. Meyer did any turning, he'd turn international financiers over to the Federal Reserve System.

Mr. Meyer is a first-class American, an extremely able financier. And, as head of the Federal Reserve Board, he may give to finance, and some other things in this country, a leadership that they now lack.

PROF. EINSTEIN says that if the Fascists, with their blind hatred of the Jews, should get control of Germany, he would live in some other country.

In that case, history would repeat itself.

Persecution of Jews drove many of the ablest minds from Portugual and Spain, men that could have prevented the Spanish decline into failure and superstition. Among those thus driven out were the parents of the great Spinoza.

At about the same time, the wisdom of Cromwell, welcoming Jews, helped to build the prosperity of England.

WALL STREET said yesterday: "It's a long worm that has no turning."

The Wall Street worm turned and bit the Bear, busy attacking values.

Prices went up up from 1 to 19 points. The Bear was squeezed, and didn't like it.

IT WAS SAID early in the day that the House of Morgan was preparing this experience for Mr. Bear.

However, there will be another day, since the Bear was only bitten, not slaughtered.

BIG RAIL ORDER CHEERS CITY

A spirit of optimism permeated Pittsburgh steel circles today with announcement by the Pennsylvania Railroad that it was in the market for $15,000,000 worth of rails and other equipment necessary in track-laying.

A large part of the order will be manufactured in the Pittsburgh district, according to E. W. Smith, vice president of the Pennsylvania. The rail order alone will total $8,500,000, and the attachments for laying rails will complete the $15,000,000 order, Mr. Smith said.

The policy of the mills here has been to reduce working time rather than to lay off men, so that the principal effect of the order will be seen in more working days per week in departments affected by the rail business.

Manufacturers of bolts, nuts and track supplies will also be materially helped by the Pennsylvania's order.

Commissioners Ready For Town Hall Vote

With the 1931 budget cleaned up in record time, the County Commissioners have their decks cleared for action on the Town Hall. Although County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong has declared that the hall question would be disposed of this week and County Commissioners E. V. Babcock and Charles C. McGovern have said that they are ready to vote, no time has been set for the vote. Armstrong may make a definite announcement today.

Author's Daughter Weds British Major

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Miss Patsy Jefferson Morris was married yesterday to Maj. Cyril Seys Ramsey-Hill, M. C., of England. The bride is the daughter of Gouverneur Morris, author and playwright, and Mrs. Waterbury Morris. Her husband is the son of the late John Ramsey-Hill, of England.

The ceremony took place at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs John C. Waterbury, on Park avenue.

HOOVER WINS RELIEF FUND CONTROL

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON, International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—President Hoover won an unexpected victory in the Senate this afternoon when that body reversed itself and voted to give him broad powers to interchange appropriations under the administration's $116,000,000 public works construction bill.

This action was due to a handful of Insurgents and Democrats who joined administration senators in supporting the President because of the unemployment emergency and their desire to speed enactment of the relief bill.

The vote was 42 to 39 in favor of the President.

It was Mr. Hoover's second congressional victory of the day, the House having passed a short time before the administration measure increasing the Federal Farm Board's funds by $150,000,000 for drought relief.

PRESIDENT DEFENDED

Infuriated by McKellar's charges that President Hoover failed to make a full accounting of a $100,000,000 Belgian relief fund in post-war days, the administration ranks of the Senate rallied to his defense with attacks upon his critics and praise for his handling of the unemployment problem.

McKellar goaded the Republicans into defending the President by charging for the third time that Mr. Hoover had made no accounting of the Belgian relief fund. McKellar declared the Senate should not turn over to Mr. Hoover another huge relief fund until he had made a final accounting of the Belgian funds.

U. S. Will Speed Fight to Prove Dry Law Valid

BULLETIN.

NEWARK, N. J., Dec. 18.—(AP.)—United States Attorney Philip Forman today appealed to the Supreme Court of the United States from Federal Judge William Clark's decision holding the Eighteenth Amendment invalid.

By M. L. RAMSAY, Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—The Hoover administration was moving swiftly today to avert a breakdown of prohibition enforcement and to protect the Eighteenth Amendment in the Supreme Court, at once, in what may prove the greatest popular legal battle of this century.

Despite official disclaimers of any present peril to enforcement, all agencies united in assurances and pleas designed to meet the threat of it.

Fear of a collapse of federal enforcement in New Jersey was clearly revealed in a telegram sent from Washington by District Attorney Philip Forman, of New Jersey, to United States commissioners there. Forman sought to convince them enforcement is "still effective."

DECISION NOT BINDING

In this effort he declared the decision of District Judge William Clark, of Newark, holding the amendment invalid, is not binding on other New Jersey judges "until agreement by all of them, or disposition of appeal."

Forman urged commissioners, if they disagreed with him, not to release dry law offenders, but to hold them in bail until argument could be made before them.

Prohibition Director Woodcock meanwhile exhorted Lewis J. Tutt,

STOCK MARKET EXTENDS RALLY

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—(AP.)—The stock market kept its courage today and boldly extended yesterday's gains. Many active shares advanced $1 to $4 above Wednesday's closing prices.

An interval of profit-taking just before noon ate into a morning rally but the market's answer to these sales of stock that had been bought at the recent lows was to turn extemely dull and the sequel was a resumption of the advance.

Auburn Auto ran away from the rest of the list, soaring more than $14 as hard-pressed shorts scrambled to buy.

U. S. Steel, American Can joined the procession with advances of $2 to $2.50. American Telephone was a little hesitant, but rose about $1.50.

Young Raskobs End Short Honeymoon

NORTH CHELMSFORD, Mass., Dec. 18.—(AP.)—Mr. and Mrs. John J. Raskob, Jr., returned home here tonight after a honeymoon of five days to be greeted by a large gathering of newspapermen. They went immediately to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Stopherd, where they will live.

Young Raskob, whose father is chairman of the Democratic National Committee, declined to tell where the couple had gone on their wedding journey, or what were their plans for the future.

19 Injured as Bus And Trolley Crash

CINCINNATI, O., Dec. 18.—(AP.)—Nineteen persons were injured, two seriously, when a bus skidded on an icy street today and crashed into a street car.

Thirteen injured persons were taken to General Hospital and six were sent to St. Mary's Hospital.

AVIATRIX, ILL AND 'BROKE,' RETURNS

Mrs. Keith-Miller Reports Severe Injuries in Crash, Money Still Due for Hop

The projected one-stop flight to Cuba of Mrs. J. M. Keith-Miller, which started weeks ago, ended in Pittsburgh today.

She said:

"I don't know what I'm going to do in the future. I have no ship. I hope to get expenses for the flight and what is due on my contract for flying—but I don't know.

TO DEMAND APOLOGY

"I'm going to New York tonight and demand an apology for some statements issued against me. I was promised $1,000 and expenses to make the trip, but I haven't received it.

"I don't want to seem mercenary, as I've been falsely painted before. And yet what can I do? I've nothing left."

TELLS OF CRASH

Mrs. Keith-Miller recounted again her adventures—how she started flying from Cuba to Miami and was swept off her course and forced to land on almost-desolate Andros Island; her miles of walking to a cable station; her hunger and physical suffering.

Then she painted a picture of her crack-up; how, taking off and just 50 feet from the ground, the pump feed clogged and the engine died.

She said:

"It took only a few seconds to crash, but I remember closing my lips and teeth so I wouldn't cut my tongue, and spinning the ship so it would land with some degree of safety. The joystick struck me and left me with some pain. I think I'm injured internally."

Austin Lamont Weds, Will Resume Studies

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—(AP.)—Austin Lamont, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Lamont, and Miss Nancy L. Sullivan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Amory Sullivan, of Boston and Asolo Italy, were married yesterday.

They plan to sail today for England so Lamont may continue his studies at New College, Oxford, where he is a student.

D'Annunzio Denies Reports of Illness

ROME, Dec. 18.—(INS.)—Gabriele D'Annunzio, famed Italian wartime poet and aviator, was indignant today over Paris reports which stated that he was ill. He announced he was in the best of health, contrary reports notwithstanding.

Slavery Returns, Suffrage Lost, If Judge Is Right

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

That sovereign bailiwick claims the Tenth Amendment knocks the Eighteenth for a legal twister.

That's news. We didn't know that New Jersey had caught up to the Tenth amendment yet.

If Judge Clark's decision holds, then it cancels all amendments after the Tenth article. Which means women have not got the vote, slavery is still in force, our elections are sour and the judiciary is lopsided.

Gosh, do we have to fight the Civil War all over again?

And it also means that bootlegging is illegal. And that the

WOMAN INJURED AT STORE FIRE

A woman was injured and a large plate glass window was broken today when the nozzle of a fire hose became loose while firemen were preparing to fight a small blaze in a grease flue on the roof of Donahoe's market, Diamond street near Wood street.

The woman, Mrs. J. G. Bond, of 3301 Middleton road, was taken to the Mercy Hospital with cuts and bruises. She was struck by the full force of the stream of water and knocked down after it smashed a window in the store of the A. W. Smith Company.

While firemen extinguished the blaze, business was conducted in the store as usual, customers being unaware of the fire, police said.

MORE POLICE TO COMBAT OUTLAWRY

County Safety Units Go on 24-Hour Duty; $10,000 Loot Seized Over Night

With crime rampant in the city and county, District Attorney Andrew T. Park today issued a communication to banks and business houses as to the best way to combat bandit gangs.

Park says that all units of the county safety department will be available day and night to aid in frustrating crime and running down criminals.

He advises victims of holdups and robberies to call county detectives, local authorities and state police as soon as possible, and even when suspicion of criminal intent is felt if unknown loiterers are seen in the vicinity of banks or business houses.

While police inspectors today were picking marksmen from the ranks to man special police automobiles in the city's newest drive against the recent crime wave, additional robberies, totaling more than $10,000, were reported from scattered sections.

RINGS STOLEN

Two diamond rings valued at $5,700 and $35 in cash were taken by thieves who early last night ransacked the second floor of the home of L. A. Katz, of 5829 Beacon street, according to a report to police, during absence of the family.

At the home of Mrs. Betty Bernes, 5615 Phillips avenue, thieves entered the basement and stole a trunk, wearing apparel and sample cases valued $530. At the apartment of Mrs. W. C. Smith, 5830 Alder street, the robbers got $19 in cash.

Charles Thomas, 60, reported that five men beat and robbed him of $2 at Larimer and Reiter avenues.

A suitcase containing linens valued at more than $5,000 was stolen late yesterday from the automobile of F. R. Hill, a salesman for a Chicago linen store, residing in Hotel William Penn. The car was parked in Reynolds street, between Lang and Linden avenues, according to police.

The barber shop bandit struck again last night for the second time within two days. From his latest victim, August Dordarini, of 802 Chestnut street, the armed thug obtained $15 after holding the barber at bay with a revolver.

Hoover Children Revel in First Snow

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—(AP.)—Two youngsters from California, today enjoyed the novelty of playing for the first time in the snow.

Mrs. Hoover bundled her two grandchildren, Peggy Ann and Herbert Hoover III, into a White House limousine and took them to Rock Creek Park. She showed the youngsters how to make snowballs and otherwise enjoy themselves.

County Skate Pool Opens, City's Almost Ready

The first skating of the season in the county's South Park is scheduled for tonight, with huge bonfires to keep skaters warm at rest periods.

Supt. Paul B. Riis announced today that the swimming pool had been flooded and a good coating of ice resulted, making skating possible tonight.

Skating in city parks will be permitted tomorrow if the weather continues cold as it has been in the last few days, according to James Moore, superintendent of the City Bureau of Parks.

The larger pools are Lake Carnegie, Lake Elizabeth and the lake in Panther Hollow. Skating today is permissable at the ball field in Olympia Park, Mt. Washington, and in Riverview Park, North Side.

Helen Wills Wins Place In British 'Who's Who'

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—Helen Wills Moody, California tennis star, was listed for the first time in the 1931 edition of the British "Who's Who," copies of which reached New York today.

Bobby Jones, Babe Ruth, Gene Tunney and William T. Tilden were not listed.

The entry for 1930 which listed Col. Charles Lindergh as married to Elizabeth, daughter of Dwight Davis, has been corrected and the 1931 edition records Col. Lindbergh's marriage to Anne Morrow, daughter of Dwight W. Morrow.

"Hoover, Herbert Clark, President of the United States snce 1929," as he was listed last year, appears again with the same description and there is a much shorter entry for Gen. Charles G. Dawes as American ambassador to Great Britan.

Henry Ford has a few lines in each volume, and Thomas A. Edison, whose recreations are given as lawn tennis, croquet and tennis, is featured more extensively.

Douglas Fairbanks, "an all-round sportsman going in for practically all forms of athletics," represents Hollywood, as he did last year. Charles Spencer Chaplin appears, of course, but then he's an Englishman.

Among American women listed are Jane Addams and Mary Garden, who both appeared in the 1930 edition.

J. V. THOMPSON, OUT OF JAIL, MUST MAKE SETTLEMENT

COAL BARON FREED BY ILLNESS

Court Directs Transfer of Property to Meet Claims; Works on New Land Deal

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Dec. 18.—With all prospect of further imprisonment removed by a week's stay in a front room of the residence of Warden William Wilson, J. V. Thompson again is happy in his million-dollar Oak Hill estate.

The former coal magnate was as much surprised as anyone when requested yesterday to "get ready to leave." He had little to do but don his overcoat, pick up his handbag, enter the automobile of O. Frank Ruse, clerk of the Orphans Court, and be driven to his home, a mile distant.

Sheriff Thomas Aubrey had sent word five minutes in advance of his visit for Thompson to "be ready," and he was. The sheriff lost little time getting his famous prisoner into Ruse's car and taking a back street to the pike and thence to Oak Hill.

SERVANT SURPRISED

Thompson's butler, who responded to a ring of the doorbell, was speechless with surprise at seeing his employer, but speedily began to provide for his comfort.

Thompson had hardly renewed his acquaintance with home surroundings when, it was reported, he received a visitor who brought encouragement regarding a deal for the sale of 5,000 acres of coal on which Thompson held the option.

Judge J. W. Dawson made an explanatory statement after ordering the release of Thompson. He said:

"To deprive a man of his liberty is one thing, but to deprive a broken old man of his liberty when he is suffering from two serious maladies, and at the same time deprive him of a fair opportunity to alleviate his suffering, calls for judicial clemency and a recognition of the common humanities of life.

"The fact of a commitment to jail itself without respect to duration of time would be more keenly felt by Mr. Thompson and a greater punishment to him than a long-time confinement by many another man. And, too, the humiliation would be more poignantly felt by him and the hand of the law much heavier upon him, with his weight of years and ill health, than to a younger man of good health.

ACCEPTS DOCTORS' WORD

"We accept the verity of the written reports of the doctors as to Mr. Thompson's health and conclude that under the law he is entitled to his discharge.

"We further direct that Mr. Thompson make such conveyances and transfers of muniments of title of his property to the National Bank of Fayette County in trust, however, for the benefit of the estates of John Niccolls and Emma Messmore in proportion to their respective claims."

Four physicians reported to the court that Thompson was suffering from diabetes and cataracts of his eyes which necessitated operations if his sight was to be saved. Thompson is scheduled to undergo an eye operation early in January in a Pittsburgh hospital.

MUST YIELD ASSETS

Thompson must turn over all his assets to be sold to make at least partial payments on his obligations.

Among the assets are 20 shares of capital stock of the Macfadden Publication Company, 15 shares of capital stock of the Emerald Coal and Coke Company, contracts for the purchase of 10 lots in Muscle Shoals, six acres of coal and mining rights in Marshall County, West Virginia, and 16 acres of coal in Strabane, Washington County.

The assets are not expected nearly to meet the obligations to the estates of Emma Messmore and John Niccolls.

Attorneys for the Princess of Thurn and Taxis and for the Niccolls trust fund expressed surprise when told of Thompson's release.

WHAT A CHRISTMAS! — By Quin Hall

BOARD REFUSES YULE PARDONS

HARRISBURG, Dec. 18.—(AP.)—None of the prisoners who appealed to the State Board of Pardons this month will find a pardon in his Christmas stocking.

At the conclusion of a two-day hearing, the board announced that instead of following a practice of years standing of giving Christmas pardons, it would instead grant commutations of minimum sentences so that petitioners would be under control of the new state parole system. Under this plan, the prisoner whose application is favored may, at the expiration of his minimum sentence, apply for a parole to his prison's official parole board. A prisoner who is thus released must report regularly to his parole board until the expiration of his maximum sentence.

Next month the new board will be presided over by Gen. Edward C. Shannon after he is sworn in as lieutenant governor.

Marriage Annulment Cuts Convict as Heir

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—(INS.)—A $1,000,000 estate, including valuable property in Johnstown, Pa., will not be shared in by Rubin Weller, convict. The marriage of Mrs. Ruth Cosgrove Weller, now dead, to the former ticket speculator serving a 10-year term at Sing Sing for grand larceny, was ordered annulled yesterday by Supreme Court Justice Shinetag.

The girl's first husband, A. K. Cosgrove, wealthy Pennsylvania coal mine operator, had died two months before she married Weller, leaving her an estate of more than $1,000,000.

Pittsburgh Drivers Convicted in Butler

BUTLER, Pa., Dec. 18.—(AP.)—Bryno Angelo and Felice Makrelli, Pittsburghers, were convicted of driving while intoxicated and with permitting another to drive while intoxicated.

Weather Conditions.

A disturbance is centered over Minnesota and covers the entire Lake and Plains States causing cloudy weather over most of the interior of the country and light snow over most of the Plains States. The snowfall for the last 24 hours was light everywhere, except in North Carolina and in Western Virginia, where about a foot covers the ground. The eastern high pressure now covers the southeastern states, causing temperatures to rise over the country from the Plains States eastward.

3 Drown as Storm Tears Wharf Loose

TALTAL, Chile, Dec. 18.—(AP.)—Three persons were drowned yesterday when a wharf on which they were standing was swept into the bay during a storm.

Forty persons were thrown into the bay, but saved themselves by climbing upon the debris which acted as a raft.

12 BANKS CLOSE IN ARKANSAS

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Dec. 18.—(AP.)—Loss of deposits through gradual withdrawals led to the closing yesterday of 12 banks in Northwest Arkansas. The 12 banks had deposits aggregating more than $3,000,000 at the last bank call, September 24.

The First National Bank of Harrison and the First National Bank of Eureka Springs were placed in the hands of the United States comptroller. The others, all state banks, were taken over by the state bank commissioner.

A. T. Hudspeth, of Harrison, a director of the closed American Exchange Bank and Trust Company, of Little Rock, was a director of 11 of the banks. Those closed were:

Citizens Bank and Trust Company, Harrison; First National Bank, Harrison; American Exchange Bank, Leslie; First National Bank, Eureka Springs; Bank of North Arkansas, Everton; Citizens Bank, Yellville; Citizens Bank, St. Joe; Bank of Leadhill, Leadhill; First State Bank, Marshall; Bank of Alpena Pass, Alpena Pass; Marion County Bank, Flippen, and the Bank of Pyatt, at Pyatt.

112 Million Missing From Closed Bank

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—(AP.)—The charge that $112,000,000 "disappeared" from the Bank of United States between the date of its last report on September 24 and the date of its suspension on December 11, was made before a meeting of 1,200 depositors by Max D. Steuer, their counsel, last night.

HOOVER GIVEN RELIEF FUND CONTROL

One of the high spots in McKellar's attack was the reading of a similar denunciation of Mr. Hoover in 1919 by Senator Borah (Rep.), of Idaho. He quoted Borah as saying that he objected to turning money over to Mr. Hoover because of the "manner in which he distributes his funds and carries on his business—the interested parties whom he permits to realize unconscionable profits."

M'KELLAR PROTEST

McKellar protested that Congress should allot specific sums for any building projects recommended by Mr. Hoover. He urged fullest liberality in such appropriations, but pleaded with the Senate not to give the President any "unlimited power."

Vandenberg was the first to reply. He declared he knew "nothing more futile than to tarnish the reputation of Mr. Hoover as a war administrator at this late date."

SEES APOLOGY

Glenn said he felt McKellar, upon reflection, would "make some amends or apologize to the President," and added:

"It goes not so much to the governmental views, practices or administration of Mr. Hoover, but to his character, integrity and honor. I protest against it. I'd take the same position if the President were a Democrat, because President Hoover is charged in effect with being an embezzler of public funds. That is the direct insinuation. The almost direct charge."

Glenn said McKellar's charge that Mr. Hoover failed to account for the Belgian relief fund implied a charge "that Mr. Hoover is a dishonest man and took for his own use, or allowed his associates to take unlawfully, money appropriated to feed the starving people of Europe."

The Senator Glenn shouted:

"That is a reflection on the President that I resent and deny."

RECORDS SCANNED

McKellar interrupted to explain that searches by the director of the Public Library and by the superintendent of the Senate document room had failed to disclose a final accounting by Mr. Hoover of the Belgian fund. McKellar said he believes the searches had been accurately made and that no such accounting had ever been made. Glenn said:

"The senator's attack is unwarranted, unjustified and unworthy of being spoken on the floor of the Senate."

The Illinois senator took exception to McKellar's charge that Mr. Hoover was launched on a "career of utter disregard of the proprieties in government." McKellar made this statement after charging that Mr. Hoover, as president-elect, had used an American battleship for a tour of South America without authority in law. McKeller had also told how the Presidetn used Marines to do work at his summer home in Virginia.

FARM BOARD SUM

While the argument raged in the Senate, the House, acting with remarkable alacrity, passed and sent to the Senate the bill appropriating $150,000,000 for the further operations of the Federal Farm Board.

The appropriation was requested in President Hoover's annual message to Congress.

At the same time it was revealed that in the hearings before the House, Agriculture Committee Chairman Alexander Legge made a demand for further governmental regulation of grain ex-

Blue Law Arrests Made in Grove City

GROVE CITY, Pa., Dec. 18.—The blue laws of 1794 were invoked here when five Grove City business men were notified to appear before Justice of the Peace A. W. Madge for hearing or pay the customary fine of $4 and costs for sale of goods on Sunday.

Evidence was obtained by an investigator who visited the stores Sunday and made purchases.

FAILED BANKS READY TO PAY

CONNELLSVILLE, Dec. 18.—Christmas or New Year gifts to residents of this district amounting to $334,000 in the form of first dividends of failed banks were promised today by Lloyd Litrell, receiver.

Littrell said he had sent to the comptroller of the currency for approval checks totaling $240,000, representing a 40 per cent dividend to depositors of the Union National Bank of Connellsville, and for $94,000 representing a 75 per cent dividend to depositors of the First National Bank of Vanderbilt.

They will receive the checks by Christmas or shortly thereafter, he said.

Lindsey to Answer Manning's Attack

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—(INS.)—Judge Ben B. Lindsey, former Denver jurist, who was freed of disorderly charges arising from his demand to be heard in the Cathedral of St. John the Divine after an attack by Bishop William T. Manning, will speak here Saturday evening formally answering the bishop on companionate marriage as well as on the jurist's record.

Burgess Cleared Of Girl's Charges

Charges against Burgess Carl C. Dittmar, of Ingram, were dropped today by Alderman Thomas A. Flanigan after Freda Koper, 19, of Hober avenue, McKees Rocks, failed to appear.

Burgess Dittmar said the girl was one of 11 young men and women haled before him recently and fined on a disorderly conduct charge. He knew no basis for her complaint, he said, and blamed it on a political "frameup."

HORVATH, FREE, JOINS FAMILY

iting Judge J. A. McLaughry, Horvarth thanked them and was taken home by members of the family.

Seated at the kitchen table where his wife was when she was killed August 17, he talked quietly of the tragedy. He said:

"The children are all I have left. I've got no wife and I'll never get another. My daughter, Anna, has been the mother to the family while they kept me in jail."

The members of the family are Mrs. Anna Neihl, Fred, 20; Marie, 16; Elsie, 15; Carl, 11; Louisa, 8, and Catherine, 5.

One of the East Pittsburgh patrolmen came to see Horvath. The officer shook his hand and congratulated him. Horvath said:

"I know you, my friend. I can see pretty good out of this eye. Soon I be ready for work."

The officer mumbled something about taking a rest. Horvath's name has not been carried on the police roll at East Pittsburgh since the shooting.

Dravosburg Hires Guards for Bank

As a measure to protect itself against bandits, the Dravosburg State Bank, the lone bank of the borough, has hired two policemen. Another officer will be put on next week, officials said. Chief of Police C. A. Livingston and Charles Forsythe were chosen by Burgess C. J. Carlson to guard the bank.

PARK JOINS WAR UPON BANDITRY

tively was stolen, thus far apparently were without solution. Part of the Peoy State Bank loot was recovered in a Tripoli street rooming house several days ago.

Extra guards have been employed by practically all the outlying banks to prevent additional holdups. A. C. Robinson, president of the Peoples-Pittsburgh Trust Company, parent institution of one of the two largest groups of banks in this district, declared today.

The new guards have full police powers and should give adequate assurance against a repetition of the Manchester robbery, Robinson stated that up to the present time no plans have been made to offer rewards for the apprehension of bank bandits other than the one made for the four men who staged the Manchester holdup.

Another suspect in the $2,500 holdup, December 5, of the Pittsburgh Athletic Association was being held for identification by city detectives today. He was docketed as Thomas Weir, 28, of Millgate street.

Soon after the holdup, John McKenna, 23, of 3938 Liberty avenue, was arrested and held for court in $5,000 bond after he was identified by employes of the club. Weir was to be viewed by the holdup victims today, detectives said.

100 MORE POLICE

The addition of 100 new men possibly will be Council's next move in the effort to bring Pittsburgh's police force to a war footing in the fight against constantly increasing crime.

The matter of additional police will be decided within a day or so, according to President of Council John ". Herron. Fifty regular patrolmen are certain to be added, he said, with a possibility that the number will reach 100.

Council began its work of equipping the police force to meet new demands yesterday when these requests of Clark were approved:

1. A radio broadcasting station to relay crime reports to cruising automobiles manned by police and detectives. This will cost $18,000.

2. A new fleet of 34 automobiles, 16 to be equipped immediately with radio receiving sets. This equipment eventually will be installed in other cars purchased. The cost of the cars is estimated at $22,000.

3. The purchase of 60 new motorcycles at a cost of about $30,000.

4. The supply of six new automobile patrols at $3,000 each and the purchase of a ballistic machine, costing $4,000, to identify guns from which bullets figuring in investigations are fired. Clark said murderers have escaped punishment here by lack of such a machine.

DISCUSS RADIO

Plans for the radio station and equipment for police cars were discussed in Director Clark's office this forenoon by W. B. Phillis, F. C. Millard and W. A. Wayman, representing the Graybar Electric Company which will build the station; H. L. Smith, of the Bell laboratories, Director Clark and P. P. Walsh, superintendent of police.

Phillis explained the short wave station would be powered at 2,700 kilowats, that receiving sets in cars could not tune in on any other wave length, and that sets would be interchangeable between cars with little trouble.

The Graybar company has applied to the Federal Radio Commission for permission to use the short wave.

Man Killed in Car Chased by Police

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., Dec. 18.—As an aftermath of a police chase, Alfred Gregory, 40, of East Palestine, O., employed as a pottery worker in Sebring, was killed today when his automobile overturned on the East Liverpool-Wellsville road. Clyde Booth, 35, of Sebring, operator of the car, was arrested on a charge of driving while intoxicated.

Portuguese Government Will Be Requested to Give Up Aviator as Revolt Chief

By TOMAS A. LOAYZA.
International News Service.

MADRID, Dec. 18.—The Spanish government, after crushing the Republican rebellion begun last Friday and in full control of the country despite lingering strikes in several cities involving 500,000 men, decided today to ask the Portuguese government to extradite Maj. Ramon Franco and his 11 companions.

The request will be made to Portugal on the ground that the leaders of the first aerial revolt in history seized government planes for their flight out of the country after the Madrid coup collapsed, but it was generally agreed that Maj. Franco and his companions will probably be hailed before a tribunal on charges of subversive activities in case their extradition request is complied with.

PORTUGAL "GUESTS"

Military governors, who removed civil authorities from control with the outbreak of violence and establishment of martial law throughout Spain, have reported to Premier D'Amaso Berenguer that peace and order have been restored. They did not advise the withdrawal of the thousands of troops, legionnaires and civil guards posted everywhere, however.

The last isolated disturbances following in the wake of the main Republican movement were suppressed by loyal troops and Foreign Legion regiments. They quelled outbreaks in Valencia and Burgos, where rebels and disloyal soldiers had been in control for 48 hours.

GENERALS IMPRISONED

As a consequence of the disaffection there, Gen. Riquelme, who previously commanded the garrison at Valencia, and Gen. Villabrilli, in charge at Burgos, were summoned to Madrid and imprisoned on charges of plotting with the rebels.

Federal troops captured Alicante, capital of the province of Alicante, and Callosa. Villa Joyona and Novelda, which cities for two days had been under control of rebellious troops. In various brisk skirmishes, a number of casualties were reported.

At Elde, government troops arrived at the moment when rebels were setting fire to the railroad station. The rebels were driven off, many being captured.

Minor clashes still occur frequently between civil guards and strikers in the different provinces, chiefly Barcelona, Bilboa, Isla, Cristina, Cadiz and elsewhere. A street battle between strikers and civil guards in Callosa resulted in the wounding of 30 guards and 114 strikers.

STATE LAWS SCORED AS UNFAIR

Novelist Sees Universal Act As Remedy; Blames Men For Faulty Legislation

The fourth of a series of interviews in an unusual discussion of divorce laws is published today. It presents the views of Fannie Hurst, popular novelist.

The question under discussion is whether divorce laws should be more liberal or more stringent. The series will be continued daily, presenting the views of outstanding advocates and opponents of liberal divorce.

By FANNIE HURST.

Do I believe in divorce?

Yes.

I can answer the question that way. But I must qualify at once. I do not believe in divorce the way it is practiced.

Divorce is a man-made law. And men, thus far, have failed to realize that women have become people.

When the economic and social status of women was changed—by law, the economic and social laws governing them should have been changed.

Fannie Hurst

When social existence for both men and women became so intensified, and the nervous organisms became so highly developed that the art of living together has now become the most delicate undertaking in the world, the makers of laws should have been quick to sense the change.

GENERATIONS DIFFER

In the human race, each generation becomes more sensitive. The pleasures of a half a century ago become the abominations of today. Mate a mental product of the 1860's with one of the 1930's and what must result? A dissolution of the compact.

It is unthinkable that the dissolution of that contract must be accompanied by lying, cheating, immorality and the desecration of the laws which we should be able to respect.

To me the solution must come through a universal law—a federal law which shall govern all people alike. Humanity is the same whether on Sixty-seventh street, New York, or Chestnut street, Philadelphia.

There should be no cause for divorce in Nevada that is not a cause for divorce in New York. Either it is a good cause everywhere or it is no cause at all.

WOULD SAVE RESPECT

I have heard the cry, "Save the home." It is my cry, "Save the respect of the home."

Morality is not a matter of legislation. It is almost ridiculous to contemplate an existence of compulsory propinquity. Yet, what else does the law governing divorce in New York state strive to enforce?

Supreme Court Justice Aaron J. Levy, of New York, whose opinions are the subject of the next interview in this unusual series. The interview with Justice Levy will be presented in tomorrow's Sun-Telegraph.

PINCHOT TO BE HERE MONDAY

Gov.-elect Gifford Pinchot will arrive in Pittsburgh Monday for a conference with local political leaders, Commissioner Charles C. McGovern announced today.

While the exact nature of the conference was not announced, it was expected that Pinchot would discuss the fight which he has waged on Augustus F. Daix, Jr., of Philadelphia, as president pro tempore of the State Senate, and attempt to line up local senators. Senator W. D. Mansfield, of McKeesport, is looked upon as the Pinchot choice for the office.

MILFORD, Pa., Dec. 18.—(AP.)—Citizens of Pike County are preparing to plant a tree tomorrow afternoon in honor of Gov.-elect Pinchot in front of the Milford Community House, homestead of the Pinchot family before Gray Towers, the present home, was built.

The Governor-elect will remain here the rest of the week working on his plans for his administration.

BOOK DESCRIBES CZAR'S BURIAL

PRAGUE, Dec. 18.—(AP.)—Gen. Janin, French officer who was with the Czecho-Slovak legion in Siberia in 1919, purports to reveal the location of the remains of the former Russian Czar and members of his family in a book.

The newspaper Ceske Slovo, publishing excerpts from the book, says that Gen. Janin asserts that he was given the remains of the Czar, Czarina and Czarevitch, by the Russian General Dieterich, who had preserved them with other objects of the royal family in a box and some trunks.

After various vicissitudes, Janin claims to have escaped from Russia with the remains, which he brought to France and offered to the Grand Duke Nicholas who declined to accept their custody. He then buried them secretly in his own family burial plot.

With the remains of the bodies are jewels and other ornaments believed to have been worn by the Czar, Czarina and their children when they were shot by the Bolsheviks.

BOOTLEG RADIO LAID TO TWO

Bench warrants were ordered issued in Federal Court today for the arrest of two men in connection with the operation of broadcasting stations at Jeannette and Adamsburg, Pa.

Lee Elton Spencer and Edward Tomajko, Jr., were indicted by the federal grand jury at its September session in Erie, for broadcasting without operators' licenses, and for using an unlicensed station between March and September 1930.

Department of Justice agents said the men are operating stations WOOP at Jeannette, and WGM at Adamsburg.

According to the indictment, the stations were operated on various wave lengths ranging from 830 to 840 kilocycles, and interfered with stations WLF, Crete, Ill.; WABC, New York; WMMM, Fairmont, W. Va., and KWKH, Kennonwood, La.

Assistant United States Attorney Lloyd Bryan was named as prosecutor in the action, the first of its kind ever brought here.

Husband May Hire Wife, Ruling Holds

HARRISBURG, Dec. 18.—(AP.)—A wife may be the employe of her husband and as such eligible for compensation under the provisions of the workmen's compensation act, Commissioner Joseph E. Fleitz ruled today, dismissing the appeal from an award to Mrs. Jennie Nesbit, of New Castle, who lost her right hand while employed in her husband's store and meat market.

German Fascists Shoot Communists

KREFELD, Germany, Dec. 18.—(AP.)—Fascists returning on trucks last night from an out-of-town meeting fired shots into a group of Communists, wounding four persons. At Koenigsberg a number of windows of the city hall were smashed by unemployed Communists.

Oliver Estate Wins $67,000 Tax Refund

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—(AP.)—An over-assessment of $67,843 in taxes charged the estate of John C. Oliver, Pittsburgh, was announced by the commissioner of internal revenue.

The allowance was granted as a credit for the payment of a similar sum in state inheritance tax on the estate. Of the total, $5,224 was refunded and the balance abated.

Slayer of Family Gets Death Penalty

HAMILTON, O., Dec. 17.—(AP.)—Charles King, 39, convicted of the murder of his son Robert, 14, and indicted for the slaying of his wife, Mrs. Ethel King, and three other children, was sentenced by Judge E. J. Kautz to die on April 7.

LONDON, Dec. 18.—(AP.)—The biggest "Tommies" are getting smaller. The Grenadier Guards have reduced height requirements to 5 feet 11 inches and the Coldstream Guards to 5 feet 8½.

Wilson's Birthday To Be Commemorated

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—(INS.)—Plans were made today for a public dinner to commemorate the seventy-fourth anniversary of the birth of Woodrow Wilson to be held December 28 under the auspices of the Woodrow Wilson Foundation.

Newton D. Baker, secretary of war in the Wilson cabinet, will be one of the speakers.

Injured Boy Invited To Hoover's Feast

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 18.—(AP.)—Tommy Watson hopes to accept an invitation to dinner Christmas Eve in the White House. He is a brother of Mrs Herbert Hoover, Jr., and is in a hospital as the result of loss of a leg in a street car accident.

REBELS VICTORS IN GUATEMALA

GUATEMALA CITY, Dec. 18.—(AP.)—Guatemala had its third government within a week today after an hour of brisk fighting in the streets of the capital Tuesday afternoon in which 57 persons were killed or wounded.

The new president is Gen. Manuel Orellana, who says he will serve only until Gen. Lazaro Chacon, the elected president, has recovered from a severe illness. Baudilio Palma, who was designated to succeed Gen. Chacon by the Council of Ministers last week, is understood to be a refugee at the German legation.

Among those killed in Tuesday's fighting was Gen. Mauro De Leon, minister of war, and first designated as an alternate to succeed Gen. Chacon in the event of his incapacity. Col. Filiberto Aguilar Bonilla, a member of the personal duel in which both fired at the same time.

The city and country are quiet and it is believed that completely normal conditions will be restored by tonight.

Baby Abandoned In Sight of White House

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—(INS.)—If President Hoover looked out his window last night he would have seen a small bundle lying on the doorsteps of the house at 12 Jackson street which is within full view of the White House.

Others noticed the little bundle of blankets lying there in the snow, but Edward Danner, first to observe the blankets move found a baby girl, three weeks old, its hand and feet bitter cold.

Danner, who is chauffeur for Mrs. Violet Blair Janin, occupant of the house, had the baby taken to Children's Hospital. Police are searching for the mother.

JAPAN, SOVIET CLASH ON BANK

TOKIO, Dec. 18.—(AP.)—The Soviet authorities today closed the Vladivostok branch of the Bank of Korea, sealing all books, documents and valuables, and ordering the bank to pay 2,600,000 rubles (about $1,300,000 nominal value) "duties."

The action follows the compulsory examination of the branch bank's books last summer when the Soviet government accused it of carrying illegal exchange transactions.

A Japanese foreign office statement today makes clear that the government takes strong exception to the Soviet action.

The Foreign Office declares that the government "will not hesitate to adopt determined steps," if it is proved that the Soviet action will affect the Japanese fishery rights secured by treaty, if they are satisfied that the bank has not acted illegally, and if it is found that members of the bank's staff were kept in detention or punished.

GREENE, U. S. SENATOR, DIES

ST. ALBANS, Vt., Dec. 18.—(AP.)—Vermont today mourned the passing of Frank L. Greene, her senior United States Senator. He died at a hospital here yesterday after an operation for hernia Monday.

Two sons, Stuart, of Boston, and Capt. Richard Greene, U. S. A., stationed at Fort Sill, Okla., were en route here today.

Senator Greene's wife and daughter, Mrs. Harris Alexander, were at his side when he died. He had been partially paralyzed since 1924 when he was struck by a stray bullet fired in a gun fight between bootleggers and prohibition agents in Washington.

He was born here February 10, 1870, the son of Lester Bruce Greene, for some time secretary and treasurer of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers. In 1891 he became a reporter for the St. Albans Daily Messenger and eight years later was its editor.

In 1902 he entered politics as a member of the Vermont House of Representatives. He served as a delegate-at-large to the Republican National Convention six years and in 1912 was elected to Congress. He entered the Senate in 1923.

Funeral services will be held Saturday. Burial will be in St. Albans.

2 Americans' Deaths, Murder and Suicide

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, Dec. 18.—(INS.)—A verdict of murder and suicide was returned today at an inquest at Umtali, Southern Rhodesia, into the deaths of Dr. R. L. Magoon, well-known American dentist and big game hunter, and his wife, formerly of Oregon. Investigation revealed that Dr. Magoon killed his wife and then committed suicide. Dr. Magoon had lived in Africa for almost 15 years. The couple were married only a month ago.

2 Ships Missing In Black Sea Storm

MOSCOW, Dec. 18.—(INS.)—A terrific cyclone raging over the Black Sea and coastal points today had paralyzed all port and shipping activities and endangered a number of vessels.

The Burma and Ateno, German and Italian respectively, tore loose from their anchors in Odessa Roads and were swept out to sea. Nothing has been heard of them since.

Chief Warns Of Christmas Fires

Warning against holiday fire hazards were issued today by Fire Chief Richard L. Smith, who stressed particularly the danger from flimsy Christmas decorations on trees and in other parts of the home.

Parents and friends of children are asked not to give toys that require combustible fuel. Candles and ornaments that will burn are taboo in the fire chief's advice.

Store owners, whose places are crowded at this season, are asked to use especial care in keeping their premises free from waste materials.

WALES SUFFERS FROM CHILL

LONDON, Dec. 18.—(INS.)—Seized with a sudden chill while preparing to leave for a shooting expedition in Windsor Great Park, the Prince of Wales was ordered to rest today and all his immediate engagements canceled.

The Prince was ready to leave his residence, York House, when he complained of feeling ill. His equerry immediately summoned Sir Stanley Hewitt, physician-in-ordinary to the royal household, who was one of the doctors who collaborated in bringing King George back to health after a serious illness two years ago.

Sir Stanley advised the heir to the throne to cancel all his engagements for the next few days and take a complete rest.

One of the Prince's equerries informed International News Service that his indisposition was not of a serious nature.

Workers in Iowa Give Wages to Idle

DAVENPORT, Ia., Dec. 18.—(AP.)—All employes of at least 25 Davenport business firms have agreed to donate thir wages for one day each month during the winter for the relief of unemployed here.

William Heuer, finance chairman for the unemployment committee, said the donations already total close to $30,000.

Riviera Gamblers End 'Soup-Fish' Rule

NICE, France, Dec. 18.—(AP.)—It is no longer necessary to have "soup and fish" to lose one's money. Regulations requiring dinner clothes for admission to sundry places along the Riviera where one may speculate on the spinning wheel and the like have been abolished.

Coolidge Sees Spain's Trouble in Autocracy

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Dec. 18.

To the Editor of The Sun-Telegraph:

The world will be relieved at the reports indicating Spain is not to be involved in the catastrophe of a revolution and civil war. Although her jurisdiction over them has long since been lost, there are still many lands with many people who speak her language, follow her customs, look to her for cultural inspiration and regard her as the mother country. In that sense she still rules a great empire. Once she was the foremost power of the world.

Calvin Coolidge

It is difficult to determine why a people of so much ability, character and refinement could not hold their place. While many causes contributed, probably their chief weakness was the inability to cultivate and maintain the art of representative government. Failing that, they came under the influence of autocracy.

That appears to be the present trouble. The people have liberty and desire self-government, but they have no constituent assembly at hand experienced and strong enough to voice their requirements. The result is disorder and dictators. They will accomplish their reforms permanently only through an independent legislative body. The creation of true representative government took hundreds of years and many struggles among English-speaking people. It cannot be improvised.

CALVIN COOLIDGE.

COUNCIL HEARS PLEA FOR BLIND

Council, in its budget session yesterday, heard representative Mathew A. Dunn, who headed a delegation of blind persons, appeal for a $50,000 appropriation for the Pennsylvania Educational and Benevolent Society for the Blind. Dunn and other speakers attacked the Pennsylvania Association for the Blind, which has been getting $35,000.

Dunn said any money his association received would go to the needy. He charged that this is not the case with the Pennsylvania Association for the Blind. Almost 50 blind adults are soliciting on the streets, he said, out of a total blind population here of 750. Council delayed action on the request.

The acquisition and planting of Oazam's Hill, Fourth Ward, was urged by a delegation from the Fourth Ward League of Women Voters, headed by Mrs. Waldo Amos.

Council ordered $50,000 set aside for the construction in West Park of the Soldiers' Monument removed from Monument Hill. On the advice of the Department of Public Works, the work is to be done by contract. A contract for the base of the monument is to be let immediately.

Doll Lady Takes Larger Quarters to Meet Rush

Dear Little Girls:

I am always glad to see Christmas coming, but somehow or other I regret that it is so near this year. Only a week away and here I am working from early morning until late at night in an effort to make every little girl happy before the most precious of all holidays arrives.

I have plenty of wonder "Tickletoes" dollies on hand, but I am taking no chances. The doll makers are still working day and night getting out new "Tickletoes" so that I will be absolutely sure of having enough for the rush that is going to come during the next six days.

That takes a lot of worry from my mind because I don't want to have Christmas Eve come along without knowing that every little girl, who has done what I have asked her to do, has her "Tickletoes."

The crowds of little girls already rushed to come in and get the dollies they had earned became so big during the last few days that I had to change my headquarters yesterday from the Sun-Telegraph Building to 613 Grant street, just around the corner from my original headquarters.

There is still time for little girls to get "Tickletoes" for a playmate before Christmas, but no time must be lost in sending in the coupon so that I can write to you and explain just what you will have to do.

In the meantime it doesn't seem really necessary to tell you much about "Tickletoes" because I have described this adorable doll so often in my daily letters. It is enough to say that she is nearly 20 inches tall, is unbreakable, has sparkling eyes that open and close, cries with three voices, has rubber arms and legs, plays with her toes, clasps her hands, can sit down like a real baby and she's dressed in organdy with stockings and slippers to match.

Yes, Tickletoes is really a wonder doll and you'll fall right in love with "Tickletoes" the minute you see her.

Here are the names of some of the little girls who have written to me within the last three days:

Marie Devin, Laura Gray, Sara Pittler, Dorothy Beck, Ruth Ayers, Annie Collier, Norma Cole, Marjorie Crooks, Eda Kline, Elsie Merry, Elsie Cook, Dolores Zeppel, Jane E. Langhead, Betty May Rowles, Betty E. Taylor, Kathryn Carroll, Betty Lou Schultz, Mildred Turker, Marjorie Higgins, Marguerite McLaughlin, Helene Anderson, Lillian Hunter, Thelma Young, Catherine Benny, Edith Higginson, Rita Manion and Viola West.

Write to me today and I'll send you a letter telling just what you have to do to get "Tickletoes" for a playmate. Goodbye 'til tomorrow.

Girl Hunger Striker Breaks Week's Fast

WESTON, W. Va., Dec. 18.—(AP.)—Clarice Wilmoth, 19, ended her self-imposed "hunger strike" of more than a week today at the Lewis County jail, where she is a prisoner, Sheriff David E. Brown said. The girl was arrested at Camden, W. Va., on a bad check charge and is awaiting grand jury action.

PLAN TO CALL HALL MEETING

North Side Town Hall leaders today prepared to call a public mass meeting if county commissioners failed to fulfill their promise of making a Town Hall site selection this week.

Plans were underway whereby failure of action as promised by the commissioners would result in a mass meeting being held in the North Side Carnegie Music Hall, probably on December 29, according to Secretary J. J. Kassouf. Voters will be called upon to demand immediate selection of a site, he said.

Declaring the people had ordered the commissioners to build them a Town Hall by their approval of the bond issue, Kassouf said:

"There is no reason for further delay. The money has been voted. It is the commissioners' duty to fill the people's order. Sites have been suggested and there is no excuse for evading the issue."

2 DIE IN SOUTH'S HEAVIEST SNOW

ATLANTA, Dec. 18.—(AP.)—The South's heaviest snow of the season, which reached a depth of 30 inches in North Carolina, was being erased today by the combined efforts of public agencies, householders and a feeble sun.

Two deaths were traced indirectly to the cold flurry. A heart attack was fatal to George Wilson in Durham, N. C., as he struggled in the snow to get a group of children to school. An automobile skidded on a white-blanketed highway near Cherilton, Va., killing Mrs. Mary Anne Birch.

Snow-laden roofs of six buildings in North Carolina collapsed, but there were no injuries. Heavy rains and gales with a maximum velocity of 52 miles an hour buffeted Cape Hatteras, Manteo and Cape Henry, Va. A snowfall of 15 to 18 inches forced the closing of schools in Patrick County, Va., and in Rutherfordton and Forest City, N. C.

B. & O. APPOINTS OFFICIAL HERE

C. H. Pumphrey, assistant to the vice president in charge of traffic of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad at Baltimore, has been named freight traffic manager in Pittsburgh, the company announced.

He entered the service as messenger in the general offices at Baltimore in 1901. After passing through various positions he was made general clerk in Philadelphia in 1920, a few months later being appointed district freight agent in that city.

He has served in similar capacities in Youngstown and Louisville. He was appointed assistant to the vice president in 1926.

Publisher's Wife Dies After Blast

DALHART, Tex., Dec. 18.—(AP.)—Mrs. I. D. Devine, wife of the publisher of the Times at Texhoma, on the Texas-Oklahoma line near here, died today of injuries received when the newspaper plant was wrecked last night by an explosion, which officials said was due to an accumulation of gas.

Burdice Smith, of Hemphill, Tex., a printer who was working on the newspaper, was believed fatally injured. Devine was hurt, but not seriously.

Three Held as Thugs Who Robbed Woman

GREENSBURG, Pa., Dec. 18.—Three men arrested by state police near East Monongahela today were identified as the thugs who held up and robbed a woman and her son in Elizabeth, Pa., of $200 last week, according to the officers. They gave their names as Joe Meyers and Orville King, of Gastonville, Washington County, and George Hayes, Memphis, Tenn. They were being detained for a further checkup.

'Mrs. Santa Claus' Files Divorce Suit

CHICAGO, Dec. 18.—(AP.)—"Mrs. Santa Claus" is in the Divorce Court.

Her real name is Mrs. Carrie Budd, and she charged in an application for divorce, filed in Superior Court, that her husband, John, was so annoyed when she put on the red and white garb and whiskers to amuse their children, that he struck her. Incidents of this nature on five successive Christmas Eves were alleged.

Bankers of State To Meet at Shore

MILTON, Pa., Dec. 18.—(AP.)—W. Walter Wilson, president of the Pennsylvania Bankers' Association, announced that the 1931 convention of the organization will be held in Atlantic City, May 13 to 15.

Pet Dog Suffocated As Home Is Burned

"Tipsy," the pet dog of Mr. and and Mrs. Thomas Holmes, was suffocated today when flames damaged the Holmes home, 4 Soeffel street, South Side. The dog was alone in the house. Damage was estimated at $2,000.

Ex-Secretary Held In Check Fraud

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—(AP.)—Helen Delaney, 28, and former secretary to Raymond Brooks, wealthy mining engineer of New York and Brookdale, Conn., was held up for a grand jury on allegations that she appropriated between $30,000 and $60,000 of the engineer's funds. The engineer's wife brought a specific charge of forgery, asserting that Miss Delaney raised a $729 check, erased the name of the payee and inserted her own.

Safe Alcohol Rule Effective Jan. 1

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—(INS.)—The government's new formula for denaturing alcohol in a non-poisonous way will become effective on January 1, it was announced today by Dr. J. M. Doran, chief of the alcohol division of the treasury.

The new formula will put into a gallon of alcohol one per cent aldehol and 1¼ per cent alcolate. The mixture has been described as giving a taste like garlic and rotten eggs.

Minor Part Wins Contract for Star

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Dec. 18.—(AP.)—Marion Shilling, lead leading roles in two motion pictures, but it was her outstanding work in a minor part in a third which won her a long-term contract with Paths today.

The diminutive brunette actress came from the stage a year ago to take the lead in "Lord Byron of Broadway" and play ingenue in "On Your Back." She dropped to a small part in "Beyond Victory," but her striking performance brought the long-term offer.

Lives 35 Years After Falling 1,000 Feet

INDIANAPOLIS, Dec. 18.—(AP.)—An invalid for 35 years because of injuries he received when he plunged 1,000 feet from a balloon after a parachute failed to open at Peru, Ind., Jesse F. Harrell, 56, printer, died here yesterday.

Sixty bones were broken, and physicians gave him six hours to live. Harrell came to Indianapolis and established a printing business.

RULE PROHIBITS GAS STATION

Judge James H. Gray, of Common Pleas Court yesterday reversed the Board of Adjustment which granted Philip Goodman a permit to erect a gasoline station at Beacon street and Murray avenue and revoked the permit. He decided the board exceeded its authority. Samuel Perris who owns adjoining property within 60 feet of the site objected to the board granting the permit and appealed from their decision.

The board decided that under the zoning law, Goodman was within his right to build the station for the reason that Perris was 80 feet away, that the latters consent was not necessary and therefore his contentions were not applicable to the case. The court, however, decided that "80 feet is 80" feet and as Perris was within 60 feet of the property and had not given his consent, in accordance with the requirements of the law, the board was in error.

SUES OVER COAL LAND DEAL

B. F. Hoffacker has filed suit in Common Pleas Court against the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation to collect $118,104 with interest from 1925, representing the balance alleged to be due on an oral agreement to buy certain coal lands.

Hoffacker avers that in 1925 he brought the company's attention to certain lands in Brook and Ohio counties, in West Virginia, which could be purchased for $120 an acre, amounting to around 5,600 acres. The company, he avers, agreed to take 2,606 acres. Hoffacker took title to 1,940 acres, for which was paid $175,781. This transaction was made prior to February 1, 1925.

Under the oral agreement, Hoffacker claims, the company should have taken 665 acres additional, but refused, notifying him it had purchased all the lands it desired.

Why should you let housework spoil your hands?

YOU ask any beauty editor. Look in the magazine and newspaper articles. You'll find "Vaseline" Petroleum Jelly recommended all the time to keep the hands soft.

Follow the advice of those people who know. Apply "Vaseline" Jelly to your hands at night and wear old cotton or silk gloves. When you manicure your nails, wrap a little cotton around a dull orange stick, dip it in the Jelly and work back the cuticle.

These two easy things will make a world of difference in the looks of your hands. We all have to wash dishes, and dust furniture, or pound typewriters or work in gardens. But our hands need not advertise the necessary toil to the world. Lay in a store of "Vaseline" Jelly and use it freely. Get a jar today just for your own personal use. Don't delay.

RULES 18TH AMENDMENT INVALID

JUDGE WILLIAM CLARK
The Newark federal judge who ruled that the Eighteenth Amendment to the Constitution is invalid because it was improperly made a part of the Constitution. He ruled so in the case of Sprague, 35, Wantage (N. J.) farmer arrested with 50 half-barrels of beer in a truck.

WILLIAM SPRAGUE

U. S. TO SPEED DRY FIGHT

Jersey deputy administrator, to "carry on" and not to be "discouraged." Woodcock denied having sent any word to other administrators. He declared:

"I did not think instructions necessary."

Reports pouring into Washington told of official uncertainty and speculation, and of lawyers' efforts to take advantage of the Clark decision.

EASY APPEAL

Attorney General Mitchell, deeply stirred, announced that a short cut method of appeal will be used to take the Clark decision before the Supreme Court without delay attendant upon going through a court of appeals. The highest tribunal in the land will be asked also to advance the case on its docket, to insure a prompt final decision.

Congress and the Hoover administration meanwhile were thrown into a ferment of doubt and speculation by the unexpectedness of the assault from the federal bench on the constitutional amendment that gives national prohibition its whole existence.

They saw in it almost boundless possibilities of influencing the outcome of the next presidential election and shaping the future of the Republican and Democratic parties.

These possibilities were little diminished by the fact that the liberals' hope of sustaining Judge Clark's decision in the Supreme Court is admittedly no more than a hope. In an inflamed state of public opinion, and with the questions of public policy to be raised so broad, argument of the case was considered of epochal importance, regardless of its outcome.

LIBERALS HERE HAIL DRY RULING

Prominent Pittsburghers who have been working for repeal or modification of the dry laws expressed satisfaction over the opinion of Federal Judge William Clark, Newark, N. J., in declaring the Eighteenth Amendment invalid.

Asked if he believed in test cases of a similar nature in Federal Courts throughout the country, Attorney Arthur M. Scully, active in the fight to liberalize the dry laws, said:

"I do not favor such test cases. The New Jersey action furnishes a case in point and I believe it would be better to allow this to go to the United States Supreme Court for a decision, which would have as much effect throughout the nation as decisions on any number of like cases."

Judge's Ruling on Dry Law Praised by Attorneys; Legal Points Raised

International News Service.

NEWARK, N. J., Dec. 18.—Application for permission to appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States from the decision of Federal Judge William Clark, holding prohibition invalid, may be filed with Judge Clark in Newark today by United States Attorney Phillip Forman.

Forman, prosecutor in the case in which Judge Clark made his decision, on returning here from a conference with officials in Washington, said he would apply to Judge Clark today for permission to appeal the ruling if the application could be prepared in time, and if not he would ask permission on Friday.

He said the case would be taken directly to the Supreme Court without placing it before the Circuit Court of Appeals.

A declaration that they eagerly looked forward to defending the decision of Judge Clark was the reply of counsel for William Sprague, The New Jersey farmer in whose case the ruling was made. To the announcement that the decision was to be speeded to the United States Supreme Court.

SIGN STATEMENT

Former Justice Daniel F. Cohalan, of New York, Selden Bacon, Julius Henry Cohen and Frederic M. P. Pearse, all signed a statement in which they analysed the decision and commented on it as follows:

"Judge Clark's decision stands out as a courageous reaffirmation of Lincoln's 'Government of the people, by the people, for the people, shall not perish from the earth.' To to voices of Hamilton, Madison, and Wilson, of Pennsylvania, which he freely quotes, he has added with great erudition the voices of modern writers on the science of government. In consequence we have an opinion which is supported not alone by legal precedent and legal thinking, but supported by the best exposition of modern times on the science of government in the United States.

MORE LIES WITH U. S.

"The question thus presented in one court is likely to be presented in others. For the moment the next move lies with the government. The United States attorney has already announced his intention of appealing. Now there can be no doubt that the question will come before the Supreme Court, where we shall present our arguments in full.

"The fundamental question involved is that expressed by Chief Justice Marshall in the following words: 'It is the creature of their will, and lives only by their will. But this supreme and irresistible power to make or unmake resides only in the whole body of the people, not in any subdivision of them. The attempt of any of the parts to exercise it is usurpation, and ought to be repelled by those to whom the people have delegated their power of repelling.'

DECISION ANALYSIS

"The decision of Judge Clark is rich in learning and scholarly research. From the lawyers' point of view, however, its chief value lies in the decision of certain definitive legal propositions.

"First: He decides that the questions raised by defendants' counsel in the Sprague case have not been passed upon by the Supreme Court of the United States.

"Second: He decides that Congress has not an arbitrary and unrestricted right to select the method of ratification of a constitutional amendment.

"Third: He decides that the convention method of ratification is the only method that could be applied to a proposal like the Eighteenth Amendment.

"Fourth: He decides that the Eighteenth Amendment involves the grant of powers over the people of the respective states as to intrastate matters which could only be given by the people through conventions and not by legislatures.

FUNDAMENTAL QUESTION

"Fifth: He agrees with counsel that this is a fundamental question of constitutional government and goes to the root of our American system, and in this respect the proposition involves a much broader question than the policy involving the Eighteenth Amendment.

"Sixth: He brings sharply into relief the issue of federal usurpation of powers which are essentially within the control of the people themselves and are within the reserved powers of the people.

"Seventh: Defendant's counsel argued that Article 5 did not grant an arbitrary and unrestricted choice to Congress to select the method of ratification of amendments to the Constitution. Judge Clark goes farther than counsel for the defense and finds support for their views, not only in the historical and interpretative citations on the Constitution, but he invokes the fundamental principles of political science that should govern the whole system of American government as embodied in the United States Constitution.

GOVERNMENT LIMITED

"Eighth: Judge Clark makes it clear in his exhausive and learned opinion that where there is a federal form of government such as ours there are necessary limits thereto. Under our system the limitation upon the functioning of any branch of the federal government is found in the constitution itself. Up to the time of its presentation in this case, the importance of the provision in Article 5, dealing with ratification by constitutional conventions instead of by legislatures had never been presented as it has now been presented. While Judge Clark has not accepted in toto our reasoning in regard to the effect of the Tenth Amendment, it is wholly consistent with his opinion.

"Ninth: He further points out that the function exercised by Congress in selecting a mode of adoption of a constitutional amendment in an exercise of an adminstrative function which the courts are competent to review."

Colby Lauds Clark Opinion As Constitutional Aid

Universal Service.

Bainbridge Colby, former Secretary of State, wrote the following article for Universal Service, commenting on the decision of Federal Judge William Clark, invalidating the Eighteenth Amendment.

By BAINBRIDGE COLBY.

One of the first effects of Judge Clark's decision is that the Constitution of the United States takes on, at once, a pleasanter and more friendly aspect. Perhaps, after all, the Constitution has the inherent capacity to successfully resist efforts to distort its true character and purpose. Perhaps, after all, it is what we were taught that it is—the framework of our government; a definition and an allocation of powers, and not to be used by Congress as an instrument or vehicle of legislation.

HITS DRY ACT ONLY

The court holds that the Eighteenth Amendment was not constitutional; that while Article V of the Constitution provides for the ratification of amendments "by the legislatures of three-fourths of the several states or by conventions in three-fourths thereof," only the latter mode of ratification is valid where the proposed amendment transfers from the people of the states additional powers to the federal government.

As to other and previous amendments of the Constitution, the court points out that they involved no transfer of additional powers to the federal government, but were concerned with such questions as the election of presidents and of senators; changes in the judicial and taxing powers of the federal government, limitations upon the power of the United States and limitations upon the power of the states.

CAREFUL STUDY SURE

Judge Clark's opinion is replete with historical as well as legal learning and is well worthy of the careful study which it is certain to receive.

It is interesting to observe that notwithstanding the exhaustive arguments on the law before the United States Supreme Court 10 years ago, the point now adjudged seems not to have been presented. This fact, it seems to me, justly reflects great professional distinction upon Judge Daniel F. Cohalan, Seldon Bacon and Julius Henry Cohen, who argued the New Jersey case for the successful defendant.

Dry-Nullification Judge Scion of Camerons

HARRISBURG, Dec. 18.—(INS.)—Judge William Clark, of the U. S. District Court at Newark, N. J., who startled the nation with his decision on the unconstitutionality of the Eighteenth Amendment, is a member of a Harrisburg family long prominent in state and national affairs, it was disclosed today.

Judge Clark is a great-grandson of Simon Cameron, secretary of war and United States senator, and a grandson of J. Donald Cameron, also a United States senator and secretary of war.

Judge Clark is well known in Harrisburg, where he has several relatives.

Candles

For Holiday Tables

Candles bring back the old-fashioned spirit of Christmas with their mellow light and flickering shadows. Candles on your table, at your windows, on your console tables are as much a part of Christmas decorations as the holly wreath.

Non-drip candles in 10, 12, 14 or 17-inch sizes may be had in red, green, orchid, rose, yellow, and blue, priced 10c each.

The red and green non-drip 10-inch candles are priced $1.00 a pair.

The heavy, thick candles are 25c each.

Cathedral type candles are 75c pair.

Other candles, decorated with holly, rose-bud or orange blossoms (for the holiday bridal table) are priced from $1.00 to $1.50 pair.

HEROES OF SEA PROMOTED

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—(AP.)—Two captains, heroes of thrilling sea rescues, won promotions yesterday.

Capt. A. B. (Rescue) Randall, credited with saving 294 lives in midocean in four dangerous situations, will take over command of the United States liner Leviathan, world's largest ship.

He will be succeeded on his present vessel, the George Washington, by Capt. George Frind, of the liner America, himself a hero in two gallant rescues.

Capt. Randall, in addition to taking command of the biggest liner will become commodore of the United States Lines' fleet.

During the World War he navigated convoys. Between gales on January 2, 1920, he transferred 274 passengers, including women and children, from Army transport [illegible] Pacific to his own ship.

Capt. Frind commanded a ship carrying supplies during the war. His first sea rescue was in 1923, when his vessel stood by the disabled British freighter, Antinoe, for four days and saved 25 men. In 1929 he went to the aid of the Italian freighter, Florida, and rescued 32.

Show Leopard Kills Boy, 4, Owner Held

OLTON, Tex., Dec. 18.—(AP.)—Charles Howard, a showman, was indicted by a grand jury here on a charge of negligent homicide in connection with the fatal injury of James Ervin, 4, by a leopard at Littlefield November 15.

The leopard attacked the Ervin child while it was on display in a drug store. The alleged offense is a misdemeanor, punishable by a year in prison or a fine not to exceed $1,000.

Gold Mine Vault Blasted, Robbed

DENVER, Dec. 18.—(INS.)—Dynamiting a steel doorway to a treasure room carved out of solid rock, a gang of thieves stole 16 hundred-pound sacks of gold ore, said to total from $2,000 to $5,000 in value, from the underground treasury of the Ibex mine at Leadville, Col., authorities here revealed today.

The Ibex is one of the most famous of the old Leadville mines.

Philanthropist, 82, Gives Song Recital

Love and Honey Belie Names In Lawsuit

CHICAGO, Dec. 18.—(AP.)—Love and Honey came into the life of Harry Somerfeld, but apparently he objected to their manner of arrival.

Elmer Love and Hascraft Honey were in Love's car when it collided with Somerfeld's. All three men alighted Somerfeld testified:

"Love hit me in the jaw, and Honey kicked me."

He asked for $20,000, but the jury thought $5,000 would be enough.

ARCHDUKE WILL SEEK DIVORCE

BUDAPEST, Dec. 18.—(INS.)—Divorce proceedings are impending between the Archduke Albrecht of Hapsburg, one-time pretender to the Hungarian throne, and the former Mme. Jerome Rudnay, beautiful divorced wife of a Hungarian diplomat, it was learned today.

This development in the runaway romance of the Hapsburg scion and the attractive divorcee followed the failure of Cardinal Serendy, Primus of Hungary, to obtain a Vatican annulment of Mme. Rudnay's first marriage.

It was reported that the former Mme. Rudnay has consented to a divorce with alimony. The proceedings were said to have been instigated by Archduke Otto, head of the House of Hapsburg, and his mother, the former Empress Zita of Austria.

Movie Admission One Toy for Needy

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Dec. 18.—(AP.)—This city's unfortunate children will have plenty of toys to gladden Christmas Day. A motion picture house is sponsoring a performance at which the admission charge will be one toy. The collected playthings will be distributed to children of needy families. Louisville's firemen also are aiding the cause.

Lindy Sees Half-Day East-West Air Mail

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—(AP.)—Col. Lindbergh expects that in a few years a letter can be mailed in New York in the evening and be delivered in San [illegible] the next morning. He made a prediction in a speech at a conference on aeronautic regulation.

BOMB DAMAGES CHICAGO PLANT

CHICAGO, Dec. 18.—(INS.)—Dozens of families were shaken from their beds early today by a black-powder bomb which exploded at the plant of the General Outdoor Advertising Company, doing estimated damage of $5,000.

The bomb was planted on the outside of the building and tore a hole in the base of the structure. Windows in shops, stores and residences for a block around were shattered. No one was reported injured.

'First White House' To Make Way For Garage

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 18.—(AP.)—The Powel mansion, considered one of the foremost specimens of colonial architecture and often spoken of as "the first White House," is to be torn down to make way for an open air garage.

During the revolutionary era the structure was the scene of many social events. Its living room has been transplanted entirely to the Metropolitan Museum of Art, New York, and its drawing room is in the Philadelphia Art Museum.

The building has been vacant for 25 years.

MOWLES URGED FOR PEN JOB

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—(AP.)—Appointment of Henry J. Mowles, of Selins Grove as warden of the new Federal Penitentiary at Lewisburg, Pa., has been recommended by Judge Albert W. Johnson, of the Pennsylvania Middle District Court, to Sanford Bates, director of Federal Prisons.

Mowles, who has been probation officer of the Middle District Court for several years, appeared with Judge Johnson in Bates' office at the Department of Justice. Bates said he would give Mowles consideration among other applicants in selecting a warden for the penitentiary, bids for which are to be opened soon.

If That Jersey Judge Is Right--

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

boys are charging us too much for the stuff.

It's a terrific decision. But just as good as the one made in the Sharkey-Schmeling fight.

The whole thing started over a small order of fifty kegs of beer.

It doesn't revolutionize the saloon industry in Jersey. Business will go on as usual during alterations.

That's another tangle for Washington, which has just chopped $30,000,000 off drought aid and has instructed its committee to pray for rain.

Now let Judge Clark hand down another decision compelling the bootleggers to give us half our money back.

Prof. Einstein touches lightly on our overcapitalized shores. But refuses to tour New York City.

Don't blame the professor.

We know too much for him.

He's got a lot of theories batting around. Strange to say, we begin to understand them. The professor must be weakening.

Now, his first theory is a pip. It's on the relativity of space.

It means you can always crowd one more passenger into the back seat of a Ford.

The theory on the relativity of space has nothing to do with minature golf courses. They don't use space there.

His second theory explains the first. That's what gets us so confused.

The second is on the relativity of time. That means if you have a dinner engagement with your wife's folks in your own home, the relativities are never late. And also bring their little relativities with them.

The professor's third theory about bending a sunbeam is rather revolutionary.

You might bend an old, worn-out sunbeam. But you cannot warp a fresh laid sunbeam. Why doesn't the professor go in for tree-sitting on a scientific scale?

His fourth theory is the duke. He claims he can carry millions of quinine pills on an ordinary table knife and use a parrot's cage as a reserve tank.

That's what science does for you. It makes you discover a lot of things that should only be thought of in a paper hat.

But the professor must be very intelligent. He teaches school; has won a lot of prizes and the reception committee never sends him home when his knees are bassy.

We admire intellectual giants in America. Not only for their wisdom, their character and their modesty, but also because they are too timid to compete in the alky racket.

We don't blame Prof. Einstein for being leery about landing in New York.

He hasn't got any theory that will take him across Fifth avenue at Forty-second street during the rush hour.

SEEK CAR TRACK ABANDONMENT

Application by the Pittsburgh Railways Company to abandon one of its two tracks in Water street between Smithfield and Wood was heard by Commissioner Ray Shelby of the Public Service Commission. The track is part of a two-way system and has not been used since the city put a one-way rule on the street.

The city soon is to start repairing the street, according to testimony offered, and the company seeks to abandon the track rather than go to the expense of shifting it. The eastbound track will continue in use.

The railways company presented a petition for temporary vacation of one of two tracks on Shore and Allegheny avenues, between Manchester boulevard and Reedsdale street.

Runaway Truck Kills Merchant

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., Dec. 18.—(AP.)—Robert Shade, 60, a merchant, was killed near Glengary as a truck ran away on a hill and overturned. Shade, pinned beneath the machine, was dead when extricated.

Poor Box Robber Gets 1-Year Term

CHICAGO, Dec. 18.—(AP.)—Alleged to have robbed a church poor box, John Doel, 50, was sentenced to a year's term in the House of Correction.

In Dark 70 Years, Town Installs Electricity

BANNOCK, Mont., Dec. 18.—(AP.)—After 70 years of groping about at night in the faint glow of candles and oil lamps, the citizenry of this early-day Montana capital has emerged from the shadows.

A 50,000 power line to supply current to mines in this vicinity made available the brilliance of electric lights.

VOTE MACHINE APPEAL LOST

Judge Frank P. Patterson today dismissed exceptions filed by Francis S. Guthrie to the opinion upholding the County Commissioners in granting a contract for voting machines to the Poole Engineering and Machine Company, of Baltimore. The contract calls for $1,000,000 worth of machines.

The commissioners contended they had given the contract to the "lowest and best bidder;" and Guthrie sought, by injunction, to void the contract, claiming another concern had the best machines and was better able to fill the contract on time.

Judge Patterson's opinion was concurred in by Judge James R. Macfarlane and H. H. Rowand.

RAIDERS SEIZE BREWERY, STILL

A wildcat brewery in Ross Township were raided by prohibition agents last night.

In the raid on the alleged brewery in Benton avenue, Ross Township, 800 gallons of beer mash and 600 gallons of beer were dumped and equipment destroyed, according to the agents. John Bernhardt, 47, was arrested and later released on his own recognizance, it was reported.

A 150-gallon still and 2,000 gallons of mash were discovered in a dwelling in Orchard street, Brightwood, Bethel Township, where, agents said, Lorenzo Finazzo, 35, was arrested.

GIRL, BROTHER, SLAYERS, FREED

COLUMBIA, S. C., Dec. 18.—(AP.)—The gates of the state prison swung open here for a brother and his sister who entered it as "lifers" nine years ago when still in their 'teens, following their conviction of the slaying of their father.

In September, 1921, Ira Cook, who was 17 at the time, and his sister, Mamie, but 15, were convicted with their mother of the murder of their father, Sellers Cook.

Acting on recommendations of the trial judge and solicitor, Gov. Richards has suspended their sentences during good behavior.

IT is not too late to order a new Suit or Overcoat for Christmas. You will find here patterns and qualities and workmanship that your tailor might experience difficulty in attempting to duplicate, even at much higher prices. Husband, Son or Father would feel mighty good to receive an order for a Suit or Coat at Paulson's.

CREAMY SMOOTH

Crisp Cracker your family likes

You know that big round tin box on your grocer's counter... filled to the brim with those plump, round, appetizing biscuits? They're the ones we're talking about... Colonial Malt Milk Crackers, the kind that can't be copied! That creamy smoothness, that taste-tempting flavor, are original with the Colonial Supreme Bakers. And they've made Colonial Malt Milk Crackers such a big seller in town that we have to supply them to the grocer fresh from the oven in big tins for you to buy by the pound. A wonderfully healthful biscuit for growing children... and for grown-ups, too. Keep a supply on hand.

3 BANKRUPTCY BILLS FILED

Involuntary bankruptcy petitions were filed in Federal Court against two retail druggists. One was against W. M. Simpson, trading as Simpson Pharmacy, with stores at 7606 Forbes street and 1826 Wood street, Wilkinsburg, in which three alleged creditors filed claims aggregating $13,-286.62. The other petition was against Harry D. Strauss, trading as St. Clair Pharmacy, 901 North St. Clair street. Three petitioners filed claims totalling $1,294.34.

A voluntary bankruptcy was filed by S. Paul Ritchey, trading as S. P. Ritchey Motor Company, Washington, Pa. He listed his liabilities at $41,627.95, of which $40,013.68 was classified as secured claims, and assets were listed as $2,695.39.

Sues for Shock Over Horse In Auto

TECUMSEH, Neb., Dec. 18.—(AP.)—Alleging that his automobile was wrecked when his neighbor's horse plunged into it, and that he himself suffered shock and nervous strain, Charles C. Diggs has filed suit for $1,200 against Charles R. Jeffery.

The horse, Diggs averred, was not injured.

ESSAY WINNERS GET AWARDS

The 2,602 school pupils who won certificates of merit for their essays in the fourth annual traffic contest held by the Better Traffic Committee, will receive their certificates today, Walter Rosenbaum, chairman of the education sub-committee, announced. The distribution is taking place in 139 public and 49 parochial schools.

In addition to the certificates it was said that 94 cash prizes were also being distributed.

BILLET FREIGHT RATE ASSAILED

Charging that haulage rates for iron billets from Midland and Pittsburgh to Ivanhoe and other points are "excessive and unreasonable," the National Forge and Ordnance Company yesterday filed complaint here with the Public Service Commission.

Witnesses for the forge company told Commissioner Samuel Walker it had been paying both railroads $2.53 per gross ton between the points in question on iron since August 1, 1927. The rate should not have been more than $2.90 per gross ton, the complainant contends.

California State Will Stage Play

HOME PLANNED FOR SPINSTERS

YORK, Pa., Dec. 18.—(INS.)—Plans for the opening of a million dollar home for spinsters of Pennsylvania were discussed here by Harry E. Duncan, treasurer of the Habit Home Corporation, through which the last wish of the late Miss L. Gardner will be gratified.

The home will represent an investment of nearly $1,000,000, Duncan said, the accumulation on a $300,000 estate left by Miss Gardner on her death 146 years ago.

Under the terms of here will Miss Gardner left her estate to be devoted to establishment of a home for elderly unmarried women of refinement, whose incomes will not permit their living in circumstances to which they have been accustomed. The home will be open to Pennsylvania women 50 years of age or older who have never married. An admission of $1,000 will be required of applicants, who thereafter will have a home for life.

Bitten by Dog, Man Justified In 'Cussing'

CHICAGO, Dec. 18.—(AP.)—If a dog bites a man he is justified in "cussing" a bit, even though he is overheard by two ladies at women at a bridge party, Judge Eichman decided in passing on the case of Neal Dorland.

Dorland explained that it was his left leg that was bitten and that Caesar, the dog, was the property of the bridge hostess, Mrs. Marie Hager, who was also the complaining witness.

Schwab, Bethlehem Seek Cuts in Tax

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Dec. 18.—Representatives of the Bethlehem Steel Company of Johnstown, and of the Charles M. Schwab estate at Loretto, made application to the Cambria County Commissioners for a reduction in the assessed valuation of the properties. A $2,000,000 reduction was asked by the steel concern.

WESTINGHOUSE NAMES ALLEN

Election of Claxton E. Allen as commercial vice president of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company was announced today by F. A. Merrick, president.

Formerly manager of the Southwestern district for the company, Allen's new office will be in East Pittsburgh. He will report to W. S. Rugg, vice president, in charge of sales.

Mr. Allen

Allen's duties will extend over the domestic appliance division and other divisions serving the household market, jobbing outlets and other outlets as may be developed. He has been with the company since 1909.

Allegheny Eagles Will Hold Benefit

A benefit card party will be given by the Allegheny Eagles tonight at their nest, Stockton and Sherman avenues, North Side. John F. Wallace, president, heads the committee in charge.

2 TAKE DEATH LEAPS IN N. Y.

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—(AP.)—Max Jagerman, owner of a chain of grocery stores, jumped to his death from the 30-foot platform of the West Side elevated line opposite the Cathedral of St. John the Divine. An executive of Jagermen's company said he had been depressed over business conditions.

Mrs. Beatrice Ginsberg, wife of a wealthy silk merchant, died in a plunge from a window of their thirteenth floor apartment in Central Park west. M. J. Ginsberg, the husband, said she had suffered a nervous breakdown six months ago.

Find Auto, Seek Brookline Man

Recovery of the automobile W. H. Eyman, of 1243 Brookline boulevard, was driving when he disappeared Sunday, today spurred the search being made for him by the Missing Persons Bureau. His car was found at South Eleventh and Muriel streets. He is five feet, nine inches tall, weighs 145 pounds, and was wearing a dark blue suit, and a dark blue flannel shirt. He also wore white gold glasses.

Mr. Eyman

LOANS TO NEEDY MADE POSSIBLE

Pittsburgh, through the Family Welfare Association, will receive $2,400 of the national $100,000 fund to be loaned without interest to deserving families in amounts from $10 to $50, it was announced today by the Beneficial Industrial Loan Corporation.

Miss Eleanor Hanson of the association, said that her organization was to dispense the fund. The object is to help those who, not wanting charity, are pressed at the moment for small amounts to carry them.

SANCTION ASKED FOR CROSSINGS

Approval of four grade crossings in Allegheny and Washington counties was asked of the Public Service Commission here yesterday by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

The crossings, recently planned, are on the railroad's right of way on Wallace road, Snowden Township and McKinley road, Snowden Township, both in Allegheny County, and Gastonville Station, Union Township, and another 1,100 feet west of the Gastonville station, both in Washington County.

Stomach Sufferer 60 Years of Age Relieved at Once

"I used ACIDINE as directed and found it to do all you claim for it," says M. A. Funk, of Riverton, N. J. "I am 60 years of age and had been bothered with acid, fermentation and gas in stomach. I had tried everything without results. ACIDINE gave me relief at once."

Almost everyone who takes ACIDINE raves about it. More than two million packages have been sold. It's absolutely amazing the way this new prescription succeeds when other known remedies fail.

ACIDINE is the only known remedy which contains Japtazer, that in laboratory tests, digests 600 times its weight of certain heavy, starchy foods which cause trouble. It neutralizes burning acids, soothes irritated stomach linings, stops gassy headaches, sleeplessness and nervousness. No other known remedy contains this combination to end acid stomach. ACIDINE also fortifies you against colds by enriching acidity.

Get ACIDINE today at your druggist. Watch how quick acid indigestion, burning stomach, belching, pain, heartburn, dizziness, fullness, sour breath vanish. Eat, drink all you want. Maker refunds money if not delighted.

DENY WIFE NEW DIVORCE TRIAL

Mrs. Mary J. Winter, West Bellcrest avenue, Brentwood, who sued her husband, William J. Winter, for divorce and was refused by Judge George V. Moore, was denied a rehearing of the case.

Judges A. B. Reid and Sylvester Stowe reviewed the testimony and yesterday made the order setting aside the request of the libellant. The couple wed in 1893 and separated in 1929. In refusing the divorce some time ago, Judge Moore decided he could not accept the testimony of the libellant's witnesses as to cruelty and indignities. Judges Reid and Stowe decided that Judge Moore could not be overridden unless it was shown the court had erred in his conclusions.

1,000 UNION CAB DRIVERS ELECT

Nearly 1,000 taxicab drivers cast ballots at the election of officers of the Union Cab Drivers Local No. 453 in their headquarters, at 527 Fifth avenue, yesterday.

The new officers are: President, Michael Burns; vice president, Percy Allerton; recording secretary, Samuel Martin; secretary-treasurer, John Starkhouse; business representative, Fred Schaffer; trustees, Robert Herd, Thomas Love and Samuel Richards, for three, two and one-year terms respectively.

Peter V. Day, president, did not seek re-election, leaving the fight to a contest between Burns and R. Smith.

TOUR WINNERS READY TO SAIL

There are five restless, excited girls in Pittsburgh today eagerly looking for a change from cold winter weather to the balmy climate of the semi-tropics. These are the girls who won the de luxe trips to Bermuda, all expenses paid, in the Paris-Bermuda contest recently conducted by the Sun-Telegraph.

Miss Anita Nydes, who won the Paris tour, arrived in that city yesterday and will not sail for home until December 31.

The five girls who won the trip to Bermuda—Marion Evans, Agnes Rita Carroll, Jean Eisenberg, Sarah Jane Shapiro and Jean De Blasio—leave for New York on the Iron City Express from the Pennsylvania station tonight and sail for Bermuda at 5:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon on the Munson Line SS. Pan America. These girls have de luxe cabin accommodations, will arrive in Bermuda Sunday morning and will be special guests at the Fraserali, one of the most beautifully and charmingly located hotels on the islands.

Then comes eight days of sightseeing, sea bathing, golf and tennis, all of which has been carefully arranged for in advance.

They will sail for home Monday, December 29, arriving in New York Wednesday, December 31 and reaching Pittsburgh on New Year's day unless they elect to stay in New York for a day or two.

LYDIG JEWELS GO ON SALE

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—(AP.)—The jewels of the late Rita de Alba de Agosta Lydig were on view today in an auctioneer's showcase and will be sold next week at auction. Most of them are imitations.

Mrs. Lydig, toast of two continents whose fragile castilian loveliness inspired artists, died last year. The former wife of W. E. D. Stokes and Maj. Philip Lydig knew the auction block in her own lifetime. In 1913 ill health forced her to sell antiques and paintings from her town house, and in 1927 she saw other effects sold to pay creditors of her bankrupt estate.

Since her death the executors of her estate have been disposing of the rest of her belongings piecemeal. A few months ago her luxurious furs were sold.

Film to Depict Wilson Life Events

Motion pictures showing the highlights in the career of the late Woodrow Wilson will be shown free to the public Sunday, December 28, in Carnegie lecture hall. The pictures will be presented as part of a memorial to the war president under the auspices of the Democratic organization and friends of the wartime president. That date is the anniversary of his birthday.

Age 44! Woman Tells How She Lost Useless Fat

Why will people be fat—Is it because they never heard of Kruschen Salts—and the Kruschen way of losing fat—and at the same time gain in activity—energy—ambition—and keenness of mind?

Let me tell you how I did it—I took one-half a teaspoon of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water before breakfast every morning—didn't miss a morning.

Nothing hard about that—is there? And best of all it's inexpensive—for a bottle of Kruschen Salts that lasts 4 weeks costs but 85 cents at any drug store in the world. Not much to pay for freedom from fat slavery and to make yourself feel years younger.

Those happy women from various States tell how many pounds they lost with Kruschen.

Montana—19 pounds in 4 weeks—North Carolina—47 pounds in 3 months; Kentucky 24 pounds in 31 days; Wisconsin 11 pounds in 4 weeks; Ohio 10 pounds, no time stated; New York 14 pounds with one bottle—Men can do the same.

FOOD DEALERS WARNED

Food dealers in Pittsburgh are being warned by state officials that all cold storage poultry must be plainly labeled. Special attention is being given to the quality of foods on the market in order to kgep impure products away from the Christmas dinner table, according to E. P. Jones, general agent for the State Bureau of Foods and Chemistry.

The sale of pork shoulders under the name of "California hams" is against the state law, and dealers doing this are liable to prosecution, Mr. Jones said. It is considered deception to call anything ham but the hind quarters of the hog.

The sale of cold storage eggs for fresh eggs is also being checked. Some dealers have been seeking to mislead the authorities by treating eggs in oil.

State men are also investigating the use of oleomargarine in the sandwiches in box lunches. The law states that this product is not to be sold in any form except in bulk or under its own name.

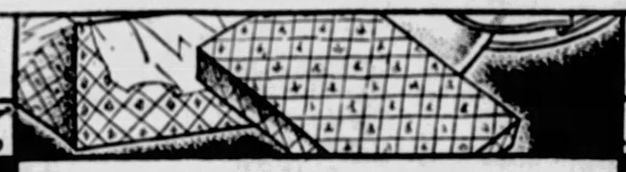
Things Electrical

GIFTS SHE'LL APPRECIATE



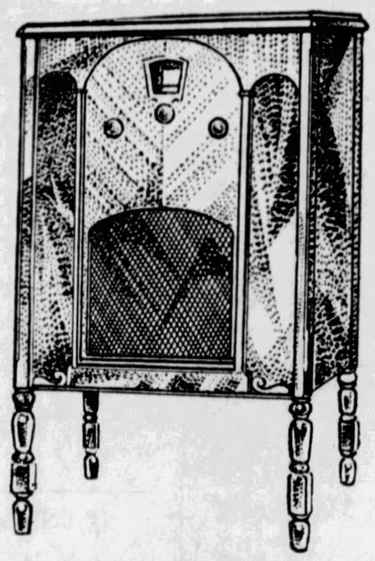
Electric Percolator Sets are more attractive this year than ever before. Finished in bright, durable Chromium, and of smart, modern design they are certain to be popular gifts.

She will like a Vacuum Cleaner, and particularly when she experiences the utmost ease with which it picks-up every speck of dirt. It is a gift of convenience and easier-housework.

WHILE you're in that searching mood for Christmas gifts with a yen for something different and yet decidedly discreet in price, may we guide your footsteps in the direction of your nearest Electric Dealer?

He is showing a very smart assortment of modern electric appliances that are certain to say Merry Christmas for you in a real way. And be sure to select appliances of standard quality, for only then can you be sure that you are giving gifts capable of rendering long and satisfactory service. In presenting "something Electrical" you can be confident that you have chosen the best way to extend best wishes . . . gifts of lasting remembrance through many years of usefulness.

Visit this Gift-land, at your Department Store or Electric Dealer, where the "things Electrical" are certain to be the things you'll want to give, and get. You'll find the prices right, and the terms most attractive.



An Electric Radio is a sure way to make merry on Christmas morning. And, the new models have many improvements. Treat them to a real musical surprise . . . a present of entertainment that will last for the days and months to follow.

A decided favorite for that all-family gift list is the Electric Toaster. A varied selection is offered . . . automatic, non-automatic, one and two slice size. The finish, is in Chromium or Nickel.

A good-time-keeper is certainly a welcome gift in any home . . . and especially when it is an Electric Clock. There is no winding, bother or attention, and it is right on the dot always.

ELECTRIC LEAGUE OF PITTSBURGH

A non-profit organization interested in the sale of useful and dependable electric appliances of high quality and long service; and the protection o the public from the sale of sub-standard electrical goods.

Father Rescues Son From Burning Home

TUNNELTON, W. Va., Dec. 18.—(AP.)—Awakened by smoke, Edward Wiles fought his way through flames sweeping through his home, and rescued his wife and son, Everett, 17. The blaze, destroying the Wiles home, spread also to the home of Frank Hart, destroying it also.

MUSIC, MYSTERY, DRAMA OFFERED ON RADIO TONIGHT

The Loudspeaker

By LOUIS REID

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—Radio announcers have not provoked barber shops to any great outcry. Is it because they interfere with the chatter of the barbers?

Not many songs of roses and violets appear to be written today. Once they were as numerous as lizzies about town.

Tin Pan Alley's latest tribute to a river is "Moonlight on the Colorado." Wonder why the Hudson has never been glorified in song? Or the St. Lawrence?

Strange, radio doesn't find a regular schedule for Groucho Marx and Ed Wynn. And Bobbe Clark. Of all the mad ways there are the maddest.

Broadcasters Might Lead Reid to 'Mike'

The broadcasters, too, might fasten their covetous eyes on John Reid, Jr. And let him air his observations on the gaga generation that is forever and futilely going places and seeing things.

Russian programs are almost as common on the air as jazz bands. All that is needed to put the Slavic stamp on a program is one of the hundred balalaika orchestras playing around New York, a few vocalists from the Volga—there are hundreds of these also in New York—and the more plaintive folk songs from the steppes.

There are several dance bands which do better with Stephen Foster than with the most lyrical of Hollywood's prospectors. It only goes to show that Foster is saxophone proof, just as he is banjo-and-fiddle proof.

Of all the great dramatists of history, Ibsen comes best out of the radio hopper.

The most persistent user of the expression "Thank you" on the microphone is Mal Edward Bowes, of the Capitol Theater.

The maestros, fortunately, have had but little time for the clumsy lyric, "The Verdict Is Life With You."

Practically every kind of a race has been put on the air save that between a tortoise and a hare. Trying to get excitement out of such a race would be a test for any announcer.

The microphone mahatmas are now just behind the ship news reporters in reaching the lips of those visiting celebrities whose names are known at every crossroads.

Of all world figures outside America who have talked on the radio Einstein, MacDonald and Marconi have been heard most during the past year.

Colleges Still Frown Upon Crooners

College faculties are still withholding their sanction from those students who prefer crooning to calculus, a baton to biology. The faculties would better place crooning and maestroing upon a recognized plane, since now they offer not only wider social opportunity but greater financial rewards than football or bondselling.

We Now Present

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor.

Ruth Etting tiptoes to the radio footlights at 6 o'clock on WCAE, creating a little thunder from M. Rudy Valley . . . "Pearls," a thrilling jewel mystery on board a trans-Atlantic liner, is "The First Nighter" drama on KDKA at 6:30 . . . this series has the best signature of any mystery tale yet put on the air, the weird honking of a taxi as it threads its way through Broadway traffic to and from the imaginary theater. . . . Herbert's "Rose of Algeria" holds the KDKA spot at 10:15 . . . and, of all things, Al Jolson's "Sonny Boy" turns up as a solo by Oliver Smith in the WCAE offering at 9:30.

RADIO FAREWELL

A request last night on Father Cox's relief program came from Father John P. O'Reilly. The request, "Oh, How I Miss You Tonight" was meant for his many friends in McKees Rocks whom he leaves, after nine years of labor among them, for duties in his new appointment as assistant pastor at St. Anselm's, Sewickley.

Edmund B. (Tiny) Ruffner—six feet, seven inches—is the tallest man in radio. He announces Willard Robison's Orchestra over KDKA every Thursday night at 9:30.

* * *

Although he must have been a better target than the average man, Tiny went through the World War without a scratch. He started in radio with Alois Havrilla.

QUESTION A DAY:

In that submarine broadcast not long ago, did the male quartet sing from the submarine or on the shore? This will settle an argument.—T. W. L.

Answer—Two male quartets on the decks of two different submarines, 150 yards apart, sang a favorite ditty of their branch of the service, "Any Gossy Submarine is Home Sweet Home to Me." Earphones and inter-ship communication made possible their long distance "harmony."

LITTLE CINDERELLA

Baby Rose Marie, radio's child prodigy, earns $100,000 a year—and lives in an East Side tenement, just across from a big city ash dump, writes Alma Sloan Scarberry, a former columnist of the Pittsburgh Chronicle Telegraph. Alma is ordinarying the lives of radio people. Baby Rose Marie cannot read or write. She has learned to spell her name from the electric lights in front of a theater. Her father is an Italian who once drove a truck. Her mother is Polish and worked in a restaurant until her marriage. The Baby's right name is Rose Marie Mazeppa. She's soon to be heard over the radio again from New York, where she's bound now to help celebrate Christmas with kiddies of the tenements.

"BY THE WAY——"

Julia Sanderson and Frank Crumit are to be heard in Pittsburgh through WCAE starting Tuesday, January 6 . . . George Jessel, stage and talkie star, takes part in the WJAS Radio Follies tomorrow night at 10 . . . Adoption of police radio by Pittsburgh was first proposed by this department a year ago . . . At that time the idea was approved by Director Clark and Supt. Walsh, but funds were lacking . . . Police radio is now in force in Detroit, Chicago and a few western cities . . . Mme. Schumann-Heink is to sing "Silent Night, Holy Night" on KDKA this Sunday at 8 . . . Bill Munday has been selected to cover the Washington State College-Alabama game at the Tournament of Roses in Pasadena, New Year's afternoon . . . WCAE is to be the Pittsburgh station . . . Phil Thorn, WJR announcer got his start at KDKA writing short sketches in pioneer days.

During certain hours every week John Cicero, the Oakland barber, contributes his bit to the times buy cutting the hair of children whose fathers are unemployed.

William Pfarr

Yesterday an 8-year-old boy stood outside the shop, hesitant. The state of his clothes indicated his needs and the length of his hair was evidence that he hadn't enjoyed a haircut in months.

"Come in," Barber Cicero invited. "Have a haircut for nothing."

"Aw," the boy explained, "I can't. My father's working."

The heartiest laugh which has been heard in Carnegie Hall in many seasons can be credited to the spontaneous acting of 3-year-old Don Battist, son of the music teacher, and 4-year-old Betsy Prendergast, son of Ed and May Prendergast.

Don and Betsy took part in a Christmas pageant at Carnegie Hall a few nights ago. They played the parts of angels.

They had gone through their lines better than adequately and were gracefully bowing their way off the stage when both spied Don's mother, Mrs. Eleanor Battist, in the front row.

Their stage ambitions forgotten, their neat bows neglected, they both rushed to the footlights, hopped off the stage and into Mrs. Battist's arms.

We might as well maintain the important tone of this column by uttering a few plebian words about the difficulty of opening a window on such cold days as these. The window in question is just two feet removed, and it slides. It won't stay put. But necessity is, according to the gossips, the mother of invention, and we have met the situation. (Line for Winchell: It's a boy at the Necessities!)

We slide books under the window to allow an avenue of air. Cold yesterday, for instance, we found that the thin, uninteresting volume, "My Pilgrimage to Coue," was fat enough. On the Fourth of July we used Funk and Wagnall's Desk Standard Dictionary, a sizeable volume, and in the autumn we relied for the most part on "A Desk Book of Idioms and Idiomatic Phrases."

"Quiet Street," the new best seller, thus far has been a failure, so far as we're concerned. It is of 344 pages, much too thick for December. Not so, however, with the "Autobiography of Mother Jones," a neat thing of just 242 pages—not too thick for a nipping day, not too thin for a breezy afternoon. If it gets any colder we're going to use our bankbook.

Paradox: Henry Auslander, real estate man, was closing a deal. His client was in London. Auslander telephoned him over the trans-Atlantic system. This was part of the conversation:

Auslander—"How's the weather in London?"

Client—"Great! The sun's shining and it's warm. How's it in Pittsburgh?

Auslander (truthfully)—"Foggy."

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal. Dec. 18.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

One of the best things I heard of, and it might be copied everywhere, was done by Uncle Josephus Daniels and his Raleigh News and Observer. North Carolina and Duke University had played a tie game, and there was a big demand for them to play a benefit game, but the Southern Conference rules forbid (that's one thing about a conference, they want to keep the dough in the conference). Anthony McKelvin of the paper got the idea of having a mythical game, selling tickets, all charity and no football. Well, it went great. You would be surprised how many people will pay not to see football. So why not sell charity tickets all over for a synthetic Notre Dame-Alabama game.

Will Rogers

COUNTY BUDGET MILLION UNDER 1930'S

PLAYHOUSE SENT TO WARD HOME, BIGELOW BOULEVARD, BY EDWIN GOULD, NEW YORK

HARRY BURKHOLDER (LEFT) AND BOB KENNICK, BOTH 5, LOOKING THROUGH LATTICE

Good times for every youngster at the Ward Home for Children, boys as well as girls. The house has been set up indoors. Mr. Gould, the donor, is president of the active Gould Foundation, which annually does widespread good among the children of the New York district.

PRESENT TAX MILLAGE STANDS

Hope of Lower Levy Dashed By Jobless Relief Despite Board's Expense Slashing

The County Commissioners were getting back to normal today after a three-day session of pruning the 1931 budget figures.

When it was all over they had succeeded in cutting from a proposed budget, $840,054.37 lower than last year's appropriations, the sum of $555,820.83. The final appropriations amounted to $12,431,170.64, or $1,395,874.83 less than those for 1930.

Any hope that these savings might result in adoption of Commissioner Charles C. McGovern's proposal of a one-mill cut in the county tax were dispelled, however, when the necessity of meeting the $600,000 emergency fund for unemployment relief was remembered.

BOND PAYMENTS HIGHER

Higher bond payments due during 1931 were also expected to cut a big hole in the savings effected.

At the end of the budget sessions, the 1931 tax millage was set at the 1930 figure. Residents of the city will pay 8 3-8 mills or 83.75 cents for each $100 of valuation, while residents of the county outside of Pittsburgh will pay 9 7-8 mills or 98.75 cents for each $100 of valuation.

According to the division of the millage taxes, more than half of the 83 cents per $100 that Pittsburghers pay to the county in 1931 will go for interest on the bonded indebtedness or into sinking funds for redemption of bonds. The tax is 46.25 cents for every $100 valuation.

INSTITUTE LOSES

Outstanding features of yesterday's slicing and paring, were:

Refusal of $15,000 appropriation for Carnegie Institute, despite the telegraphed protest of President Samuel Harden Church and pleas of members of the institute's board of directors. The appropriation has been matched by the Board of Education and City of Pittsburgh in the past.

Slashing of $169,359 from the budget of the County Department of Works. Part of this slice took $60,000 from 60 miles of unimproved road owned by the county.

Discovery of $63,440 on North Park's list, of $107,344.69 on that of South Park, for improvements, for which money had been appropriated during 1930. Amputation followed.

KEENAN, POLICE HERO, DIES

John M. Keenan, 57, for 23 years a member of the police department, died early today at his home, 1812 Davis avenue, from pneumonia. He had been ill since last Friday. Keenan won commendation in police circles about six months ago when, singlehanded, he entered a room in a downtown hotel and arrested four members of a drug store bandit gang, the last of whom recently received long prison sentences. The policeman had been attached to Central Station 11 years.

He was born in the Woods Run district, and joined the police department of old Allegheny, being taken over with other members when Allegheny and Pittsburgh were merged. He was a member of St. Francis Xavier's Church, Fraternal Order of Police, Eagles and Ancient Order of Hibernians. Besides his widow he leaves a son, Thomas F. Keenan; three daughters, Mrs. Margaret Murphy, Alice and Anna May Keenan, and a sister, Mrs. Mary Burns.

McIntyre to Speak On Traffic Aspects

Future aspects of the street traffic situation and the manner in which the City Traffic Bureau and the Better Traffic Committee is planning to cope with it, will be discussed by City Traffic Engineer Lewis W. McIntyre before the Reserve Officers' Association of Pittsburgh tomorrow at noon in the Chamber of Commerce.

City-County Water Repair Contract Let

Director of Public Works Edward G. Lang has announced the letting of a contract for replacement of water lines and other appurtenances in the hot water system of the City-County Building. The contract went to Moss & Blakley Plumbing Co. with a bid of $13,750, less than half the estimated cost.

Husband Silent Weeks, Woman Tells Court

Alma D. Oliver, 116 Sixth street, McKeesport, seeking divorce on grounds of desertion, testified her husband, Richard D. Oliver, would not speak to her for weeks at a time. She told her troubles to Judge Joseph M. Swearingen.

The couple, married in 1923, has three children, who are in the custody of Mrs. Oliver. She informed the court her husband apparently was tired of married life and the responsibility of keeping up a home.

VICTIM OF GAS RECOVERING

Overcome by gas in his room in the Nixon Hotel, 16 Smithfield street, Leon F. Devault, 23, of 117 Sixth street, Morgantown, W. Va., was reported recovering in the Allegheny General Hospital today.

Police revived him with inhalators after he had been found unconscious late yesterday. He registered at the hotel Tuesday night.

Confectioner Fined In Liquor Charge

Thomas Kanavy, 50, proprietor of a confectionery store at 2337 East Carson street, was fined $50 by Magistrate John J. Sweeney in South Side Police Court this morning, following a raid in which a small quantity of moonshine liquor was reported confiscated in his place of business, police testified. Kanavy was charged with keeping a disorderly house.

Mrs. Asia K. Perrin, Crafton, distributed her $11,500 estate among her six children and named her sons, F. R. and Lea B. Perrin, executors.

OFFICER ON BAIL IN ATTACK CASE

Patrolman Joseph Fahey, of 1329 Penn avenue, reporting to the South Side Police Station, is at liberty under $2,500 bond, pending a hearing before Justice of the Peace Margaret Morgan, of Sewickley, on a serious charge. Constables are searching for another man said to have aided the officer in an alleged attack upon Miss Margaret Duffy, 19, of 1108 Madison avenue.

The information against the patrolman was preferred by Mrs. Rose Steele, of the Madison avenue address, in behalf of Miss Duffy, her sister, who is said to be a patient in a hospital as a result of the alleged attack, said to have occurred September 11. The patrolman will be arraigned for a hearing Tuesday night.

Inspector Dennis Hennessey, of the South Side station, said he would take no action to suspend the patrolman until the matter is officially brought to his attention.

LIGHTING HELD AID TO SAFETY

R. E. Simpson, of the technical research department of the Travelers Insurance Company, addressed a joint meeting of the Illuminating Engineering Society, the Engineering Society of Western Pennsylvania and the Western Pennsylvania Safety Council last night in the William Penn Hotel. He discussed the benefits of proper illumination in prevention of accidents in home and shop.

He said that, while proper lighting in a factory cannot be called a guard, or tool, it nevertheless partakes of both in its relation to the control of accidents.

Woman Driver Sued For $25,000 Damage

Mrs. E. L. Brandt, who, it is held, was hurrying to Ohio, October 11 last, and drove her car into one driven by Mrs. Ida May McClairn, injuring the latter, has been sued for $25,000 damages for personal injuries. It is alleged by the plaintiff that Mrs. Brandt was driving carelessly, causing also considerable damage to the McClairn car.

Police Recover Watch Lost 15 Years

A watch lost or stolen 15 years ago was in the possession of the pawn department of the city detective bureau today.

With its recovery in a downtown pawnshop, Detective Howard Forner began a search for J. F. Bickerstaff, who, when he reported his loss, April 29, 1915, lived at 148 South Main street. Bickerstaff could not be found at that address, Forner said.

BOYS FACE FAKE CHECK HEARING

Accused of passing bogus checks, three boys, all of Lincoln Place, were to be given a hearing today in McKeesport following their arrest by McKeesport police.

The boys, according to police, found a check signed by Paul McIlheny made out to a store, and presented it, but declared McIlheny wished to pay only $9 and they were to collect the change.

The plan worked, and the trio later procured blank checks and repeated the process, police reported. Because of the youth of the accused trio, the Sun-Telegraph does not publish their names.

2 HURT AS FIRE RAGES IN HOME

Two boys were burned early yesterday when fire destroyed the home of Louis E. Wilson on the Steubenville Pike three miles east of Imperial. The fire caused damage of $4,000, according to members of the Montour Valley Volunteer Fire Department. Members of the family fled in night clothing.

Louis Wilson, 16, and his brother, Lewis, Jr., 9, were asleep on the second floor. They were awakened by portions of the roof falling across their bed. They were burned about their feet. The mother and father were aroused and they fled with Erma, 13, and Claire, aged 2.

ALIQUIPPA FIRE LOSS $14,000

Police today were investigating a fire which damaged a three-story brick building at 580 Franklin avenue, Aliquippa, last night, causing damage estimated by firemen at $14,000. The structure housed the Central Meat Market and Franklin Electric Company on the first floor and the Aliquippa Hotel on the second and third.

The fire started in the basement, firemen said, and spread to the rear portion of the second floor where flames were checked. Firemen were hampered in their efforts to extinguish the fire by dense smoke in the cellar.

Bellevue Class to Aid Ohio Orphans

A offering will be taken by the Sunday School of the Bellevue Christian Church, Sunday morning for the Orphans Home of the Disciples of Christ in Cleveland, O. A combined service will be held by Sunday School and church at 11 a. m. to be followed by a Christmas service at 7:45 p. m.

FIRE FIGHTING TO BE TAUGHT

The second annual fire prevention school of the Chamber of Commerce will be inaugurated January 13 and will continue each Tuesday night for six weeks, officials of the Chamber announced. The school is a part of the Chamber's program of educating the public on the costliness of fires and how to prevent them, Charles Donley, chairman, said.

Wilkinsburg Club Entertains Vets

A Yuletime play was presented, recitations were given and refreshments served as the sick and wounded of the Marine Hospital were entertained by the ladies of the Wilkinsburg Civic Club. Pedro's Christmas" was recited by Mrs. F. J. Farrell. Mrs. H. Richards, chairman of the club, and Mrs. Lettie Ege, president, addressed the soldiers.

Mellon Institute to Study Industrial Use of Sugar

An investigation into possible industrial uses for raw and refined sugar will be launched immediately by the Mellon Institute of Industrial Research, Dr. Edward R. Weidlein, director, announced today. The work will be carried on by a multiple industrial fellowship supported by the Sugar Institute, Inc., of New York.

Dr. George D. Beal, assistant director of the institute, and Dr. Gerald J. Cox, senior industrial fellow, will supervise the investigation.

Experiments in private research have already indicated results which will be carefully studied. Most of the proposals relate to technologic application for sugar, especially in wood preservation, textile finishing, adhesives manufacturing and in other ways as a basic raw material for employment in chemical industries.

Four chemical specialists, headed by Dr. Cox, will begin at once the initial scientific research of the industrial fellowship. Additions will be made to this staff from time to time.

Way Cleared for Opening Of Showboat Tonight

The Goldenrod Showboat, which last night disappointed an audience that went to see its opening performance, will be permitted to do business tonight. Capt. J. W. Menke completed a slight formality with Edward G. Lang, director of public works, today.

Lang explained the wharf space where the Goldenrod is moored in the Allegheny River, at Stanwix street, is leased to the Iron City Sand Company, which in turn leased the space to Capt. Menke.

The latter procured a public safety permit, but Lang said a permit from his department also was needed, and was granted on request of Capt. Menke.

Lang had ordered the show not to open until the second permit was obtained.

The Goldenrod Showboat played all summer at the landing opposite the Montrose Hotel. Arrangements were completed several weeks ago to bring it to a downtown location.

$9,000,000 RIVER IMPROVEMENT HELD JOBLESS SOLUTION

OFFICIALS HOLD RELIEF PLAN NECESSARY

Waterways Improvements Urged as Unemployment Aid; $3,500,000 Available

A program of river improvements in the Pittsburgh district, which will cost in the neighborhood of $9,000,000, is regarded by waterways officials as being the one means of solving the unemployment problem. Bids for river equipment for which $3,500,000 has been appropriated, are being asked by the Inland Waterways Corporation. A great deal of the money will be expended in the immediate vicinity of Pittsburgh, it is said.

D. T. Wright, of St. Louis, said before leaving Pittsburgh on a river inspection trip, that more than 10,000 men will be used next spring on river improvements in the lower Ohio and Missouri rivers. He predicted considerable activity for the upper Ohio.

Girls Leap from Auto Before Train Hits It

ARNOLD, Pa., Dec. 18.—Leaping from their automobile just as a freight train bore down upon them at the Nineteenth street grade crossing of the Pennsylvania Railroad, Mary McCusker, 21, and Minnie Pannick, 19, both of Arnold, escaped injury.

The watchman at the crossing, according to the girls, had signaled to a car in front to go ahead, and Miss McCusker, driving, believed she also could cross. The car was damaged.

Architect Knocked From Truck, Killed

John A. Cobert, 31, an architect, of Evans City, Pa., died today in the Valley Hospital from injuries received yesterday when a truck knocked him off the running board of another truck in Sewickley Heights.

Cobert was reported standing on the running board of a truck driven by Theodore Touchs, of Mars, when a second truck, driven by Herbert Brooks, also of Mars, struck him.

WAR VETERAN AUXILIARIES GIVE DINNER

Woodside Speaks at Feast; Business Sessions and Dance Next on Program

A dinner in the William Penn Hotel last night ended the first day's program of a three-day gathering of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Auxiliaries. National and state officers were honor guests at the dinner, given by the Allegheny County auxiliaries.

Speakers were County Controller Robert G. Woodside, past commander-in-chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars; Mrs. Florence Anderson, of Philadelphia, and Mrs. Norma Potts, of Bradford, vice presidents; and Mrs. Margaret Armstrong, past national president of state auxiliaries.

A business session was to be held in North Side City Hall this afternoon. A banquet and dance will be held in the Fort Pitt Hotel tonight.

BOUT TO PAY CLOCK DEBT

The Gold Star Mothers of Avalon are assured of getting out of debt, due to the assistance of Burgess Grant Ritchie.

A chimes clock in the Avalon municipal building was purchased and presented to the borough by the mothers' organization. The timepiece cost $1,400. Several hundred dollars are still due.

Burgess Ritchie took it upon his shoulders to pay off the balance, so he is sponsoring a benefit boxing bout show in the municipal building tomorrow night. There will be six bouts on the card, and the admission is 50 cents, with an additional 25 cents for a reserved seat. A heavy advance sale is reported.

Missing Grid Star Found in Florida

Robert Hines, Slippery Rock High School boy, who mysteriously disappeared November 7 after starring in a football game, has been located in Tampa, Fla. The Missing Persons Bureau today received a letter from the boy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Hines, that he had written them saying he had hitch-hiked to Tampa.

$50,000 Army Fire Routs Cavalrymen

DES MOINES, Ia., Dec. 18.—(AP.)—Fire forced 200 cavalrymen out into the snow and destroyed a barracks at Fort Des Moines at an estimated loss of $50,000 early today.

Witnesses reported hearing explosions of ammunition which the cavalryman had not been able to remove. Much clothing and equipment was lost.

Man, 86, Divorced; Plans to Wed Again

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 18.—(AP.)—The judge's signature on his divorce degree was scarcely dry before T. N. Tanner, who is 86, and a war veteran, said he expected to hear wedding bells again soon.

"Yep, I've got her picked out," said Mr. Tanner after he was granted a divorce from Ellen Tanner on grounds of desertion. "I'm not telling who she is."

SEAL BUYING NOT LIMITED

There is no limit on the number of Christmas health seals that may be bought at the booths conducted by the Tuberculosis League of Pittsburgh in various public buildings in Pittsburgh, according to Mrs. J. Paul Warner. Mrs. Warner is chairman of the booth sale committee. Said Mrs. Warner:

"One or more seals may be purchased at our booths. Naturally the more seals bought the more the league will be able to carry on its work. We don't attempt forced sales. The number to be bought is left to the judment of the buyer. We appreciate any and all purchases."

The Christmas party annually given the children at the Tuberculosis League Hospital open air school by the Ogontz Society takes place tomorrow afternoon in the hospital auditorium. There will be a Christmas tree, refreshments and presents.

Pimples Itched So Could Not Sleep. Healed by Cuticura.

"My face was covered with pimples that were large and red and after a few days they festered. They were in blotches, mostly upon my forehead and chin, and made me feel embarrassed. The pimples itched so badly at times that I could not sleep. The trouble lasted about four months.

"I tried other remedies without success. A friend advised Cuticura Soap and Ointment so I sent for a free sample. It brought relief so I purchased more, and after using about four cakes of Cuticura Soap and two boxes of Cuticura Ointment I was healed." BUS DRIVER AWAITS GRAND JURY ACTION IN KILLING OF 2

DOUGHTY BACK IN CELL AFTER INQUEST

Coroner's Jury Recommends Prosecutor Investigate Fatal Crash at Ambridge

Ordered held for the grand jury by a coroner's jury at the conclusion of an inquest into the death of two Pittsburghers, Walter Doughty, 35, of 1934 Buena Vista street, North Side, driver of the Colonial Stage line, today was back in his cell in the Beaver County jail at Beaver, after testifying before Dr. H. C. McCarter, Beaver County coroner, at Ambridge, yesterday.

The jury recommended also that the district attorney investigate the collision of the bus driven by Doughty with an automobile, killing George Schriber, 23, of 5448 Stanton avenue, and Max Dernia, 36, of 19 Davenport street, in Ambridge, Sunday night.

Peter Malloy, of Barnesboro, Pa., a passenger in the bus, held on a charge of transportation and possession of liquor, also was returned to jail in default of bail after testifying at the inquest.

Dr. H. D. Mowry, Ambridge, who had pronounced Doughty and Malloy under the influence of liquor at the time of the crash, was a witness.

Doughty admitted that he had been drinking before the collision occurred.

Earlier in the week Doughty was held without bond on a charge of murder and under bond for operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor, at a hearing before Justice of the Peace J. V. Lewis, of Ambridge.

OBITUARY

David Jenkins Llewellyn.

Funeral services for David Jenkins Llewellyn, 42, who died December 15, in a Miami (Fla.) hospital, will be held tomorrow afternoon in the Moreland Funeral Home. Pneumonia was the cause of death. He was born in Pittsburgh, a son of the late David W. Llewellyn and Amanda Taylor Llewellyn. He attended Shady Side Academy, the Lawrenceville School in New Jersey and Cornell University. He was a Mason and a member of Beta Theta Pi. For many years Mr. Llewellyn lived in Europe and Africa. He leaves two sisters, Mrs. May Irwin, of Coronado, Cal., and Mrs. Jayne Burt, of East Orange, N. J.

Mrs. Hulda Virginia Lightcap

Mrs. Hulda Virginia Lightcap, widow of James K. P. Lightcap, died in the home of her granddaughter, Mrs. Hulda Ballinger, Eggleston avenue, South Uniontown, Pa. Mrs. Lightcap was a member of the Sheriden Methodist Episcopal Church; Chapman Circle, G. A. R.; Crafton Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, and Damascus Shrine, No. 1. She leaves two daughters, Mrs. Thomas Mathews, of Pittsburgh; Mrs. Charles Nowery, of Chicago, and two sons, Harry R. Lightcap, of Greensburg; J. C. Lightcap, of Pittsburgh; eight grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Thomas Connelly.

Thomas Connelly, 76, former chief of Carnegie Steel Company police in Duquesne and former member of the police forces of Duquesne and McKeesport, died early today at his home, 32 North Third street, Duquesne. He had been retired from active duty for more than 15 years. He leaves three sons, John J., Thomas A., Patrick A. Connelly; a daughter, Miss Winnifred C. Connelly; two brothers and three sisters. Funeral services will be held Saturday morning in the Holy Name Church, Duquesne, with interment following in Old St. Joseph's Cemetery, McKeesport.

McCain Funeral.

Funeral services for Austin McCain, 78, who died yesterday at his home, 726 Cedar avenue, North Side, will be held tomorrow. Interment will be in Allegheny County Memorial Park. Besides his widow he leaves a son, Harry B. McCain.

Green Funeral.

Funeral services for Mrs. Rachael Green, 60, who died yesterday at her home, 3105 Kennett Square, Oakland, were to be held today at the Sharh Torah Synagogue. She had been a resident of Pittsburgh 30 years.

EVIDENCE 'LOSS' FREES MAN

A few hours after John Danas, of 1723 Edna street, had been ordered acquitted by Judge James B. Drew in Criminal Court because of lack of evidence, the moonshine which police seized in a confectionery store at 1213 Wylie avenue, in which he was arrested, was found.

The liquor, found by Inspecter Albert Beebe, was seized November 23 in a series of raids in the Hill district. Danas denied ownership of the store. Another man also arrested in the raid pleaded guilty when arraigned Tuesday.

The liquor was misplaced, Beebe said.

SPEED JOBLESS CENSUS HERE

Organization of the enumerating corps which will take the census of the unemployed in Pittsburgh from January 15 to February 1, is proceeding rapidly under the direction of James E. Routley, clerk at the County Commissioners' office.

Quarters are to be leased in the American State Bank Building. The count will be accomplished by a house-to-house canvass and will include only the territory within the city limits. The districts in which the city will be divided have not yet been determined.

Mr. Routley had charge of the Fourteenth District in the regular 10-year census recently completed. He will use the same methods in the new count.

GUNMAN FACES SENTENCE IN 4 HOLDUPS

Laxton, Shot in Attempt To Rob Detective Rhall, Guilty on Four Charges

James Laxton, 24, of Jackson street, North Side, convicted gunman, is to be sentenced late today by Visiting Judge O. C. Kent, of Crawford County, on four charges of robbery.

A jury made quick work of his case in Criminal Court yesterday. Laxton pleaded guilty to attempting to rob Precinct Detective John Rhall, in Oswego street, last November 7. Rhall shot the robber through the shoulder and cheek and, when he fell, tried to capture his companion in a nearby automobile. After emptying his gun at the man, who fled, he turned to find Laxton had risen and was making off. He was found later in St. John's Hospital.

PLEADS NOT GUILTY

Laxton pleaded not guilty to three other robbery charges, and on these was found guilty. They included the holdup, on November 4, of P. H. Hilzell in Termon avenue. While holding up this victim, H. E. Hunter, yardmaster for the Pennsylvania Railroad, happened along and was held up. On October 16, it was charged, he held up Harry McKee, teller for the Potter Title and Trust Company, on Morrell street, and robbed him of $16 and a diamond pin.

Funeral Directors Open 2-Day Session

Discussions of methods featured the joint conference of business procedure which opened a two-day session in the Hotel William Penn today under auspices of the National Funeral Directors' Association and attended by more than 200 members from Western Pennsylvania and Eastern Ohio.

Noon luncheons are the only social feature. The National Selected Morticians and the Casket Manufacturers' Association are aiding in the meet.

Confesses Holdup, Says He Was Hungry

Using for his defense the fact that he was hungry, Sam Dye, 27, Negro, of Penn avenue, admitted in Central Police Court today he was one of two men who stuck up the meat market of Frank Fuchs at 3621 Penn avenue, police said, and was held for the grand jury. Dye said he got $18 of the $40 taken from the cash register.

Brooklyn Engineer Will Speak Here

Col. Willard T. Chevalier, of Brooklyn, past president of the Brooklyn Engineers Club and the New York section, American Society of Civil Engineers, will address members of the Industrial Advertising Council this evening at a dinner in the Fort Pitt Hotel.

Lincoln Civic Club Protests Horse Ban

The Lincoln Civic Club, at a meeting last night in the Lemington public school, adopted a resolution which was forwarded to City Council asking that body not to approve an ordinance eliminating horses in municipal work. Martin McNamara, representing the Horseshoers' Association, declared the proposed move would be a detriment not only to horseshoers but to harness and feed men and wagon makers. Joseph Stack presided.

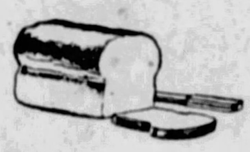
"No dad... I didn't bake it ...it's GRANDMOTHER'S HOME MAID BREAD"



No wonder Dad wanted to know whether or not his wife had baked the bread. A&P "Home Maid" bread has that "Like mother used to make" flavor, and a fine fluffy texture. Actually, it's hard to tell the difference between this bread and bread that's baked in your own home.

Your nearby A&P store receives each morning, a fresh, new supply of Grandmother's "Home Maid" bread, each loaf in a waxed paper bag to protect its oven freshness.

Buy a loaf of "Home Maid" bread, serve it for dinner tonight. It will go over big with your family, just as it has with thousands of other families. Ask the manager to reserve a loaf for you each morning.

Clubwomen Hold Yule Parties

Among the clubs celebrating Christmas yesterday were the Forum and the Wednesday Current Events Class, both of which met in the Congress of Clubs. Members of the latter gathered in the auditorium for luncheon, taking their places at table and hearing the invocation by candlelight. Mrs. William Penn Baum, the president, offered the prayer. Honors were shared by Mrs. Ralph W. Johnston, Congress president, and Miss Julia Morgan Harding, who has lectured season after season before the club for many years. Each spoke briefly. And there was a charming program of contralto solos by Miss Mabie King, with Miss Helen Machette playing her accompaniments, and appropriate readings by Mrs. W. A. Crawford.

The Forum members had a gala time in the Winonaunis room of the clubhouse. Seated in a circle around a beautifully decorated tree at whose base were unwrapped and be-ribboned gifts for exchange and a big apple tied with gay paper for each one, they heard Mrs. J. H. Lesley, Mrs. Samuel E. Diescher and Mrs. C. B. Miller, all past presidents, speak informally and then had a word from the incumbent, Mrs. A. K. MacMillan. Mrs. B. J. Hennessy led assembly caroling, with Marion Deuel McDade at the piano. Mrs. H. D. Adams, chairman of the social committee, and Mrs. Carl Ruhe, of the music committee, arranged the party.

Mrs. MacMillan is to be hostess for the club's next card party, set for January 7.

Clubwomen are always interested in Utility Hall programs, announcements concerning which have just been sent out. Under Miss Karen Fladoes, home service director, a weekly hostess series will be started on January 6 which will include talks on party desserts, specialties for Sunday night suppers, decorative cakes, holiday courses, bridge teas, valentine suppers, informal luncheons, nuts and candies, a formal dinner and "Say It With Shamrocks" and will conclude with a request program and the presentation of diplomas. A "Modern Homemaker" course will be inaugurated on January 2 with a session each Friday afternoon up to March 20. Monday evening classes at Utility Hall will resume January 5 with "Winter Salads" as the first subject. In addition, Miss Fladoes conducts a class in lamp shade making on Mondays and Wednesdays at 2 o'clock and Thursday at 7.

STYLISTS SHOW ORIGINALITY IN THE NEWEST BLACK COATS

Paris Bureau Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Dec. 18.—To capture the elusive black coat that is different has become one of the most popular winter sports and nearly every woman is exhibiting her quarry in the shape of a black coat that she fondly hopes is different and still may at once be classified as of this mode. Each designer finds in this hackneyed field ample scope for originality and it is wonderful to see how diversified the uniform black coat with matching fur can be. Splendid tailoring and novel touches are of course necessary and one such new and clever touch can place a coat quite apart from its envious fellows. Women like the practical aspect of coats of this type, as they can wear them from morning until chilly eve without feeling themselves anything but appropriately and well-dressed. When a fashion not only endures, but increases its popularity, you may be sure that there is distinct reason for it, for however whimsical woman may be in all other matters, there is always a distinct reason for everything in affairs sartorial.

WE TAKE OUR LEISURE gladly, for not only is rest conducive to health and beauty, but it also vouchsafes us the chance to wear some delightful negligees and tea-gowns. Who would not be willing to forego an engagement in order to remain at home and wear the Lucile tea-gown here depicted? It is of vivid red chiffon velvet with a handsomely draped cowl back and a wide, fish-tail train. The skirt itself fits snugly over the hips with horizontal tuckings and the extremely wide sleeves are laid in stitched folds resembling tucks along the inside seam. The gown is wrapped across in front and caught at the left side with a jeweled clasp.

AND NOW TO LEARN just what is Patou's version of the black winter coat. The model here pictured is one of his most successful creations this season. The material is black broadcloth, the fur is black astrakan, thereby resembling scores of other coats. But a casual glance at the sketch will reveal several new ideas that sets the model apart from all others. It is fitted closely across the back at the waistline and at the hips. The coat then flares in a moderate, circular movement and has two little odd outstanding "fins," one at either side of the back. These are about two inches in width at the top, but flare with the rest of the coat as they descend. The whole coat is bordered with astrakan and has a standing collar, and heavy sleeve trimming of the fur. Patou makes this coat as a full-length model, or, as shown in the sketch, in seven-eighths length to be worn with inches at either side of the back. These are tano a matching skirt.

When Your Cough Hangs On, Mix This at Home

The best cough remedy that money could buy, can easily be mixed at home. It saves money and gives you the most reliable, quick-acting medicine you ever used. The way it takes hold of stubborn coughs and chest colds, giving immediate relief, is astonishing.

Any druggist can supply you with 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle, and fill up with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. It's no trouble at all to mix, and when you once use it, you will never be without it. Keeps perfectly and tastes good—children really like it.

It is surprising how quickly this loosens the germ-laden phlegm, and soothes and heals the inflamed membranes. At the same time, part of the medicine is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes, and helps the system throw off the whole trouble. Even those severe coughs which follow cold epidemics, are promptly ended.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form. Nothing known in medicine is more helpful in cases of severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

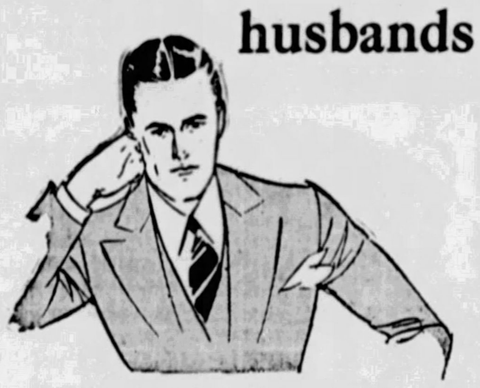
A reward for procrastinating husbands



If you are one of those husbands who have been planning for years to give their wives Hoovers and haven't done it yet, you are going to have a reward for your procrastination.

This Christmas you can give her either one of two New Hoovers—they are finer-built, more efficient, greater values in every respect than any previous Hoovers of similar type . . . and at no increase in price.

How's that for luck! Call us up today—let us tell you about these two amazing Hoovers. The terms are wonderfully convenient—only $6.25 down; the balance monthly. Liberal allowance for your old cleaner.

ON WITH ALL THE DANCES!

We're Home for the Holidays— and We Know Where to Get

Stunning Evening Gowns, $15.75

We've little time (just a fortnight vacation) and less money (a schoolgirl's allowance), but thanks to the Misses' and Juniors' Shops, we know where to get our favorite demure, sophisticated, intoxicating gowns — and $15.75 goes a long, smart way!

Creamy white panne satin gowns, naive or sophisticated black crepes, and flattering taffetas in a rainbow of pastels.

Also gowns for women at $15.75, and for misses and women at $25, up to $95.

—and Wraps, $39.50

We've discovered a lot about evening wraps. That velvet with fur is smart, and sure with every gown. That this new two-thirds length (slightly longer in the back) is warm, and fits into either billowy or slinky skirts. And that there's no father alive is going to complain about the quantities of beautiful, bunny fur used on his daughter's Christmas gift at only $39.50.

Women's and misses' wraps, $39.50 up.

Intriguing!

EVENING JEWELRY $3.95

Pearls for everyone and every costume, because they are classic. Rhinestones sparkle anew and are more ravishing than ever. In a collection of intriguing matching necklaces, bracelets, earrings. Find yourself a "giver" and select any number for charming gifts, for they are really unusual at $3.95.

White Mice in Theaters Are the Latest Way To Start Trouble

By GEORGE SEIBEL

WHITE MICE are playing the leading part in "All's Quiet On the Western Front" in Germany. News items from Berlin invariably record that Fascisti of Herr Hitler's persuasion have let loose white mice in the theaters where the film is presented, in order to scatter the audience and prevent the showing of the film.

George Seibel

No matter what the film might be, this sort of infantile rowdyism is inexcusable. It serves to confirm the prevalent impression that Herr Hitler's followers are a lot of bad boys who are mainly concerned about making trouble.

But this film, "All Quiet on the Western Front," if it's anything is pro-German. It shows that the young Germans who went into the war were fine young fellows, most of them, and went to war only because they were lied to by their government—which is usually the reason why people of any nation go to war.

Books like "All Quiet" and "Grisant Grischa," and the pictures made from them, can be objected to only by militarists who find such works spoil their business. But it's a business that ought to be spoiled.

If the rest of Herr Hitler's production is no more intelligent than that attack on Remarque's work, the White Mice have the monopoly of brains in the movement.

HISTORIC THEATER ROWS

People of Europe seem inclined to take their theater much more seriously than we do. There have been some theatrical rows that made history.

Most famous of all was the battle over Victor Hugo's "Hernani." When this play was produced, the classicists were pitted against the romantic school. Paris was aflame as if a new religious war had been proclaimed.

Victor Hugo and his followers Dumas and the rest, won that battle, and the classicists had to retire with Cornellie and Racine until the public had cooled off.

The mob booed and hissed, while the advocates of the new naturalism yelled "Bravo" and applauded.

All the rowdies achieved was to make Hauptmann the acknowledged head of the new school and the leading dramatist of Germany for a generation.

AMERICAN RIOT FATAL

There is no record of any lives being lost in those theatrical wars of Europe, but the historic Forrest-Macready riots in New York City resembled civil war.

When Macready played "Macbeth" in the Astor Place Opera House, in 1849, the militia had to be called out.

In dispersing the mob 22 were killed and 36 were wounded.

It all arose because Edwin Forrest, when he played in England, had hissed Macready. Forrest then blamed the failure of his British tour on Macready's schemes. When Macready came to Philadelphia, the friends of Forrest rotten-egged him, though Forrest issued a public letter asking them to "let the superannuated driveler alone." A little later, in New York, came the bloody climax of the massacre.

The elder Kean, about 25 years earlier, had been received with a fusillade of vegetables and eggs when he stepped upon the stage in Boston, for a slight offered to an audience on a previous visit.

But nobody ever thought of white mice until the sagacious followers of Herr Hitler came along.

Charge Vallee Song Written by Another

CHICAGO, Dec. 18.—(INS.)—"The Vagabond Lover," Rudy Vallee's favorite was composed by Leon Zimmerman, a Chicago song writr, according to findings filed in Circuit Court here by master in chancery Archie H. Cohen. Favorable conclusion of the litigation for Zimmerman will net him thousands of dollars, accrued royalties on the sales alone exceeding $20,000, Attorney Benjamin A. Ehrlich, counsel for Zimmerman, said.

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—(AP.)—Adele Vasa, radio opera singer, and Paul A. Greene, a radio engineer for the Columbia System, have a marriage license and plan to be wed before the end of the month. Miss Vasa sang with the American Grand Opera Company four seasons ago.

WALTER WINCHELL On Broadway

By Way of Miami Beach, Florida.

Country Home

There is snow upon the chimney of the house where I was born,
There's a candle in the window just for me,
There's a hand of cheer from everyone upon the Xmas morn,
And a flock of useless presents on the tree.

I can see my Cousin Minnie and my mother's Uncle Sam,
And I know that they all have me on the brain,
For I don't expect to get aboard a train.

I can see my Cousin Archie going skating on the lake,
And I do not seem to envy him a bit—
There's a place beyond the willows where the ice is known to break,
And I trust he has no trouble finding it.

And they'll all rush out to meet me at the gate,
And a little choking something seems to grip me by the throat,
So I guess it must be something that I ate.

Rebutta!

"There has never lived a destructive critic who, if his destructive criticism had not been eminently sound, wouldn't have passed into oblivion in a very short order.

"A critic, whatever the label attached to him, lives by the grace, interest and intelligence of his readers. To argue, therefore, that this or that critic is purely destructive is to say that his reading adherents are also of purely destructive tendencies. And nothing could be sillier."

Oh, I don't know. Did you ever read a review of a critic whose seats weren't on the aisle?

Nifty

And Jim Quirk observes that the reasons "It" became so popular in Hollywood is that it is easy to spell.

Have a Pun-ana

An unsigned contrib wants to crash the column by making up a sentence containing the words "Vertigo"—like this:

"Crater has gone—but vertigo?"

Miss G. Altman, who can make up a sentence with "Egypt" like this:

"Egypt me outta 50 cents," writes:

"May I add an additional word to your friend's line with 'Romance,' who said: 'Friends, romance and countrymen.' How about: 'Lend me arrears?'"

Gary Cooper to Portray The Soldier Hero in 'Farewell to Arms'

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 18.

After mature consideration, Paramount has decided to film "Farewell to Arms," with Gary Cooper as the soldier hero.

The Ernest Hemingway novel offers a good deal of censorable material but with the greater leeway allowed in talkies, the studio believes it can be made into a picture.

So far, no one is spoken of as the English heroine, but Fay Wray is a possibility.

Gary Cooper

The director, I am given to understand, will be Richard Wallace, whose latest film, "The Right to Love," is said to be very satisfactory to Paramount officials.

TIME TO GET UP

"Call me in 10 more minutes," ordered the sleepy Grainger.

There was another slight knock and the boy timidly said: There's a fire Mr. Grainger."

Novelette

His moaning attracted a passerby the other noon. The ambulance doctor said he had about a week to live, if that long. It was learned later that he once was a New York hotel man, and at one time was associated with Healy's when that rendezvous was among the ports of call.

The money he begged on the streets, he said, went for raw horse wagers. He went hungry rather than lose a chance to place a bet. He said he was known as "Hard Luck Johnny," and that he never won a bet in his life.

(Copyright, 1930, Daily News, Inc.)

He had no home. He slept in vacant lots or in stables. Early that a. m., however, he took a panhandled quarter, placed it in a slot-machine and it brought him $20 in two-bit pieces.

He let it ride on a steed which was running that afternoon and so told the ambulance doctor, suggesting that the doctor also put some coin on it. At 3:15 his horse was at the post. One minute and 47 seconds later the gee-gaw won, paying $28.80 to $1.

"Hard Luck Johnny" died at 3:14.

Haw!

R. Beer Loss, according to Leonard Hall, continues the optimistic note by noting that hundreds of actors are tramping the Hollywood boulevards who actually do not know where their next bottle of gin is coming from.

Fact

When the weather is torrid in Miami Beach, Fla., the businessmen and their staffs cannot be bothered with waiting on customers. The other day, firstsample, a real estate office was as lifeless as a cut rate show. The staff deserted the office to take a nap behind a partition.

A potential customer ankled into the place. He finally called out:

"Is anybody in here? I want to do some business." There was no response.

"I said," bellowed the visitor, "is anybody in here?"

The manager in charge turned to his assistants and whispered:

Quiteo, Quiteo

One of the cynics suggests that a lot of us should quit kidding ourselves, and instead of using holiday cards we should send notes reading

"Merry Xmas and an apple New Year."

Add Heroes

The news stories about the Miami glass bottom boat disaster contained "human interest" angles, such as the one about the man who couldn't be saved by a rescuing yacht because it was crowded, but who cried: "Never mind me—save the baby," and the reporters duly recorded the heroism of this rescuer and that one. And how the crew were among the first to hog room in succor ships.

But another grand hero was overlooked in the haste to make the telegraph wires. His name was Clarence Vine, a deckhand on the ill-fated sight-seeing boat. He had said that morning that May would mark his twentieth year as a sailor. Clarence was cool throughout the accident, and handed out over 75 lifebelts.

Yet, he was one of the few who perished.

I wish I had his heart.

enthusiasm at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayor. It develops that Greta Garbo may star in the talkie version, though there is almost an equal chance that the picture may be made with an all-star cast.

In any event, production on the Vicki Baum play will be held up until the present Broadway run is history.

I NOTE THAT—

Sally Eilers and Hoot Gibson are leaving Saturday for a two-months vacation in New York. When Hoot returns, he has six pictures to make for Liberty Productions . . . Hollywood's usual cheerfulness was subdued by the death of three members of the film colony on Monday. They were Diane Ellis, who died on her honeymoon in India; F. Richard Jones, the director, who succumbed after a lengthy illness, and Jessie Ligertwood, Frances Marion's secretary, who died following injuries received in a plane crash. . .Rolfe Heroldc, film heavy, was cut by flying glass when his machine turned over on Saturday. The wound will leave no scar. . ."The Dog Gone Foreign Legion" is the title of the latest G. G. M. barkie, starring "Jiggs" the canine matimee idol . . .Paul Bern now employs the chef who used to be at the Russian Eagle Cafe.

Man Held in Raid On 2 Large Stills

WASHINGTON, Pa., Dec. 18.—In a raid near Denbo county officers located two of the largest stills taken in the county in many months and arrested Pietro Marcheci, 59, as operator. Marcheci is held in the county jail in default of $1,500 bail for further hearing.

Two Theaters Present New Films Here Today

"Tol'able David," which skyrocketed Richard Barthelmess to fame some years ago, brings another new star to the screen in the person of Richard Cromwell. This film opens in the Warner today. Noah Beery, Joan Peers and Henry B. Walthall are in the cast.

"The Gorilla" opens in the Enright today with Joe Frisco, Lila Lee, Harry Gribbon and Walter Pidgeon in the leading roles. On the stage, Dick Powell will offer "Jungle Bells."

Grace Moore, Broadway stage star and Metropolitan Opera soprano, makes her talking screen debut in "A Lady's Morals," the romance of a celebrated beauty who defied conventions for the man she loved. The film comes to the Aldine.

Will Rogers comes to the Stanley tomorrow in the talk screen of "Lightnin'." Ed Lowry will present an "Xmas Kidding Follies" as an added attraction on the stage.

Lou Holtz, well known stage comedian, makes his bow in talking pictures with Ed Wynn in "Follow the Leader," coming tomorrow to the Penn. Holtz is rated one of the funniest men on the stage, but apparently Wynn was not concerned about Holtz's ability to "steal" any of the fun-making honors from him, for it was Wynn himself who selected Holtz for the part of "Sam Platz," one of the leading characters.

Lillian Roth, the little girl who went to Hollywood as a blues crooner and promptly sang and played her way into screen prominence, is Jack Oakie's sweetheart in "Sea Legs," booked to open in the Fulton and Sheridan Square tomorrow. Eugene Pallette and Harry Green also are in the cast.

Lowell Sherman and Marian Nixon are co-starred in "The Pay-Off," which comes to the Harris screen Saturday. The stage will offer a new vaudeville program.

Select Weston, W. Va., Postoffice Site

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—(AP.)—The Treasury Postoffice Commission selected the corner of Bank and Center streets, in Weston, W. Va., as the site for the new federal building. The plot, containing 17,000 square feet, will be acquired by condemnation, the commission said, because the price asked for it was excessive. It was offered by a Dr. Kneener and Messrs. TELL IT TO SALLY

By SALLY MARTIN

Are You an Ugly Duckling; Razzed by Family?

Remember when you were 16, and thought all the world was picking on you?

Remember how you saw red when Brother Dan kidded you about your knock-knees and Sister Jenny tittered at your buck teeth?

You can grin over it now—can't you? But it wasn't any grinning matter then. Many a time you crawled off into a corner and debated darkly just how you'd end it all. Then maybe, when they found you lying still 'n cold, with a sad, sweet smile on your wasted face—maybe then they'd be sorry! But it would be too late. They might cry as much as they pleased, but you wouldn't come back. Just to spite 'em, you wouldn't come back—the nasty old meanies!

Mother Not Affectionate

Remember? Sure you do! And unless you've a heart of stone, you're going to choke as well as smile over poor little Jeannette's letter. For Jeannette is the family ugly duckling—just as you and I were. Pal—and she firmly believes she's the Sufferingest Sufferer on earth.

"Dear Sally:

"I am so miserable and unhappy that if I had the nerve, I'd take poison or drown myself. I'd do anything if I could just die and be done with it.

"It is depressing enough to be physically homely and uninteresting, but when your family despises you, and nags you and jeers at you, and rubs it in about how you look all the time, it's just too much to bear.

"My mother positively hates me. She is never affectionate or even kind, but seems to delight in calling me cruel names and referring to my ugliness. I hate to look at her, she has made me hate her so. This may sound like a story book, but it is not trying to be dramatic, either.

Beyond Endurance

"The other members of my family hate me, too. And they have the cruelest tongues it is possible for anyone to have. When they start in on me, they are like greedy hounds. They won't stop until they've got everything out of me.

"And I can't talk back to them. I haven't any courage any more. I am not quite 16 years old, but I don't want to live any more. If I had some place to go, I'd leave home, but I haven't.

"If you could just know how I feel, I know you'd help me. Oh, I am so miserable!

"I know I can't ever hope to be happy. They won't allow it. If they see me looking the least bit as if I were, they all pile on me and start with their sneering and jeering. I can't even try to reason with them. If I were only pretty, it might be different. But I know I can't be. I'm just naturally ugly, and I think they hate me because of that.

"Can you possibly imagine how I feel, Sally? I just implore you to help me, because it has all gotten beyond endurance. I'll go crazy if you don't, because I can't bear any more. Please!

"JEANNETTE."

Can I imagine how you feel? Sure I can, kid. And so can practically every Grown-Up who reads your letter. For that's the way families are—whether you are 16 or 60.

Laugh at you? Of course they do. Pick on you? It's a cinch. And the muddley you get, the more they like to razz you? I haven't a doubt. But, honey, those things are bound to happen when people live close together. And they aren't half as cruel as you think they are. Nine-tenths of it is good-natured banter—and you need it.

Must Win Popularity

Soon or late you'll have to grow used to criticism and frank comment, and you'll have to learn how to take such razzing like a good sport. If you don't learn it at home, while you're a child, you'll have to learn it out in the world, after you've left childhood behind—and believe me, youngster, that will be a lot harder. For no matter how your family razz you, they love you. They may kid you because of your funny nose, but if it came to a pinch they'd fight for you to the last ditch.

And, as a matter of fact, I doubt if you're the great martyr you think you are. Feeling abused is the best thing the average girl of 16 does. We like to think we're persecuted at that age, little sister. It feeds our egotism. It gives us a glorious chance to drop big wet sobs and sweet kisses upon ourselves. And we go around with a chip on our shoulders, looking for trouble.

In short, we make ourselves so obnoxious that the heavenly angels themselves would want to take a wallop at us. Snap out of it, kid! Stop thinking that you're a Prize Victim. Stop counting your scars. If you want cheerfulness and friendliness, begin to generate a little yourself. If you want respect and affection, work for it. Your family is under no obligation to admire you, merely because you're one of the group. We must win our popularity at home as well as abroad. None of us has a right to love until we've earned it.

Most any bird or animal treated with kindness and consideration will become a pet.

Nearly everyone has at some time in his or her life been fond of some little pet. Many of those who seem not interested in pets have probably owned and lost one, and vowed never to own another.

Owning any kind of a pet is a responsibility. If one does not wish to bother giving a pet the proper care it needs, then the next kindest thing is to see that it gets a good home elsewhere.

One cannot treat a pet as they would a vase, or a palm. A pet must be talked to, and noticed and understood, and never neglected.

Love's Reawakening -:- Continuation of Love's Awakening

By ADELE GARRISON

Dicky and Harry Plan to Guard Noel from Father

I did not need to feign the anger, which proved, however, to be a most effective weapon against Dicky's horrified astonishment.

"You know better than to ask me a question like that," I said shrewishly. "But now that you have been petty enough to ask it, I will answer it fully. I did not voice my suspicion of Mr. Veritzen to Purnell. I simply told him that we were afraid someone might try to find out the substance of our telephone conversations tonight. After he had promised to take the switchboard himself he hesitatingly proffered the information about Mr. Veritzen and then hurried away."

"Impudent pup," Dicky growled, but Harry Underwood, standing near him, gripped his shoulder with the privilege of long years of intimacy and swung him around, facing him.

"Don't let the neck feathers get ruffled, Dicky-bird," he drawled. "It's bad for the nerves, also the singing voice. You'd better be thanking your stars that Purnell boy is on the job, instead of trying to remember the etiquette column. There's the telephone now. Has he had time to get on the job?"

"I hope so," I said, looking at Dicky, but making no move to answer the summons. From this second, I told myself grimly, he or one of the Underwoods would manage this affair. I would play only a supporting role, and then only when asked.

The asking was not delayed, however. Dicky twisted himself from his friend's grasp with a laugh, patently forced, and turned to me.

"Sorry, sorry, and all the rest of it," he said. "But for the love of Abraham answer that phone."

I went obediently to the telephone and took the receiver down gingerly, with the fear that I would hear the voice of the boy I distrusted. But Purnell's voice, throttled down the almost to a whisper, came over the wire.

"I is on the board, and I will stay on till you get through telephoning. After you make your last call let me know and I will go home. I'll ring you as soon as Central gets that call for you."

Contrary to his usual custom, he had not addressed me by name. Was it because Philip Veritzen was still lounging in the lobby of the hotel?

"Well?" Dicky said tensely as I turned from the telephone.

"Purnell is on the job," I said. "I rather fancy that Mr. Veritzen is also, for Purnell did not speak my name, and had his voice lowered to almost a whisper."

Dicky gave a snort of disgust, but Harry Underwood guffawed delightedly.

"I'd like to go down and see Purnell strut sitting down," he said. "That darkey is having the time of his young life."

"It wouldn't be a bad idea for you to do that very thing," his wife interposed. "Then you could occupy Phil's attention if he's looking too sharply at the switchboard."

"Don't ever tell me again that women don't think as many as two and one-half thoughts a day," Mr. Underwood retorted. "How about it, Dicky-bird?"

"All right with me after we've decided what we'd better do," my husband answered, then turned to me his petulance almost—though not quite—vanished.

"I've only had a chance to tell them that Veritzen wanted to get hold of Noel," he said. "But it seems to me that some of us ought to beat it to the farm right away and bring Noel back with us in the car. Then his father would look for him at the railroad station tomorrow in vain. What do you think?"

"It's a splendid plan," I agreed heartily. Only——"

"Only what?" Dicky snapped. "Was there ever a woman who could give an answer without qualifying it?"

"One," Lillian interposed with a grin. "She died some time ago of repressed emotions. Never mind him. Tell us what you meant by 'only.'"

"Mr. Veritzen might have the same idea of bringing Noel back by auto," I said, "and his car is very powerful and his chauffeur——"

"Woman!" thundered Harry Underwood, "do you mean to insinuate that any chauffeur in this here land can get ahead of me when I'm raring to go? But you've got a good idea there. Lucky thing old Phil doesn't get down to the east end of the island very often. He probably doesn't know a thing about that Middle Island road, and, oh boy! what time I can make if I start right away. You're coming, Dicky bird? I wouldn't ask you after that trip you had this afternoon, but there'll be no garages open. Speed is what we crave—nothing else but—and if a tire should go——"

"Two can get it done more quickly than one," Dicky said impatiently. "Of course I'll go."

"It would be a crime to ask Madge," Lillian said hesitantly, "with all she has to do, but Noel is in rather a precarious condition of nerves, and——"

The telephone sounded and Dicky motioned me toward it. Lillian did not finish her sentence then, but I was quite sure what she had meant to say. I had no time for thought concerning it, however, for Katherine's voice, surprised and a bit tense, came to my ears.

"Mad, what's up, anyway? Mr. Veritzen just called up in a terrible wax to talk to Noel."

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Hair dyeing is being done all the time, in thousands of beauty shops, with success. But if a woman is going to fight grey hair with coloring agents, she should know beforehand what difficulties await her. Every month a half inch of white hair will show up close to the scalp. Every two months there must be a touch-up. The hardest hair to dye is drab blonde, the easiest is black or dark brown.

To keep the tooth brush sweet and clean, and to preserve the bristles, sprinkle with salt and let dry. After using, the brush should be well washed with cold water. Once a day dental floss should be used. Pass lightly between the teeth, being careful not to plunge into the gums. Any abrasion invites bacteria which may set up a state of inflammation. When brushing, begin at the base of the teeth and use a rolling movement, so that the bristles pass over the sides of the teeth.

Black-haired darlings are the only ones who can wear the strictly plain coiffure, a straight-back brush and a tight little knot at the nape of the neck. Blonde hair looks best waved and it will tolerate more curly-cues and hirsute do-dads than tresses that are like the raven's wings. White hair must always be beautifully dressed. Disarray is blowsier when the hair has silver than when it has retained its natural color.

Women who love outdoor life seldom have grey or pallid complexions. They sit down to a feast of good grub with zest and appetite. Not like the wan-faced phrails who look as if they lived on one lettuce leaf a day and a couple of bird seeds. Getting out into the fresh air not only makes the lungs laugh, but it whips up the circulatory system upon which health and good looks depend. Two hours each day should be spent out-of-doors. Desk workers especially need fresh air and exercise.

CORRECT MANNERS

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

'Sweet Sixteen's' Visiting Cards

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. Is it all right to call a boy on the telephone if one happens to be visiting in his home town?

2. I am the second daughter in the family. My sister is 20 years of age and I am 16. How should I have my letter-paper and cards engraved, if at all?

ELSIE.

1. Yes, although it would be better form to send him a note, I would always suggest to a girl that she do something else, if possible, rather than telephone to a boy.

2. Your visiting cards should be most formally done, with the title of "Miss" engraved on them. Even though you are of this tender and charming age! You may, too, if you wish, have your street address engraved on your cards, in the lower right corner, in letters of the same type as those used in your name, but smaller, of course.

Ask your stationer to show you the type known as "Modified Roman" or "Modified Antique Roman," and use this, if possible.

Use, for your letter-paper, either white or an off-white such as a rich ivory. Or a very light blue, if you are fond of this shade. Have your monogram engraved on this, in the upper left corner of the first page of the double sheet.

The Prize Winner

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I went to a wedding shower and we played five hundred. I had the highest score and received first prize. Was I supposed to give the prize to the bride? MRS. N.

This is the custom in some communities, but in other places it is very much frowned on. I agree with the latter point of view—it does seem unreasonable for the person who wins the prize not to keep it.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Don't Regard Convulsions Lightly

Convulsions in young children, particularly in infants, are commonly seen. Unfortunately many parents assume the wrong attitude toward this disorder.

DR. COPELAND

I once heard a mother say, "I had convulsions when I was a child. There is nothing to get excited about. I had them, the child has them, everybody has them."

It is true that convulsions rarely kill a child. But, if not remedied, the thing that actually causes the convulsions may prove very serious.

Convulsions in children are due either to organic or to functional causes. If "organic," it means that the child has meningitis, hemorrhage or tumor of the brain, abscess of the brain or some other disease within the skull. Surely such conditions cannot be treated lightly.

The "functional" type of convulsion is the usual type seen. Indeed, it is by far the more common.

Certain materials absorbed from the digestive organs will cause convulsions. In such cases, if seen and recognized as such, a good dose of castor oil will bring speedy recovery.

Convulsions may be due to some body poison. This is true in diseases of the kidneys or liver.

A rare case, but one to be warned against, is lead poisoning. This poisoning is usually due to the child's rubbing and swallowing the paint from the cribs or furniture.

Children suffering from under-nourishment are particularly prone to convulsions. This is commonly seen in rickets. There is no doubt whatsoever that if all infants were properly fed, nine-tenths of the cases seen in infancy would disappear.

When a child has a convulsion, call a physician at once. You want him for his skill in first aid. But also, it is important that he see the child while in the convulsion so that he may more accurately determine the real cause.

The patient should be kept perfectly quiet. All unnecessary noises and excitement must be avoided. Cold in the form of ice packs should be applied to the head. Dry heat should be applied to the body and extremities, or the child should be placed in a hot tub bath, which you have tested with your elbow to be sure it is not too hot.

A mustard footbath is a good measure and may be applied as the child lies in the crib.

Internal medicine should only be given under the supervision of a physician. As soon as the convulsion has ended, the doctor will seek the cause, which must be found and treated. This is absolutely imperative and must not be neglected.

Oh, These Women

By LEOLA ALLARD

For the life of me I can't understand these half-baked people who let their sense of decency be outraged by some intruder who lives in their home and robs them of love and self-respect at the same time.

The thing people need most is to think well of themselves. How can a woman think well of herself if she permits another woman living under the same roof, to carry on with her husband, while she is ordered by the outrageous male, to close her eyes for the sake of their children?

The one who writes me says her husband tells her she is the most wonderful woman he ever knew and how he admires her for her understanding him and submitting to his wishes! And she kisses the other woman right before her, and she must remain docile!

I suppose these slaves who call themselves wives, are hungry for love and they smother their imaginations and go on believing. It's the only way such things could happen. It's all right not to believe a man when you don't want to believe him, but when you do want to, with all your heart and soul, and when he urges it—I suppose it is difficult.

"A swell snake" is right.

If you think it is a mistake to put up with it and you don't want to jeopardize your home or the happiness of your children by throwing your husband out, what is to prevent your throwing the girl out? And why don't you? You are as much to blame as she if you don't order her to leave. This weak, submissive attitude on your part won't ever win you any respect. The girl will think better of you and so will the husband if you refuse to countenance such behavior in YOUR home.

I had a letter recently from a man who says he lost his wife to a boarder. He let him live there after he knew of deplorable conditions. Finally the wife ran away. When he tried later to get her back, the other man having deserted her, she said, "Why didn't you throw him out? You're a sap."

And she was right about that.

The sooner you tell the girl—gently but firmly, that you no longer want her in your home, the better it will be for all concerned. Don't quarrel. It will only lower your opinion of yourself and start something that won't help the children. Just tell her that she can't stay there. That's that. If the husband objects, let him go with her, but you hold the fort for your children.

He will come back. Probably you won't want him, but if you do the chances are he will return. The decision then is up to you.

A Bad Habit

Don't get into the habit of testing the heat of your iron on the end of the ironing board cover. It means new covers constantly. Keep a folded newspaper on the end of the board, upon which is sprinkled a little salt. Then you will clean and test your iron at the same time.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Friday, December 19.

A day of great initiative and energetic attack is forecast from the ruling position of the indomitable and passionate Mars, in trine aspect with Luna. This incites to bold and adventurous deeds, all the faculties and energies being under high stimuli. Much progress should be made, as the figure is assisted by an accelerating ray from Mercury, orb of motion, travel, commerce, gambling, speculation, promotion, publicity, literature, in mutual aspect with Mars. Personal affairs are likewise likely and interesting.

Those whose birthday it is may plan for a very lively and progressive year with the energies and faculties highly stimulated and the abilities and ambitions quickened into heights of bold initiative. All should progress and the personal affairs bring pleasure and satisfaction.

A child born on this day should be versatile, resourceful and enterprising, and should achieve much in whatever direction it wishes to apply its diversified talents. It may lean to literature as well as athletics.

SUTHERLAND SHIFTS ANOTHER CENTER

DR. JOHN BAIN SUTHERLAND, head football coach at the University of Pittsburgh, is acting on the principle that one good turn deserves another. A couple of seasons back, he took Eddie Baker away from center on the varsity team and turned him into a quarterback. The result was that Baker became one of the country's best in his new position. Never a coach to pass up a winning hunch, Dr. Sutherland is now preparing to try another turn of a similar nature. He is going to do the same thing over again next year with Ralph Daugherty.

Ralph Daugherty

For two campaigns Daugherty has been the Panthers' regular center, but he is to be shifted to quarterback in 1931. The Pitt coach has definitely decided to make the change, and the schooling of Daugherty in his new duties will be started as soon as spring practice begins. There are two reasons for the move. One is that Daugherty looks to be the best bet for the role of field general, and the other is that his transfer to the backfield will make room in the line for an up and coming center in the person of Joe Tormey.

IF THE SHIFTING of Daugherty to quarterback brings anything like the same results that were obtained when Baker was made over in like fashion, the Pitt team is bound to profit by it. Baker stepped right in and took Charley Edwards' job away from him in 1929, and this year he won general recognition as one of the finest quarters in the game. He was the main cog in the Pitt machine and after a brilliant season was chosen to play quarterback on Andy Kerr's all-Eastern eleven in the big Shrine Hospital benefit game against an all-Western outfit in San Francisco on December 27.

Daugherty, who will be playing his final season for the Panthers, has all the requisites of a good quarterback, combining rare football smartness with uncommon mechanical ability, and no reason is apparent why he should not be a success at his new post. And the vacancy he leaves probably will be well cared for, too, as Tormey, who is in line for the regular job at center, showed enough in his few opportunities this year to indicate that he will develop quickly into a snapperback of the front rank.

THE GREAT FOOTBALL team turned out by Greasy Neale at Washington and Jefferson in 1921, which was undefeated in 11 games, left a lasting memory on the Pacific Coast, which it held California to a scoreless tie in the Tournament of Roses game following the regular season.

Dink Templeton

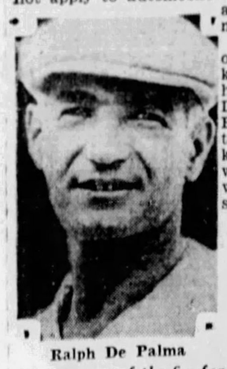
In praising Dartmouth for its work in a losing game against Stanford on November 29 this year, Dick Templeton, former star punter and track athlete and now track coach at Stanford, pays a tribute to the Presidents of nine seasons ago. That was the team that knocked off Pitt, Carnegie Tech, Syracuse, Lehigh, West Virginia, Detroit, Bucknell, West Virginia Wesleyan, Westminster and Bethany before holding the Bears to a draw. It had such players as Stein, Brenkert, West, Kopf, Erickson, Crook, Neal, Widerquist, Basista, Konvalinka, Vince, McLaughlin, and others.

"DARTMOUTH HAD THE sweetest bunch of tacklers that I have seen since Washington and Jefferson held the California wonder team scoreless in the Rose game following the season of 1921," Templeton says. "It was the surest, snappiest, most polished football aggregation that the East ever sent out. Dartmouth gave no indication of wilting before the greatest offense that Pop Warner ever has devised. A sub end named Whitehair was a darb. A sub center named Kimball was the season's toughest lineman on the Stanford stadium. Stanford's 14-to-7 victory over Dartmouth was twice the achievement of Stanford's two wins over Army in 1928 and 1929." He adds that the 30,000 attendance was a disgrace which Stanford will try for years to alibi away."

A PITTSBURGH VISITOR, greeting old friends at Pitt and about town, is Jimmy DeHart, a four-letter Panther athlete of undying memory, football captain in 1919 after returning from two years of war service, and since his graduation here a successful gridiron coach at Georgia, Washington and Lee, and Duke, in the order named.

Jimmy recently gave up his post at Duke to accept one of several other coaching offers which he has received for next year, but he has not yet made a definite selection. Washington and Lee, where he coached before going to Duke, is so eager to get him back that it is holding the place open for him and has given him an option on it until January 1. In the meantime the former Pitt star is considering several other offers, but expects to make a choice before the end of next week.

IN SOME SPORTS, particularly boxing, veterans contend that the present top-notchers do not compare with those of earlier years. But in the opinion of such an authority as Ralph De Palma, that does not apply to automobile racing. He says the race drivers of today are smarter and get more out of their machines than did the old-timers.



Ralph De Palma

De Palma puts the youngsters ahead of champion drivers whose names were known all over the world in the years that have gone. As to his own contemporaries, De Palma names Joe Boyer, David Bruce Brown, Jimmy Murphy and Dario Resta as the greatest pilots he ever drove against or knew. All of them are dead. It was Resta who raced De Palma neck and neck in 1915, when Ralph won the big annual sweepstakes at Indianapolis.

THE FOLLOWING WAS received from William Farrar, Jr., of Beaver: "It seems an injustice has been done several players by Messrs. Rockne, Jones, Alexander and Warner in selecting their all-America team, such as Macaluso, of Colgate, who led the entire country in scoring, Schwartz, who pulled plenty of games out of the fire for Mr. Rockne, and several others who could be mentioned. Georgia Tech, soundly beaten by several teams including Carnegie Tech, placed six men on the all-America honor squad; California, which took a 74-to-0 liching and another by 41 to 0, placed four men; Stanford, coached by Mr. Warner and defeated by U. S. C., 41 to 12, placed five; U. S. C., which Notre Dame drubbed so soundly, placed the unbelievable total of 13, Notre Dame being just behind with 12. Yet Pitt and Carnegie, with several fine men, could place only the huge total of one between them in the select circle. I believe an injustice has been done some of the boys on Pittsburgh's teams."

LARGELY ON THE strength of the fact that the show had been advertised as one for the benefit of the poor, the fistic card which Young Stribling and Tuffy Griffiths headed in Chicago the other night drew the handsome gate of $84,243, or $68,491 with state tax deducted. But it develops that the slice going to charity will not be overly thick.

The "poor" for whom the show was supposed to be held must have referred to the participating fighters and the promoters, as Stribling took 30 per cent, or $20,547; Griffiths 25 per cent, or $17,122, and the other boxers on the bill $7,525. That leaves $23,297, and when other expenses are taken out the promoters will slip 25 per cent of the remainder to charity. The poor's bit will not exceed $5,000.

PERHAPS A FOOTBALL coach can't be blamed much for throwing in the towel after his team has lost 16 games in succession. That's the sorry record made by Iowa State College, of Ames, where Noel Workman, an Ohio State man, has just added another name to the

WAYNESBURG, TITAN TUTORS MAY QUIT

By JESS CARVER.

Frank Wolfe

It is probable, however, that both Frank Wolfe, at Waynesburg, and Dike Beede, at Westminster, will be among the missing by next fall.

The tip has been out for some time that Beede is fed up with coaching football at New Wilmington, and that he'll drop the reins and devote his entire time to his insurance business at his home in Youngstown. Dike has had moderate success with so-so material during his stay at the United Presbyterian institution. It's a tough racket coaching football there, where the student enrollment is small and where, to say the least, football is not the victim of over emphasis.

SUCCESSOR IN DOUBT

His successor, so the soothsayers have it, will be a Pitt man.

Waynesburg's situation is about the same as at Westminster. Frank Wolfe, himself a former Penn State star, has been laboring nobly under tough, to say the least, conditions, for the past four or five years. The Jackets haven't won any titles during that time, but they've always been tough clubs to turn back. Wolfe, too, is engaged in business on the side, but whether he is going to drop Waynesburg or Waynesburg drop him cannot be told.

The Tipoff

Tonight, of all nights, Chick Davies will shoot his Duke varsity arrangement of 1950 against the Duquesne University Alumni team. This game is an annual affair at Duquesne, and while it seldom brings out much good basketball, it always is good for a laugh or two.

• The usual procedure is for the Alumni to line up everybody it can who ever played basketball at Duquesne about a week ahead of time, and then, when time for the game rolls around, about five or six of 'em show up. For tonight's game, they are hoping to have all the members of the 1927 team, including Roy O'Donovan, Johnny Serbin, Sticks Monohan, Dickie Schrading, Jock Rosenberg and Dom De Maria on hand.

They have been trying to get Johnny Holohan to don a uniform and play in this game for the past three years, but since John has taken to wearing a trunk strap for a belt, they can't get a suit to fit him.

Coach O. H. Burton, of Westinghouse, broke out into a cold, clammy sweat yesterday when he was unexpectedly called upon for a speech (Speech! Speech!) at the student assembly honoring his championship football team. Then the boys presented him with, of all things, a basket of flowers.

This evening Ambridge will put on its annual sport banquet. The affair was inaugurated last year and went over with a series of bangs and booms. An all-star lineup of celebrities will be on hand for the edification of the Ambridge folks tomorrow, including Bob Waddell, John Highberger and Capt. John Dreshar, of Tech; Assistant Coach Ray Montgomery, Capt.-elect Eddie Hirschberg and Franklyn Hood, of Pitt; John Holohan, Elmer Layden and Capt.-elect Mike Ferrera, of Duquesne, and Harry Keck and this correspondent, of the Sun-Telegraph.

FOWNES ILL, QUITS GOLF

William C. Fownes, Jr., former president of the U. S. G. A. and national amateur golf champion in 1920, will be out of competitive golf for the entire winter and spring season. Fownes suffered a heart attack three weeks ago and is confined to his Pinehurst (N. C.) home, under the care of physicians.

Fownes' office here has been informed that the former champion has been ordered by a heart specialist from Johns Hopkins University, of Baltimore, to remain in bed for at least a month, and that strenuous golf of any sort has been forbidden until he thoroughly recovers from the heart attack that took him out of the annual tournaments now in progress at Pinehurst.

"Mr. Fownes' condition is not considered serious," a spokesman from the Fownes and Orr Investment Corporation told the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph today, "but he has been ordered to take a long rest. He probably will not engage in any competitive golf this winter and likely not before next summer."

DEDICATION TONIGHT

CHICAGO, Dec. 18.—(AP.)—It will not be just another basketball game when Pennsylvania meets Wisconsin tonight at Madison, for the Badgers' beautiful new half million dollar field house will be formally dedicated. An all-day program has been arranged to observe the successful conclusion of Athletic Director George Little's four-year fight to build a field house for Wisconsin.

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: BILLY SEYMOUR TRAVELED 192 MILES ON SNOWSHOES IN 42 HOURS—In the winter of 1907-1908, Billy Seymour, a half-breed Indian, employed by the Hudson's Bay Company, traveled on snowshoes from the Hudson's Bay post at Fort George to the post at Quesnel and return. He made no stops and carried a pack of 60 pounds. The trip was made on urgent company business. Seymour returned to Fort George at 11 o'clock in the evening, and, at 7 the next morning, he was on the trail with J. A. F. Campbell, of Victoria, B. C., the contributor of this suggestion. THE OLD CRAB WITH A BEAUTIFUL FACE—The discovery of a crab with a beautiful likeness of a woman etched on its back has been considered an omen of evil by the superstitious Chinese. The crab was found in Swatow, China, this year, and is being exhibited in the Sun Sy Guy Auditorium in Shanghai. My drawing was made from an original photo taken by a Chinese resident of New York City who just returned from the Orient. BETTY CADDY, OF CORNWALL, CARRIED HER HORSE—The "Great Betty Caddy," or Betty Rutter, of the parish of Curry, Cornwall, England, was one of the most notable examples of strength in the so-called "weaker sex." She was able to "lift her horse with ease and, laden with two (Winchester) bushels of wheat, carry it up the steps to Town Hall, 1774. (See Alfred Cumming's "Churches and Antiquities," page 217.)

FRENCH, BRAME MAY HOLD OUT

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

Pirate officials today stated they did not anticipate any serious salary disagreements with players in connection with the contracts for next year. It is altogether likely that some of the athletes already are in the fold, but there are a few stars who are likely to present a problem before they are signed.

Paul Waner

Larry French and Ervin Brame, two of the club's first-string pitchers, may kick up quite a fuss before they sign on the dotted line. And there is a likelihood of controversy with Paul Waner, who now is said to be the highest-salaried player on the team.

The Buccaneer officials did not experience any stubborn resistance last year, although Dick Bartell raised quite a rumpus before he accepted terms. Two years ago the Waner boys gave their employers some anxious days ere they reported to the team.

"Some fellows return their documents unsigned at least once just by force of habit," observed Vice President Sam Dreyfuss as he touched on the question. The younger member of the home team's directorate does not expect any bad holdout trouble in the direction of Brother Paul.

CARNERA FAVORED

LONDON, Dec. 18.—(INS.)—Primo Carnera, Italian heavyweight, was an outstanding favorite today for his scheduled six-round bout tonight with Reggie Meen, British heavyweight. The fight will be staged at Albert Hall.

Basketball Rules Quiz

PLAY NO 16

On a jump ball, Larson, of Bethany, taps the ball away from Binns, of Ottawa, and then taps it a second time. The ball falls to the floor without touching another player and Larson catches it as it rebounds and dribbles down the floor and shoots a basket.

What is the correct ruling?

ANSWER

The referee rules that a legal field goal has been made. The two taps are considered as a part of the jump ball and not as a part of a dribble.

GREENLEAF IN FINAL

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—(AP.)—Ralph Greenleaf remained in the running for the world pocket billiards championship last night as he overwhelmed Onofrio Lauri, of New York, 125 to 21, in 24 innings of his semi-final match. Greenleaf, the defending champion, now can repeat last year's feat of tying Erwin Rudolph, of Chicago, and forcing a playoff for the title by winning today's final match.

The defeat dropped Lauri into a tie for third place with Frank Taberski, Schenectady, N. Y., veteran who defeated Pasquale Natalie, of Chicago, 125 to 120 in this afternoon's match. Each won four games and lost three.

KUMMER, NOTED JOCKEY, DIES

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—(AP.)—Clarence J. Kummer, noted jockey, who rode Man o' War to many victories, died today at his home in Jamaica, Queens. He was 31 years old. Kummer had been ill for several days with pneumonia.

In 1920 Man o' War won 11 races and Kummer was in the saddle in nine of them.

Starting his career 15 years ago as a lad of 16, he rode some of the best horses in the country, winning almost all of the important prizes except the Kentucky Derby and Belmont Futurity. He rode Ladkin to a noteworthy victory in the international race with Epinard.

In 1920, with Kummer up, Man o' War defeated Sir Barton at Windsor, Ont., in a $75,000 match race. That was the last race in which the famous horse and the noted jockey were associated.

Kummer had been out of the saddle more than four years. As a result of contract difficulties, his application for a license was laid on the table by the stewards of the Jockey Club here in March, 1926, this action barring him from New York tracks.

The year before, the second call on Kummer's services was sold to Clifford A. Cochram, millionaire turfman, for $15,000. Most of his greatest successes were gained in the silks of Samuel D. Riddle, owner of Man O' War.

Kummer's specialty was the winning of big and important races rather than compiling impressive records of victories over an entire season. He never led his fellow jockeys in total races won, but he had a faculty for coming through in the pinch. Like the late Snapper Garrison, he was a "money rider."

BLUFF QUINT, ALUMNI PLAY LID-LIFTER

The first basketball game to be played by the current varsity five of Chick Davies will get under way at 8 o'clock tonight when an alumni quintet meets the Duquesne University passers. Capt. Brud Stevens, new flour leader, will pit his men against the oldtimers, headed by Roy (Pum) O'Donovan.

John D. Holahan, graduate manager of athletics at Duquesne, promises an exciting contest between the two teams tonight as the annual classic is staged. Ganzy Benedict, last year's court captain, will be at one forward and Paul Abele at the other. Bunk McGeever will jump center, Snake Parry and Captain Stevens will hold down the guards against the great names of yesteryear.

The services of Johnny Serbin, Dick Schrading, Sticks Monohan and Jock Rosenberg have also been pledged along with those of Capt. O'Donovan.

The preliminary game will be between the Duke Frosh and the Wilmerding Y. M. C. A., beginning at 7:15 o'clock. The probable starting lineup:

Varsity		Alumni
Benedict	F	(C) O'Donovan
Abele	F	Serbin
McGeever	C	Monohan
Stevens (C)	G	Schrading
Parry	G	Rosenberg

Time—8 p. m.
Place—Duke Gymnasium.

PANTHERS BEAT MARQUETTE

MILWAUKEE, Dec. 18.—Pitt stalked Marquette University for fully two-thirds of the intersectional contest here last night at the Auditorium before it found a vital spot and won a 24-to-18 victory.

With about eight minutes of the second half finished and the score favoring Pitt, 10 to 7, the Carlson five opened its full offensive.

W. Kowallis scored on a short shot; Smith dribbled in for an easy sleeper; Captain Arture sank a pot shot on an out of bounds play and then added an extra point from charity lane when fouled, to bring the score to 17 to 7.

McElligott and Shipley heaved in one apiece from far out, and after Lawry had added a free throw, Capt. King spun a field goal from mid-floor and another point from the foul line to shave the margin to 18 to 14.

Then Lawry, who had acted as a tonic on his team upon replacing Cohen in the first half, got away again and, on one of the brightest individual plays of the game, whistled into the net a sensational one-handed try. McElligott got it back a moment later with a similar shot.

Smith, Panther guard and high scorer of the struggle, skilled blithely behind the Hill Top defense and speared a pot shot that just about settled the hash. Joe King hooked one for Marquette as the final seconds ebbed, but just to make it secure, Smith made a beautiful overhead, one-handed shot while under full steam just as the gun cracked. The lineup:

Cohen	F	Fitzgerald
W. Kowallis	F	McElligott
Albright	C	Budrunas
Arture	G	King
Smith	G	Shipley

Substitutions—Pitt, Lawry for Cohen; Marquette, Savage for Fitzgerald, McQueen for Budrunas, Ronzani for Shipley. Field goals—Cohen, Lawry 2, W. Kowallis, Arture, Smith 3, Fitzgerald, McElligott 2, King 2, Shipley 2. Fouls—Pitt, 6 out of 11; Marquette, 4 out of 6. Referee—George Levis, Wisconsin.

COMMISSION LIFTS BAN

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 18.—(INS.)—Scores of reinstatements were handed down to boxers, managers, promoters and seconds at the regular weekly meeting of the State Athletic Commission here preceding the Christmas holiday season. Only two punishments were meted out, Rene De Vos and Sammy Dorfman, both New York boxers, being suspended indefinitely.

Promoters—J. Kantar, Clearfield, Pa.
Seconds—Ray Arcel, New York.

TOM TO FIGHT ANDRUCCI NEXT WEEK

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

Tommy Crawley, favorite lightweight of the Irish on the South Side, is to return to action in local rings, making his first appearance at the Moose Temple, downtown, next Friday night, likely against Andy Andrucci, of the East End. Andrucci, like Crawley, has been off the boards here for some time, and, like Crawley, too, he is a good drawing card for the promoters. From the time he came out of the amateur ranks, he has been a good seller of tickets, while Crawley's drawing powers never have been questioned.

Promoter Apples Meyers hopes to close the match today. Meanwhile, he has everything ready for his weekly show tomorrow night, featuring Jimmy Kelly, of the North Side, and Eddie Brannon, of the Hill, in the main bout. Dan Gallagher and Frank Novak in the semi-final, Sammy Paris and Terry Waner in the second bout and Joe Orsini and Frankie Portland in the opener.

Between Rounds

Jim McGirr stages a special amateur boxing show of 12 bouts in his Pastorius arena, Mt. Oliver, tonight. The managers have been drawing better than 3,000 in the Tube City and the card tonight includes much of the amateur talent of the district, as follows:

126 pounds—Angelo Emerson, Clairton, vs. Musky Callahan, McKeesport.

Bark McTiernan will be giving away considerable weight to Allen Dundee when they meet in that Christmas afternoon show at Motor Square Garden. At first McTiernan agreed to accept Dundee as a substitute for Tommy Freeman, the welterweight champion, who admits he doesn't want any of Bark's game, at 135 pounds, but Dundee's manager has gradually stepped up the weight until now it is placed at 147 pounds, give or take a pound, which means 150, at 10 a. m. McTiernan will scale about 135 or 134 and has agreed to the heavy poundage only with a stipulation that $250 weight forfeits be posted.

Local amateur boxers will be busy both at home and away tomorrow night. A team match of seven bouts between the Willow Club and Al Sands A. C., of Uniontown, is scheduled for the Keystone A. C., while another local team will compete in an inter-city show at the Cleveland A. C. Fritz Rizzo, Paul Minor, Vincent Shabbo, Steve Smith, Bob Rupple, Mike Chomyak and Curley Klaus make up the team for the Cleveland trip.

Another amateur show is slated for tomorrow night in the Avalon Borough Hall for the benefit of the Gold Star Mothers of the borough. The bouts will get under way at 9 o'clock. A benefit show of seven amateur bouts is carded at the East Pittsburgh Moose Hall tonight for the unemployed of that district.

Billy Angelo boxes Charley Cobb at Cincinnati and Miki Goth meets Jimmy Slavin in New York tonight. Chip Freeman and Bill Flannigan box the main bout of a show for the benefit of the Red Cross at Clearfield, Pa., with Tiny Trinkle and Jesse Duke in the semi-final.

George Panka, Homestead heavyweight, will take a rest of several weeks before he boxes again, following his knockout defeats in his last two fights. He feels he will be able to come back to his best form and make good in spite of his reverses. In any event, he will not give up the ring without taking at least one more fling at it.

Tommy Phillips' Twenty-first Ward Republican Club will stage another amateur show in Columbus Temple, North Side, next Tuesday night. Herbie Chickos will box Elmer Koval and Bob Rupple will meet Ray Windbush in two bouts so far arranged.

JACKETS RALLY TO TIE SYRACUSE, 4-4

M'GUIRE HERO IN EXTRA-TIME ICE BATTLE

SYRACUSE, Dec. 18.—The Yellow Jackets of Pittsburgh and the Syracuse Stars played to a 4-4 tie here last night in a hectic International League struggle marked by fist fights and verbal jousts with Referee Tommy Hughitt.

When it looked as though they were hopelessly beaten, the Jackets came from behind in the third period to forge ahead with three quick goals.

The Syracuse defense was completely at rout in the third and overtime periods after the Jackets had chalked up enough tallies to tie the score.

Tory Gregg, battling wingman of the Jackets, and Capt. Billy Holmes, of Syracuse, went at each other with their fists in the second frame. Holmes was penalized.

McGuire proved the hero of the Jacket sextet when he clicked in two goals in the third period. Tex White, recent addition from Philadelphia, annexed the marker that gave the visitors a tie. The overtime frame yielded no scores for either side. The lineup:

Pittsburgh—4.		Syracuse—4.
Cox	G	Fisher
Gregg	W	Markin
Proudfoot	W	Lauder
Fields	C	Holmes
Bartlett	D	Fournier
Bane	D	Hughes

Umpire—Hughitt, of Buffalo.

Spares—Pittsburgh, McGuire, McIntyre, Halliday, R. Smith, White, Quintile, Mansfield; Syracuse, Pilsinglin, Brown, Klein, Paddon.

First period—No score. Penalties—Fournier 4.

Second period—Fournier (unassisted), 4:00; Klein (Brown), 6:24; Fournier (unassisted), 9:05; Gregg (Proudfoot), 15:00. Penalties—Pittsburgh, McIntyre, Gregg; Halliday, Proudfoot; Syracuse, White, Brown, Hughes, Fournier.

Third period—Pittsburgh, McGuire (McIntyre), 5:00; McGuire (unassisted), 6:50; White (Gregg), 9:00; Brown (Fournier), 14:20.

Sport Vignettes

This is the time of the year when the sweet young things who froze in the grandstands throughout the football season put their knowledge of the game to advantage doing their Christmas shopping . . . . Running second only to the old draft dodge of baseball for space in the newspapers is the annual eruption in Penn football, which, like death and taxes, always is with us . . . . Clairton High School, which was nosed out of its W. P. I. A. L. football championship this fall, gets a bit of consolation out of the fact that one of its former stars, George T. Lasich, the fullback, has been named captain of the Penn State eleven for next fall. He is the first State fullback to be so honored since George Snell was captain in 1921.

Plans of the local baseball scribes to put on a minstrel show this winter instead of their annual banquet have been temporarily shelved while Chilly Doyle practices up on his Sweet Rosie O'Grady dance. . . . Among the fellows who don't care what happens to them is Shano Collins, who has let himself be sandbagged into taking over the job of managing the Boston Red Sox, which is one way of committing baseball suicide. . . . Aside from Collins at Boston, the only changes in the major league managing ranks will find Joe McCarthy shifted from the leadership of the Chicago Cubs to that of the New York Yankees, with his old pal, Rogers Hornsby, succeeding him in the town where Mrs. O'Leary's cow was the original racket.

Apples Meyers, of the Moose Temple, will be capitalizing his nickname on some corner soon if business doesn't pick up at his boxing club, where he's been trying hard all season, but just simply doesn't seem able to get a break. . . . Which is a tip that you don't want to pass up a chance to see his Jimmy Kelly tossing leather against Eddie Brannon in the windup tomorrow night, this Kelly boy being one of the best dynamiters we've had around here in many moons. . . . And Dangerous Dan McGrew Gallagher, the blasting heavyweight, of the West End, and Frank Novak, the North Sider, gout on their act again in the semi-final. . . . If you want to do a good turn for the unemployed, here's your chance to do it for Apples' pocketbook, which hasn't been getting any thicker since he took over the Moose arena from Francis Flynn.

Ray Stecker, the halfback, of the Army, whose stirring 57-yard run gave his team its 6-0 victory over the Navy, is a Pennsylvania Dutchman from Hazleton and also stars in basketball and track for the Military Academy. . . . . One of the toughest hurdles in life is to be a brother or son of a famous person trying to make your mark. . . . . That applies to Vince Dundee, brother of Joe Dundee, former welterweight champion. . . . . Vince makes his Pittsburgh debut against Buck McTiernan at Motor Square Garden Christmas afternoon. . . . . For years now, he has been hiding his light under the bushel that was his brother's fame. . . . . Instead of being Vince Dundee, a good ringman, he has been Vince Dundee, the kid brother of Joe Dundee, and, as such, he always has had to play second fiddle, although he has been meeting the best men in the welterweight and middleweight divisions. . . . It was the same way with Tom Gibbons while his brother, Mike, the celebrated St. Paul Phantom, was boxing. . . . . It was not until after Mike quit the ring that the fans were willing to give Brother Tom a tumble, and then he proved good enough, as a light-heavyweight, to go 15 rounds with the then man-killer, Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion, without being knocked off his feet in a bout in which there was no payoff for him at the box office.—HARRY KECK.

It is a record with few if any parallels in big-time college football. Iowa State won only a single game in the last two seasons. That was the opening event in 1929, when it defeated Grinnell, 26 to 7. During the remainder of that campaign it dropped seven games in a row to Missouri, Marquette, Kansas, Oklahoma, Kansas State, Drake and Nebraska. This year it was beaten in every one of nine games played, losing to Illinois, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, Missouri, Kansas Aggies, Drake, Loyola of New Orleans, and Rice.

Mike Donlin

TALKING OVER WITH Joe Tinker and Johnny Evers some of the battles between the Giants and Cubs in the old days, Mike Donlin, a Pirate in 1912 but earlier a star slugger and a riot of color for the Giants, recalled that one of the things John McGraw pulled on the Bruins brought about a change in the baseball rules. "Dummy Taylor had the Cubs beaten, 5 to 0, in the ninth inning," Donlin related, "but they suddenly started to hit him. Christy Mathewson had gone to the clubhouse and was in the showers when McGraw sent for him. After the Cubs had made four runs and had the bases filled, McGraw started to spar for time by sending one pitcher after another into the box and pulling each one out again when he had thrown four or five warm-up balls. Finally, Matty came out of the club house on the run and fanned Frank Schulte for the final out. The following winter they adopted the present rule that a pitcher has to pitch to at least one batter, retiring him or putting him on the bases, before he can be taken out."

The Goldenson Vanities scored their thirtieth straight victory and the Fraternal Order of Police relief fund realized $3,500 last night as the tri-state girls' champions defeated the Fairmont Pirates, champions of the Monongahela Valley in a benefit game on the Duquesne University floor, 41 to 7. The contest was witnessed by 1,400 of the 6,000 who purchased tickets. The entire proceeds were turned over to the police fund for the needy, all expenses being borne by Meyer Goldenson, popular South Side sportsman and sponsor of the Vanities.

The crowd was by far one of the largest ever to witness a girls' basketball game in this vicinity. A varied program of entertainment was staged during the rest periods and this feature alone netted the police committee sufficient funds to purchase more than 14 tons of coal for the poor families of the city.

CANTWELLS STAR

The Goldenson Vanities, who scored 27 victories without losing a game last year, experienced no trouble in winning their third straight contest this year. Leona, Eva and Viola Cantwell and Caroline Meier were the big stars for the winners, while Ruth Irons starred for the losers with three baskets.

The Red McMahans defeated Sharpsburg Y. Reserves in the preliminary game, 33 to 13. The police committee was composed of Supt. Peter P. Walsh, Harry Hyer, John Fogarty, Peter McCullough, Philip Kumph, Morgan O'Brien and C. C. Crummer. Entertainment was furnished by Tommy Dixon and Luke Barnett. The lineup:

Vanities—41.		Fairmont—7.
L. Cantwell	F	Irons

FINTEX WINNER

Fintex beat out Ellwood City, 24-21, and Charleroi bumped Glassport, 40-31, in County League tilts last night. St. Michael's knocking off the W. U. Hoyles, 49-45, in the West Penn circuit.

Faith Chapel whipped Trinity Cathedral Royals, 38-14, in the Pittsburgh Senior Church League, and Kingsley House nosed out East Liberty, 35-33, and Wilmerding toppled Westinghouse, 38-24, in Amateur League contests.

Phi Alpha Beta won from Marshall 14-11, and the Swans beat the X Club, 31-4, in Y. M. H. A. Intra-mural League games.

The Lyceum Comets defeated the Soho Bantams, 33-28, in a four-extra-period contest that featured independent games.

EVENING SUN-TELEGRAPH MARKETS

Stocks Extend Gains — Local Stocks Advance

STOCK MARKET CONTINUES TO ADVANCE

Liquidation Appears in Spots, but Gains of 1 to 4 Points Are Numerous

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—(AP.)—With its courage restored by the sharp boost given by the flurry of shorts, the stock market scrambled further today out of the deep gully in which the selling movement had finally deposited it.

The tables were completely turned on the bears, and violent upswings in a few volatile issues suggested that they were taking considerable punishment. Trading quieted down somewhat, and the sharp advance of yesterday's naturally brought out liquidation in spots, but further gains of 1 to 4 points were numerous, and several issues surged up 5 points and more.

Many commission houses felt that the selling climax of yesterday had clarified the situation sufficiently to justify the belief that the market's bottom had been reached. While an upturn of such violence may result in some backing and filling, the market would be acting according to precedent if it stabilized itself a little above yesterday's lows, and turned extremely dull for a time, pending conclusively constructive developments in business and trade, which may be hastened by the tonic effects of a firm market.

The market's upturn was automatic, and apparently disconnected with any new developments in industry or trade, although the most recent reports have been mildly encouraging.

The day's business reports included the weekly report of building contracts let in the states east of the Rockies, which indicated a daily average of $9,274,200 in the first 11 business days of the month, compared with $11,424,000 last month, and $12,654,000 in December of last year. The opinion is being expressed in building circles that the next major movement will be upward. For the year to date, contracts have fallen more than 2 per cent below last year.

Money continued to ease. Call loans renewed at 2 per cent and were available outside at 1½. There was little demand, suggesting that much of the buying of stocks represented short covering.

Cities Service Net Gains in November

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—Cities Service Company November net earnings were $4,439,678, compared with $4,314,815 for November, 1929.

The company declared the regular monthly dividends of 2½ cents cash and ½ of 1 per cent in stock on the common stock; 50 cents on the preferred and preference "BB" stock, and 5 cents on the preference "B," all payable February 2 to record of January 15.

De Beers Capital Raise Approved

LONDON, Dec. 18.—Shareholders of De Beers Consolidated Mines, Ltd., approved the increase in capital to £5,500,000 by creation of 300,000 £2 10 shilling deferred shares.

Sir Ernest Oppenheimer, chairman, stated this month's preference dividend was assured and that next June's payment was assured also, assuming there is a moderate revival of sales.

State's Crop Value Put at $218,324,000

HARRISBURG, Dec. 18.—The Federal-State Crop Reporting Service today placed Pennsylvania's total 1930 crop yield value at $218,324,000, approximately $22,000,000 less than value placed on 1929 crop. According to the report, a combination of drought, slow market and low prices has made 1930 the worst of three successive lean years for farmers.

Competition Causes Flour Price Cut

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Dec. 18.—Increased competition was credited with causing an average reduction of 20 cents a barrel in the mill prices of family patent flour in carlots. Some mills, however, reported no change in price. Barrel quotations ranged from $5.25 to $5.35.

Oil City Bank Pays Double Dividend

OIL CITY, Pa., Dec. 18.—Officials of the Oil City Trust Company announced payment of a double dividend amounting to 36 per cent. This, together with the six months' check of 17 per cent, paid the first half of the year, brings total paid to stockholders for 1930 to 53 per cent.

General Motors Truck Prices Cut

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—General Motors Truck Company has reduced prices on three light-duty models, and also on all types of six-wheel heavy-duty model.

Bank of England Rate Unchanged

LONDON, Dec. 18.—The Bank of England made no change in its discount rate, which is 3 per cent.

STANDARDIZED THINKING HITS VALUES

American Public Rushes To Exaggerated Optimism Or Extreme Pessimism

By MERLE S. RUKEYSER.

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—Investment values suffer from the excessive standardization of American thinking and feeling about financial matters.

Esoteric observers have criticized standardization of American taste in art and letters, and there is evidence of the same fault in the more sordid matters of the mundane financial community. Before the panic last autumn, the crowd ran together in the direction of exaggerated optimism. Subsequently in recurrent episodes of fright, the pendulum has been going to the other extreme.

Mr. Rukeyser.

In the alleged "new era," whose demise was sounded on October 24, 1929, it was commonly observed that the business cycle had been adjourned. Then it was thought that prosperity would endure forever. Now pessimists are asserting that the business cycle has been adjourned, meaning that depression will be everlasting. Both conclusions run counter to human experience.

GO TO EXTREME

Referring to this standardization of American attitude, Thomas W. Lamont, partner of J. P. Morgan, in a talk before members of the New York Stock Exchange, said:

"The American people never do anything by halves, and when things are looking up we are not satisfied with a normal prosperity. We want to have it on a constantly ascending scale.

"We become exalted and declare that poverty can never touch us. When the picture changes we are never contended with a baby depresion. We insist that it shall be man-sized, shall be thorough-going and complete."

As business approaches the new year, an outstanding problem of management is better to balance the supply and the demand for working people. Business generally can learn something from pioneering concerns, like Hickey-Freeman Company, Rochester, N. Y., clothing manufacturers, which has gone far in reducing turnover and in heightening steadiness of employment.

STEADIER EMPLOYMENT

In telling me how this was accomplished, G. W. Brayer, sales executive of the company, said:

"Our woolen buyers made arrangements with the woolen mills to purchase overcoat cloth considerably in advance of the usual season at slightly reduced prices. This enabled the mills manufacturing the cloth to give their employes steadier employment.

"We in turn passed this saving on to the retailer—provided he placed a part of his overcoat requirements with us in advance of the usual selling season.

"Our sales forces go out in February and book orders on overcoats for delivery in September. This enables us to keep our overcoat shops busy the year around. You might be interested to know that up until the past few months our cutting department has worked full time for the past four years. This is a partial result of our pre-season selling of overcoats."

Such actual innovations by forward-looking business men are a challenge to other executives to work out in a creative spirit the problem of readjustment.

Lone Star Buys Texas Gasoline Plants

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

LONE STAR GAS CORPORATION yesterday announced the closing of contracts for the purchase of additional casing head gasoline plants, pipe lines, gas leases and equipment in Texas from Chestnut and Smith Corporation of Tulsa.

A total of $3,750,000 was paid for the properties. Payment was made with 37,500 shares of 6 per cent cumulative $100 par preferred stock of the Lone Star Gasoline Corporation, a new subsidiary which early this week was incorporated in Delaware.

The purchase is a continuation of the expasion policy which has been under way for the past five years. Lone Star recently has developed new gas producing areas, has added to pipe lines and has increased its distribution. The casing head plants are a necessary part of the production of natural gas. They extract the valuable by-product gasoline which would cause operating difficulties if allowed to remain in the lines.

The sale also includes property owned by Chestnut and Smith at Westwego, La., and the trademark "Naturaline."

No Public Offering

CHESTNUT AND SMITH will sell their holdings of Lone Star Gasoline preferred to Bancamerica-Blair Corporation for $3,125,000 cash. Bancamerica-Blair will also pay $150,000 of Chestnut and Smith indebtedness to Texas Pacific Coal and Oil Company and $100,000 to V. N. Roadstrum, a director of Chestnut and Smith, as commission in connection with the transaction.

It is understood that there will be no public offering of the Lone Star Gasoline preferred stock at this time. The part played by Bancamerica-Blair in the transaction is generally believed to mark the establishment of a new banking affiliation for Lone Star.

Earnings Maintained

LONE STAR GAS has been able to maintain its earnings at a high rate during the present year in spite of the depressed state of business. It is one of the few companies which increased its dividend rate during 1930. The annual rate was raised from 80 cents to $1 a share with the March 31 payment.

Last May, directors declared a stock dividend of one share of common for every seven shares outstanding, payable to stock of record February 2, 1931. This date was selected to permit the stock dividend to be payable on the last two offerings of additional stock, final payment for which will not be completed until January.

Reflects Expansion

INCREASING EARNINGS have reflected recent expansion to some extent but the full benefits will not be apparent until many of the recently organized distributing properties have had time to fully develop sales. This usually requires about three years.

Net profit after all charges, including depreciation and depletion, in 1929 was $6,540,580 which was equivalent to $1.81 a share on 3,595,841 shares of common stock. This compared with $4,824,805 or $3.31 a share on 1,458,851 shares in 1928 and with $3,829,901 or $3.48 a share on 1,099,327 shares in 1927. The stock was split 2½-for-1 in June, 1929.

STOCK EXCHANGE TOPICS

National Biscuit's earnings this year held rather well, because the company benefited from lower commodity prices, and the demand for its products is relatively stable. The company reported an increase in earnings for the first nine months of about 5 per cent over those of the corresponding period last year, whereas the results of 21 leading manufacturers and distributors of food products recorded a decrease of 5 per cent in that period. Thus, National Biscuit has done better than others in the food line. The company is the largest manufacturer of biscuits in the world, and is expanding steadily.

Wall street again is discussing American Can dividend prospects. Although an extra was declared only about three months ago, some interests hold that the directors may increase the regular annual basis from $4 to $5 a share in the near future. The argument is advanced that such action could be taken in view of the good earnings for this year and the prospects for favorable conditions in the canmaking industry next year. Good buying is reported to have come into the stock recently on a downward scale.

Those who are in a position to know what is going on, so far as buying and selling for foreign account is a factor in the stock market, contend that entirely too much stress is being laid upon such operations. In such circles, it is declared that selling for foreign account has contributed only in a small way to the decline that has been in progress during the last three months. Interest from that source has been unusually light, it is maintained, and could not have influenced the trend of things in the least. Some buying for foreign account was reported to have been going into the oil shares during yesterday's session, but this buying, much the same as the recent selling, was reputedly not of important proportions.

Selling in the petroleum shares again assumed heavy proportions through the first half of yesterday, driving prices for the leaders in the group to new low levels. Weekly figures on crude oil and gasoline production were not especially encouraging, crude output having turned up slightly while a small drop in gasoline output was shown. But the comment of Lamp, house organ of Standard of New Jersey, in which the facts were put bluntly to all refiners, indicated that progress in reducing current output of gasoline had not been wholly satisfactory in the eyes of the leaders. Refiners were told that they must cut production 7 to 8 per cent if they hope to avoid next year a duplication of troubles encountered this year. And later in the day the street heard that the head of one of the big independents was expected to come out with a statement which would not be susceptible to bullish interpretation.

The spectacular rebound staged by the railroad shares yesterday indicated clearly the fact that bear selling has been a powerful influence in the headlong decline in that quarter of the list during the last month or six weeks. Carrier stocks were under renewed pressure of heavy selling in the first half of the session when Atchison, New York Central, Southern Railway and a host of other issues dropped back to new low levels. But with the turn in the market going into the afternoon, the railroad list snapped back in a most sensational manner. New York Central rebounded some 4 points after having sold at a new low, and Atchison which had dipped to a new low at 168, swung back spectacularly for a rebound of 10 points.

Perhaps no other condition shows so plainly the completeness of the reversal of sentiment in Wall Street from that of the summer of 1929, as the trend of discussion in the average brokerage house these days. Board rooms are not, of course, so well populated now as at that time, but a goodly portion of the chairs are being kept warm ngvertheless. In the summer of last year when the market was in the final and most exciting phase of the long bull market, some of the skeptics were wont to ask the question, "Where is the top?" But until the peak was reached in September such queries remained unanswered. Now the exact reverse of that query is strictly in order. What the average small-sized trader would like to know is "Where is the bottom?" and perhaps the answer, much the same as 18 months ago, will not be forthcoming until the market itself gives it.

Steel Firm to Open New Rail Mill Soon

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—The Weirton Steel division of National Steel Corporation will on December 29 start operation of a new combination rail and structural steel mill at Weirton, W. Va. The mill has a capacity of 20,000 tons a month, increasing the company's finishing capacity at the Weirton plant to a total of 1,300,000 tons a year, Ernest T. Weir, chairman of National Steel Corporation, announced today.

Ford Detroit Plant Down for Holidays

DETROIT, Dec. 18.—(AP.)—Production was suspended in the Ford Motor Company's plants here today. A statement by the company said the suspension "is in line with the policy of closing at this season of the year in order that an inventory may be taken."

Rail Heads Resume Merger Parleys

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—Conferences between principal eastern railroad executives looking to formulation of a four-party plan agreement, have been resumed. The next conference is scheduled to take place early next week.

It is generally understood that important progress has been made and that prospects for ultimate agreement are materially improved.

West Coast Utility Makes Rate Cut

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 18—A voluntary reduction in electric rates by Southern California Edison Company, Ltd., amounting to $775,000 a year, has been approved by the California railroad commission. The new rates will be effective May 1, 1931.

Merger of Boston Banks Approved

BOSTON, Dec. 18.—Stockholders of Boston National Bank have approved the consolidation with Continental National Bank, to become effective upon approval by the comptroller of currency.

Fundy's Passers In Race for Loop Crown

Johnny Fundy, former featherweight champion of the A. E. F., is seeking new worlds to conquer with his Catholic Forester basketball team. The Lawrenceville passers are making a determined bid for the Greater Pittsburgh League championship, being tied for the lead at present with the Manchester Community five.

Tonight Fundy's team meets the Goose Goslins at Foresters Hall. Sunday they oppose Manchester at the same place, while Monday they meet the Duke Frosh.

MONESSEN HIGH TEAM DINED

Monessen High School celebrated its W. P. I. A. L. football championship triumph in royal style last night at a banquet given in the Junior High School auditorium at which Dr. Jock Sutherland, Pitt coach, was the principal speaker.

Monogram sweaters were presented the lettermen by O. F. Pannabaker, on behalf of the chamber of commerce, while Jacob Elperin, of Greensburg, presented a trophy for the Westmoreland County championship, donated by himself.

Other talks were made C. H. Williams, chairman of the dinner; S. Fausold, school superintendent; Kenny Cotton, retiring captain; Coach Preston A. Ditty, Principal Blackburn, of the school, Frank G. Lane, and Harry Keck, sports editor of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph. Lane presented a bag of gold to Coach Ditty and a box of flowers for Mrs. Ditty on behalf of the townspeople. Others in attendance, in addition to the personnel of the squad, were Mayor Woodward, the school board, John Anderson, former Pitt halfback, now coach at Donora High School, Tom Birks and Harper Jennings. Thomas F. Preston was toastmaster and the Rev. L. S. Elliott delivered the invocation.

In winning the W. P. I. A. L. title, Monessen played 11 games and was not scored upon until the play-off finale with Redstone High for the title, when a forward pass enabled the opposition to tally. The score of this game, last Saturday, was 12-6. Monessen scored 115 points during the season.

MAJESTICS OUT TO COP TITLE

By TOM BIRKS.

With the Majestics scheduled to tangle with the Ambridge Mystics at West View Park Sunday, the crowning of the independent conference champion is near. All that Art Rooney's great Green and Gold cracks must accomplish is a tie with the Black and White aggregation from the Ohio Valley.

Art Rooney has been in the sport racket long enough to know that there is many a slip before titles are annexed, and the popular North Side manager is not likely to take any chances of jeopardizing his hard-fought campaign.

Ambridge has a great team, with a powerful line, but will it be able to stop the Kelsh, Glenn, Rooney and Vaughan combination which has proved so effective this season?

A meeting of the managers of the conference will be held early next week. There is some talk regarding the staging of a banquet to close the season.

The managers also intend to talk over things for next season. It always takes a season to find out mistakes, and the managers are pretty well familiar with prevailing conditions.

Noted Chess Star To Exhibit Here

Lajos Steiner, noted Hungarian chess player, will give a series of exhibitions at the Pittsburgh Chess Club, 608 Investment Building, tomorrow evening at 8 p. m. and Saturday afternoon and evening. Steiner is ranked with the leading chess masters of the world, and has finished second on two occasions to Dr. Alexhine, recognized as the world champion.

MAX OFFERED $500,000 TO FIGHT STRIB

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—(AP.)—A situation similar to the one which sent the first Dempsey-Tunney heavyweight championship fight to Philadelphia arose today as new complications were tossed in upon the edict of the New York State Athletic Commission that Max Schmeling must agree within 15 days to defend his title against Jack Sharkey.

Following hard on the ultimatum, which apparently eliminated William (Young) Stribling from consideration, came an offer which brought the Georgian right back into the heavyweight picture. Nate Lewis, matchmaker of the Chicago Stadium, offered Schmeling $500,000 to defend his crown against Stribling in Chicago next spring.

With promoters in general fighting shy of the proposed Sharkey-Schmeling bout just as they avoided the Dempsey-Wills battle demanded by New York's boxing solons five years ago, it seemed likely that the next heavyweight championship scrap would go West, again eliminating New York from consideration unless numerous compromises could be effected.

BEST PLAN SO FAR

Lewis's offer was backed by telegraphic confirmation from Sidney N. Strotz, president of the Chicago Stadium Corporation, and its success seemed more probable than any other plan proposed so far. Lewis plans to stage the fight in Soldier Field, Chicago, in June. He believes the gate receipts at a top price of $12, would run over $1,000,000. It was in Soldier Field, where the seating capacity is over 100,000, that Dempsey and Tunney drew a $2,000,000 gate for their second battle.

Joe Jacobs, Schmeling's manager and recipient of the offer, had a good many problems to consider before he could reply to the first half-million bid since the days of Tex Rickard. Schmeling is bound by contract to the Hearst milk fund committee here in June, and this must be taken into consideration. If the commission edict stands, this battle must be against Sharkey, but neither the committee nor the Madison Square Garden Corporation appears interested in such a fight unless there is a preliminary tournament to stir up public interest.

MILK FUND MAY BENEFIT

Lewis offered to share 50 per cent of the proceeds with the milk fund and some Chicago charity, but the promoters of the charity show were inclined to turn a cold shoulder to the proposal yesterday. They preferred to do their own matchmaking, they said, and not share the proceeds.

In the face of the commission's insistence on Sharkey, however, this attitude may not last and the opinion was prevalent last night that the milk fund would join with Lewis in promoting the Chicago show. The boxing moguls may be persuaded to change their attitude, but it will take considerable trouble.

Death Notices

BUSHMAN—Suddenly on Tuesday, December 16, 1930, at 11 p. m. MRS. MINNIE J. BUSHMAN (nee Fresee) aged 44 years, beloved wife of W. C. Bushman, and mother of Ruth and Edgar Bushman. TIGER HEART -:- By Robert Terry Shannon

Astonished by Jim's Views, Connie Bans Marriage

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

On the eve of her marriage to handsome Jim Tracey, vivacious Connie Calvert, rich society girl, receives a letter which causes her to leave her palatial home in Connecticut on a mysterious automobile drive to New York. Jim sees her. Connie stops at a cheap restaurant on the West Side and waits for someone. The letter threatens to expose Connie. A man approaches Connie and introduces himself as Duke Garson. He tells Connie her late father was married twice and that she has a half-sister, Kitty, living in poverty among gangsters. Connie asks to meet her. When she does, Kitty tries to blackmail her. Kitty and Garson tell Connie that they want $100,000 from her. She says she will not give it. Later Connie consents. Kitty agrees to wait for the money until after the wedding. Connie tells Kitty that she wants to be a real sister to her, inviting her to go to the Calvert home. Kitty declines the invitation. Connie goes to see Jim and explain the circumstances. He objects to her plans.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XII.

Jim Tracy's attitude struck a fire of resentment in Connie in the matter of human decency. Of sympathy and understanding and justice, he seemed utterly without feeling. The money involved appeared to be his only concern.

"I'm astonished at you, Jim," she told him, in sincere suspense.

"Because I don't let myself be swept away by silly sentimentality? You can't give your money to every beggar that comes along—even if, in this case, she happens to be your sister. Suppose your father did make a low-class marriage when he was a young man, chances are he did enough for the woman when he married her. He was probably trapped into it. And this girl, what has she made of herself? From what you say, she's just, practically, a common criminal—or worse. Believe me, she's not going to get a dime of our money!"

Jim Is Angered

Connie checked a laugh. OUR money! Jim Tracy himself certainly had no money worth talking about—but that part was all right; she didn't blame him for being poor and spending his income to keep up appearances. She had always wanted him, generously, to participate in her comparative wealth. Indeed, there had been times when he had spoken of his humiliation at marrying a wealthy girl when he himself was poor. But now he was coldly taking charge of all her assets.

"I don't intend that she shall ever take a penny from any money you have," Connie told him, quietly. "I'm speaking of money that comes to me from my father's estate. She certainly has as much right to it—and other things besides money—as I have."

"Don't be a fool!"

"I'm sorry, Jim. That's the way I feel about it, though, and nothing you can say will change me."

"You mean to tell me that you think more of this girl than you do of me? Here I rack my brains figuring out a way to handle our money and invest it, and you come in at the last minute, 'Oh, Jim, we've got to whack up with an outsider who says she's my sister. You're only my husband—you haven't got a word to say about it.' I suppose you're figuring on bringing her along on our honeymoon trip, too?"

Connie's jaws had been clamped. When she spoke, her lips, which had been compressed, relaxed only slightly.

"I certainly intend to treat her like a real sister. How it will turn out—I don't know; but I'm going to have her live with me for a while."

"Of all the insane ideas—"

"She's my sister," Connie said, steadily. "I've made up my mind once and for all, Jim, and nothing you can say will alter it. I come to you tonight thinking you would feel exactly as I do about it. Your advice, I thought, would help me to find a way to do it. I can't go to mother and tell her this whole terrible story straight out. It's already a strain enough on her to see her only daughter married; but there is a way, and a right and decent way, to do the fair and square thing. It's simply got to be done, Jim, and I can't believe that you don't agree with me. It's a question of honor, but it can't be dodged."

He gave a short, sarcastic laugh.

"How about honoring your husband's viewpoint; that's a question of honor, too, isn't it? No, the trouble with you, you are an emotional girl, and I see right now that I've got to protect you from yourself. I simply must put my foot down and refuse to let this thing go any further. There's too much money at stake, and after your mother dies there'll be a lot more. Can't you see it?"

No Marriage

She did not answer him at once. She was conscious of the most disconcerting feeling about him. She was milling around in her mind. The thought came to her bewilderingly that, in spite of her engagement to Jim Tracy, she knew so little about his inner self. She had not imagined he would be like this at all. In her mind she had always pictured him a genial and charming and delightful person. Along with those virtues she had imagined went the sturdier qualities.

"There's no use arguing this, Connie," he went on. "Our job in life is to make each other happy, and there would be no happiness for us if you try to rule this roost."

"There's no happiness for us," she reminded him, "if you can't tell the difference between right and wrong. I took you on faith up until now, Jim. I believed in you and was willing to trust my whole life in your hands; but you've shown yourself a different sort from the man I was to marry."

A startled look came into his face.

"Come here, dear—" His arms started to encircle her. "You're all tired and worn out—"

But she put a restraining hand on his shoulder and held him away. Slowly, she shook her head.

"Jim, let's not ruin each other's lives. I thought you were different. We see each other now in our true lives—and it can't go on—it just can't be—"

"You don't know what you're saying!" he cried, excitedly.

"I know what I'm saying and I know the truth about each of us, only too well. You're still dear to me, Jim—but there's something missing. Whatever it is, it's fatal—we can't be married tomorrow."

Suddenly, she felt as though a great weight had been lifted from her mind . . . from her heart . . .

DAILY TRUE STORY

Girl Proof!

"Who is that young Olympian god Vic has just dragged in?" Tessa Harlan asked her sister, Mrs. Bristow.

Tessa was back from a successful run in London with her musical comedy. Her sister was nonprofessional. She was giving a sort of informal party for Tessa.

Victor Orth, who wrote books and lyrics of Tessa's new show just going in rehearsal, came over with the young Olympian god.

"Miss Harlan, I want you to meet Mr. Dalton, he—"

"Delighted, Mr. Dalton—so good of Vic to bring you along," Tessa said, interrupting all formality in the introduction.

They chatted for a few minutes. Tessa did nine-tenths of the chatting, until some new arrivals took her away from him.

When the chance came she rushed to Vic Orth.

"Vic," she cried, "just who is he—your Mr. Dalton I mean?"

"Dwight Dalton—writes, swell chap."

"Swell? He is perfectly gorgeous. What does he write? Wise me up so I can talk shop with him."

"Don't tell him I told you about that. He uses the name of Claude Carlton and objects to being lionized. If you want to interest him, tell him some lively incidents of social life in London."

"Thanks a lot—he just swept me off my feet to look at him, and so girl shy. If there's one rare and valuable thing in life it is a young man these days who is girl shy."

"Girl shy?"

Vic Orth stared at Tessa Harlan in amazement.

"Absolutely. Never saw a more unsophisticated young man. But never mind, I'll soon have him trained."

"Ha! That's a hot one! Dwight Dalton girl shy!" Vic laughed again. "Listen, Tessa, Dwight is positively girl-proof. He isn't at all afraid of girls. They bore him. He is the most sophisticated young man I know. Not only do girls bore him, they make him good and tired—girls of all ages from 16 to 66 have literally thrown themselves at him and he is adamant."

Becomes Angry

"Watch me," Tessa boasted.

Tessa used all of her arts on Dwight Dalton, and her arts were wonders.

The third time she had a chance for some words with young Mr. Dalton was out in her sister's kitchen. She had asked him to come out and help her bring in some drinks. Once out there Tessa turned to him.

Tessa whispered huskily and used her eyes in the old-time manner that had never failed to bring men to the point of worshipping her. To make doubly sure, she leaned against him, rested her head on his shoulder, reached one hand up and ruffled his hair, at the same time pursing her lips for a kiss.

Young Mr. Dwight Dalton looked down coldly at her. His shy, embarrassed manner was gone. He patted his lips to stifle a yawn, without even apologizing. Then he took her by her shoulders and gently moved her away from him.

"For Pete's sake, woman, be your age!"

He walked out of the kitchen, leaving Tessa Harlan gasping with surprise and anger.

When she came out of the kitchen Vic was standing near.

"Lassoed him yet?" he asked her.

"Why, the cheap, swellheaded fool—I wouldn't—I wouldn't ——"

She was so angry that she couldn't go on.

The next day Dalton dropped in to see the younger Mr. Burton, junior member of the concern that has published his last four novels and was getting out a fifth.

"You can get me here," he said.

Mr. Burton read the address, "Care of Ezra Smith, Bayport."

"Going in for peace and quiet, and the study of types of sweet, timid, unsophisticated country girls. I am going especially to get away from these so-and-so dames who are such dumb Doras as to hurl themselves at me. When I grab a girl I want to have to reach for her. I don't want her to be hanging around my neck waiting for an introduction—only I'm not grabbing any girl."

Girl Frightened

"Girlproof, eh?"

"Absolutely, Old Man, and you ought to know it by now."

"I do know it. I am amazed at your insight into the wiles of the femmes and I envy you your ability to always steer clear."

Bayport boasted of no hotel. If the village had had one it is a safe bet it wouldn't be the sort to boast about. Ezra Smith had been recommended by the postmaster. Dwight Dalton drove down there and found the place.

"What's your business, young feller?" he asked Dalton.

"I am connected with book publishing, Mr. Smith."

"Lit'rary, huh? The sixteen a week will be in advance."

"Thanks for the laugh, Mr. Smith," and Dalton paid him.

Ezra Smith's daughter, Mary, who had seen 20 summers and a great many other things, was stealing a "look-over" of the boarder through the crack in the partly opened door. She went out to the kitchen, where her mother was cooking.

"Holy cats, ma—the new boarder is positively the answer to a maiden's prayer!"

"Land sakes, Mary—are you serious?"

"Watch me!"

Mrs. Smith sighed.

"If he's half as good as he looks, I want him."

Dalton was fixing some books, pipes and other male comforts on the table in the cheerful front chamber when he heard a sweet little voice singing. The voice was approaching, along with the singer.

"Oh, don't you remember sweet Alice, Ben Bolt—"

Mary stepped into the room.

"Sure, I knew her well," Dalton remarked.

Mary Smith cried, "Oh—oh, my goodness!"

Her hand went up toward where her heart was supposed to be located.

Her pretty face turned crimson, her eyes widened with timid surprise, then she smiled faintly, just enough to make the dimples in her cheeks noticeable.

"Oh, my, I didn't know—"

Dwight Dalton stepped to the open door just in time to see her running down stairs.

"I'm a son-of-a-gun if she wasn't afraid of me!" he said to himself.

"Mary, this here's Mr. Dalton—the feller come to board with us for a spell—Mary's my daughter," Ezra added, to Dalton.

"How do you do, Miss Smith?" Dwight said, politely enough.

Mary flashed him one timid glance and looked down at her plate.

For three weeks Dalton didn't exchange a dozen words with Mary except at table. Then, one night, Mrs. Smith said: "It's a shame the car's busted down. You'll have to give up seeing that picture show over to the Cove."

"Oh, dear," Mary said, mildly.

"Look here, if your parents will trust me, I'd like to take you," Dalton said.

"Go ahead. I ain't afraid you'll elope—"

"Mother—er!"

Marries Mary

And two weeks later Dalton missed the novel he was reading. He went down to the parlor to see if he had left it there.

Mary was curled up on the big sofa, under a red lamp shade, reading his book.

"Oh, dear—it's such a marvelous book—and I kept you waiting—how can I apologize?" Mary whispered.

"You shall pay a forfeit—it will cost you one kiss!" Dalton said as he sat down beside her.

"Oh—no—you mustn't," Mary whispered.

But he did, and repeated it, and, finally Mary got so that she didn't cringe with fright.

When Ezra Smith went up to bed that night he spoke to his wife.

"Dalton asked me if he could marry Mary—ain't you plumb surprised, Ma?"

"Shucks, no, Pa. Mary told me, the day he come here, that she intended marryin' him if he proved as good as he looked."

A $20,000 damage suit has been brought by Tilgman Good for injuries he suffered last May. He doesn't say exactly what happened to him, except that his nerves, tissues, bones, joints, cartilages and structures of the back, neck, spine, spinal cord, sacrum and hips were strained, stretched, pulled, separated, dislocated, fractured, made weak, sore, lame, irritated and inflamed and caused to lose their natural function, also the muscles, ligaments, bones, nerves and structures of his heart, chest and abdomen were strained, pulled, shocked, torn and separated. He has also lost control of his voice so he lisps. For this he wants $20,000. It certainly sounds like its worth it.

World Court Sidetracked

Worthy of its reputation as "the great committee of the Senate" is the action of the Committee on Foreign Relations in voting 10 to 9 against "playing politics with human misery" by injecting European politics in the shape of Mr. Hoover's World Court program into the consideration of problems here at home which demand the concentrated attention of all genuinely American statesmen.

Ten to 9 is the vote by which the committee refused to report the League Court treaties to the Senate at the short session, lest their consideration imperil the enactment of legislation urgently needed to relieve unemployment and solve other domestic problems.

That is the vote by which the committee postponed action upon these "complicated and obscure documents" until the first Wednesday after the Senate meets in December, 1931.

That is the vote by which the committee, acting as the agent of the treaty-making branch, has put the treaty-negotiating branch on notice that the immediate and imperative duty of the Federal government is the relief of human misery here at home and not, as Mr. Hoover and his fellow internationalists seem to think, the implication of this country in foreign entanglements.

Now that the Committee on Foreign Relations has courageously, wisely and patriotically sidetracked the League Court treaties for a year, both houses of Congress should concentrate their attention for the remainder of the short session upon national affairs under the leadership of genuine Americans.

Now is the time for senators and representatives in Congress, having repudiated the leadership of the internationalists at both ends of Pennsylvania avenue, to follow the advice of Theodore Roosevelt when he said:

"We have difficulties enough at home. Let us improve ourselves, lifting what needs to be lifted here, and let others do their own; let us attend to our own, keep our hearthstone swept and in order."

If Congress will devote the whole of the remainder of the short session to attending to the business of the American people, no time will be left for meddling in European affairs.

Radio to Aid Police

Council Is to Be Commended for Adopting at Last Plan Proved Useful In Other Cities.

City Council has done a wise thing in appropriating funds for a police radio broadcasting system by which the alarm instantly can be spread when a crime like the recent bank robberies has been committed.

The Sun-Telegraph proposed a police radio system a year ago, pointing out that the plan was being used successfully in Detroit and Chicago. In those cities a short wave station operating on a secret wave length broadcasts reports of holdups and the like to radio patrol cars.

More recently a Philadelphia commission on crime prevention recommended the adoption of a police radio system as the most effective thing that could be done there to combat criminals.

The Sun-Telegraph was sponsor for experiments made here with automobiles equipped with radio receiving apparatus, which proved how useful broadcasting could be to the police. Mayor Kline, Director Clark of the Public Safety Department and Supt. Walsh of the Police Bureau expressed approval of the plan at that time, but Council felt it could not afford the outlay necessary for installation of the system.

The Sun-Telegraph is gratified over the adoption of the plan, not so much because the Sun-Telegraph promoted it as because there is no doubt that it will help the police to catch criminals.

Watered Stock

Public Service Commission Should Have Authority to Regulate Utilities Security Issues.

Replying to the complaint of Solicitor Russell, of the Federal Power Commission, that the Pennsylvania Public Service Commission was derelict in its duty in not preventing issuance of watered stock by the Clarion River Power Company, Chairman Ainey, of the Commission, said it lacks the power to regulate security issues.

Russell comes back in rebuttal with the statement that Ainey once appeared before a United States Senate Committee and opposed a resolution for the investigation of a Pennsylvania power company on the ground that Pennsylvania could take care of the matter itself. The federal authorities made the investigation, nevertheless, Russell says, and found the company was receiving a return as high as 49 per cent on its invested capital.

Ainey again answers that the Commission lacks the power to regulate security issues.

Since there is doubt on the matter, the Legislature should clarify the law and give the Commission unquestionable authority to prevent stock watering by public utilities companies.

If the Commission is abolished, as Gov.-elect Pinchot proposes, the authority should be vested in some other branch of the state government.

Christmas Seals

Pittsburgh Has Conducted a Splendid Campaign Against Tuberculosis, and the Fight Must Go On.

Thanks to the funds raised by the annual sale of Christmas seals, Pittsburgh has conducted a magnificent campaign against tuberculosis in recent years and greatly reduced the mortality rate of the disease. Our rate is the lowest in the 13 largest cities of the country.

But the fight is not yet over. Tuberculosis still takes heavy toll of life here. Twenty-seven persons died of it in Pittsburgh last month.

That the campaign may continue further funds must be raised. The money is being raised this year, as usual, through the sale of seals. But they are not going so well as they should. Persons who have not yet replied to the letters sent out by the Tuberculosis League of Pittsburgh, containing seals, are requested to do so promptly, that the League may govern its arrangements accordingly.

Marry-Go-Round

Mrs. Solomon Says—

Come, my daughter! Sit not in the seat of the Scornful; but rejoice with the Foolish and be gay with the Youthful, in this Season of Folly!

For Prudence and Wisdom are not part of the Holiday Spirit. And the Foolish shall continue to laugh and be merry, when the Wise are only a memory!

Go to. Without the FOOLISH, how should the Wise continue to thrive and wax fat? And to spend their Winters in Florida and their Summers upon the Riviera?

For lo, should the Simple and the Foolish perish from the face of the earth, wherewith would the toy shops and the gift shops be filled at Christmas time, and the makers of invisible hose and patent cigar lighters continue to buy imported cars?

Alas, were it not for the optimists and the dreamers, how should the venders of mistletoe and magic candles and holly wreaths buy bread and dine upon turkey and cranberry sauce?

Behold, without the fatuous and the credulous, whereon would the Beauty Parlors continue to flourish? And the lifters of chins and the peelers of faces to wear purple and fine linen and to buy their hats in Paris?

* * *

Yea, were it not for the Dumbbells and the Dimwits, how should the makers of jazz and the players of saxophones and the crooners of love-songs escape starvation?

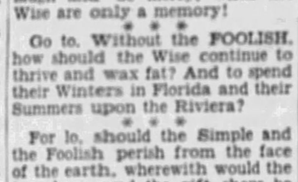
Were it not for the moon-struck youth who seeketh to appear a "spender" among women, and the fatuous Old Boy who yearneth to shine among flappers and gold-diggers, would not florists and jewelers be forced to sell their limousines and to travel in street cars?



And HOW should the confession magazines continue to make fortunes and the newspapers to be filled with enticing headlines and spicy news, but for the dementia of lovers, the madness of joy-riders, the follies of husbands, the indiscretion of wives, the sins of the sapheads and the silliness of the fat-witted?

Then, mock not the Foolish and flout not the frivolous! For upon the vanity of weak women and the weakness of vain men; upon the giddiness of the rash and the rashness of the giddy; upon the extravagance of the stupid and the credulity of the simple, are builded all the fortunes and the prosperity of the Wise!

* * *

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—That block of West Sixty-seventh street, running directly off Central Park West, is where art flourishes with a big A. The keystone of the district is the Hotel des Artistes, ramparted almost solidly with studio buildings. It hives more artists than Montmartre.

They are not the long-haired dreamers gnawing crusts in garrets but the short-haired producers who stir out of sleep for cold showers and work ten hours a day in tapestried hung salons. In off hours they ride to hounds across squelching turfs, go top-hatted to the play and otherwise live in a world of superlatives.

Dour-faced and fussily deferential butlers greet the visitor with stiff-necked bows. Inside are those vast high ceiled rooms with romantic balconies and the glint of enormous open fire places shimmers on silvered tea things. The whole effect is suppressed dignity, like a drawing room scene in a Mayfair drama.

In such settings will be found Harrison Fisher, a study in gray from hair to spats, and whose girls peep at you from magazine covers. Too, Neysa McMein, suggesting the lanquid pastel beauties she glorifies. And Russell Patterson, the sartorial Greek god of the quarter.

James Montgomery Flagg, a keen artist in any medium—including conversation—lives there. As do Henry Raleigh, whose dramatic illustrations will make you read any story, and R. M. Brinkerhoff, who draws cartoons and illustrations with one hand and writes children's books with the other.

Everywhere genius piles upon genius. A few steps from where Fanny Hurst turns out best sellers live the commuting Paris-to-New York caricaturist Ralph Barton; Sally B. Farnum, the sculptress; Watson Barrett, stage designer; Frank V. DuMond, the painter, and Walter J. Enright, the cartoonist.

Also: The Daytons—Fred and Helena Smith; Alfred Cheney Johnson, photographer of beautiful stage ladies; Will Foster, who looks like Dante and can make oil paints say Papa; Konrad Bercovici, gypsy writer; Burton Holmes, Carolyn Wells, Wallace Morgan, F. Graham Cootes, J. Knowles Hare. And so on.

An auto at 47th and 7th avenue did not stop at the precise blast of the crossing cop's whistle. The scowling officer walked over to the chauffeur. "Listen you," he barked. "All letter carriers are home. This whistle means something."

* * *

A big and deserved reason for Phil Baker's popularity as a comique extraordinaire is one of shrewd psychology. He loads his "plant" in an upper box with choice gags and when they explode they singe Baker. The more utter ridiculous he is made to appear, the louder the howls. Every one likes to see the defeat of a smart guy.

For example: Baker remarks to his "plant" that a beautiful lady's phone number is "Regent 4166." The "plant" corrects with a withering "4167" which produces a roar and when it subsides Baker cries: "I ought to know it is Regent 4166. I called her up last night." To which the "plant" observes: "I know you did. I answered the phone."

And speaking of telephoning, someone—Morris Aleshire, I think—tells of watching a cross-eyed man with the palsy trying to turn in a fire alarm over a dial phone.

Early Discouragements of Samuel Morse

By Archibald Henderson

The history of invention is one of the most stirring of human stories, recording as it does the triumph of man over nature, the conquest of new domains by the ingenuity, patience and genius of the inventor. But many chapters are sad, and some are tragic—recording the brilliant ideas never carried to completion, the tentative beginnings which had no endings.

Many inventors have lost their entire fortunes, some have labored for years in poverty, others have even died of starvation. Samuel Morse, the inventor of the American telegraph, did not come in this latter catergory. Although he was once within 24 hours of starvation, he eventually won through all his difficulties and achieved a world-wide fame and success.

When he sought the support of foreign governments for his invention he met with virtual failure everywhere. But in the latter part of his career, when his system was in almost universal use, he was honored and rewarded by these same countries which had denied him in the hour of his need.

In 1858, when Morse was 67 years old, representatives of Austria, Belgium, France, Holland, Italy, Russia and Turkey, at the instance of Napoleon III, presented him with an international testimonial in the form of a gift of $400,000. Many honors and medals were conferred upon him during his latter years; and he enjoyed the distinction of witnessing the unveiling to him of a bronze statue in Central Park, New York, one year before his death, when he was 81 years old, on April 2, 1872.

Morse was one of the rare examples in history of the bipartite genius in both art and science. Born at Charlestown, Mass., on April 27, 1791, he early determined to become an artist, although he was much interested in electrical experiments while a student at Yale. Soon after graduation he made the acquaintance of the distinguished American artist, Washington Allston, and in 1811 accompanied Allston to England, where he studied under the famous master, Benjamin West, also an American.

After winning a gold medal and having his paintings exhibited at the Royal Academy, Morse after four years returned to this country, founding the National Academy of Design and becoming professor of arts in the University of the City of New York.

Following a second visit to Europe, where he remained three years, Morse once more returned to the United States, in 1832. It was on the return voyage that he conceived the idea of a recording telegraph, with an electro magnet as the basic feature of the proposed invention. He struggled on with his art and his teaching, in his spare moments working away upon his fascinating invention.

During the year 1836, the telegraph was born, in a room of the University of the City of New York. The following year the invention was considerably perfected, and successful demonstrations of its operation were given in New York.

In 1838, the Congressional Committee on Commerce reported favorably on making an appropriation; but it was necessary for his rights that his invention be patented in European countries before publication in the United States.

Morse went abroad in the interest of his invention, only to meet with disappointment at every turn. On his return, Congress made an appropriation of $30,000 on March 3, 1843, the last day of the expiring session. The first telegraph line in the United States was laid between Washington and Baltimore. The first message, deeply eloquent in its simplicity and reverence, was sent on May 24, 1844: "What God hath wrought"

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

The Scattered Campfire

Heaped stones, logs half burned through;
A boulder's rugged height behind;
Before, a widespread view.

Secure is this retreat,
The wind must temper here his will,
Here tempest meets defeat.

How lonely now the camp-site seems,
All tenantless and still,
Where yesterday were mirth and dreams
Upon this happy hill.

Yet those who built their camp-fire here,
Then scattered it and went,
Leave this mute message of their cheer,
Their hours of content.

Only white ashes on the wind,
Charred logs—and yet these still
Can prove how bravely love can find
Home on a barren hill!

Prohibitionists Will Shudder

But This Athlete Drinks Beer and Is HEALTHY.

WALKING 135 MILES WITH BEER HIS ONLY FOOD.

Here, ladies and gentlemen, and dear and deeply shocked prohibitionists, you behold something that seems at least a lusus naturae monstrous prodigy—or thing impossible. You may name it.

The Britisher, George Cummings, veteran athlete, winner of many long distance walking and running matches, is now crowding 70 years of age. Recently he walked from London to Burton-on-Trent, 135 miles. And throughout the journey the only nourishment, liquid or solid, that he took was the beer that Burton-on-Trent produces.

There is located the famous brewery which belonged to Mrs. Thrale, widow of the brewer, and friend of the great Samuel Johnson, who said, when the brewery was sold, that it represented "the potentiality of growing rich beyond the dream of avarice."

This picture shows the British athlete on his long walk receiving a mug of beer from a kind lady who is obliged to trot in order to keep up with his walk. He drank as he walked, and when asked if he wanted some other nourishment he said, "No, give me more beer."

What do you suppose the prohibitionists would say about that?

They, as you know, insist that beer is just as bad as whisky, in spite of the fact that millions drink beer without becoming drunk.

If a prohibitionist ever says to you, "Beer is just as bad as whisky," tell him this:

"I will rub a little pure beer in my eye; let me see you rub the same amount of whisky into your eye. After that let me see you walk 135 miles, taking nothing but pure whisky on the way. You will drop with delirium tremens in the middle of your walk, and one of your eyes will be red and much inflamed."

Nevertheless, you understand, we do not approve of this pure beer diet. There is reason in everything else. And in ordinary life, much less beer, preferably none at all if you have great strength of mind, with good beef, mutton, green vegetables, vitamine containing fruits, are much to be preferred. For a very long walk, however, when it is difficult to digest solid food, this beer idea might not be so bad.

But don't try it on the American brand of "needled beer," denatured beer, all alcohol taken out of it, and then denatured alcohol, full of poison, pumped into it.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

"How do you manage," says she, "to write with the same enthusiasm?"

That's easy, lady—I don't!

There are days and days when I haven't any more enthusiasm than a bread poultice. I'm not sad. I'm not sick. I'm just flop—that's all. Which is a perfectly natural condition for all healthy live stock. But when I first began columning, this condition threw me into a panic. I had the usual ga-gan-ideas about authors. I thought they had to be vibrating with the creative urge or they couldn't write for shucks. And I had to go through plenty of grief before I realized that writing was a job like any other and that, regardless of my moods, I had to keep plugging and go through the motions.

Just what does that imply? That implies that rain or shine, peevish or palpitating, I sit down at my desk at 8:30 a. m., and stay there until 5:30 p. m.

"Isn't it perfectly wonderful to sit down all day and just write Lovely Thoughts?"

Stop it! One more word like that outta you and I'll scream! It is not lovely to stay there. It is maddening and revolting. I could murder, from sheer envy, those lucky ones who earn their three square digging ditches or sweeping streets. Anything to move around. I could, and do weep big, wet tears of self pity all over myself. But—no matter how I seethe or sob—there I sit until my job is done.

For that's the way writing arrives—not by feeling flighty but by sitting tight and going through the motions. Ninety-nine out of out hundred of the motions are a flop—ninety-nine out of one hundred of the words are a mess. But little by little you build—the thought takes shape—If you can stay on that chair seat long enough, you're bound to win.

And that, I suspect, is the secret of all serious achievement. Which is something the present generation has yet to learn.

Time was when the first thing humans learned to do was to sit tight. Grandma at six bent over her sampler, with a crick in her neck and rebellion in her young soul. The sampler was rarely worth while but the sitting was. She had seventy years of disagreeable jobs ahead of her but they weren't going to get her goat. She had learned to sit tight through disagreeable jobs.

She had sorrow ahead of her, too, pain and confusion and cruel tests and, what is much harder to bear, grinding monotony. She would often be bewildered and desperate—yet she would carry on and win out, somehow: For she had learned to go through the motions.

But nowdays the emotions, not the motion, is the thing. Unless we can feel excited and whizz-bang about a job, we're off it. Away we go, looking for something new—dropping it the moment our enthusiasm wanes. Which is, of course, the most bonehead play we could possibly make. Enthusiasm never stays at flood tide in any job. Nine-tenths of any work is cold-blooded plugging. And the majority of the time a genius gets no more kick out of his program than a dishwasher.
